NEGROES HOSTILE TO B. T. WASHINGTON

Demonstration at Afro-American Council in Louisville.

He Speaks on Lynching, Counsels Patience, and Says Negro Idleness and Crime Should Cease.

LOUISVILLE, July 2.—The Afro-American Council to-day elected officers, with T. Thomas Fortune as President.

The election was not accomplished until after a stormy debate for more than an hour. There was lively objection also to placing the picture of Booker T. Washington on the stage, but the delegates were pacified by the bringing out of a large painting of J. C. Price, a Southern educator, now dead, and placing it beside the Washington canvas. The differences arose over a factional fight between the industrial, the higher education, and the political divisions in the gathering, but the industrial element won.

The first sign of dissention came when Fannie Williams of Chicago read the report of the Literary Bureau, in which she treated principally of Booker Washington and his work.

Just as she finished and Mr. Washington himself was seen to enter the hall a man stepped from the wings and placed a large oil painting of Booker Washington on the stage. This aroused the New England delegates, W. H. Ferris of Boston asking permission to speak. President Fortune declared, however, that the hour for adjournment had arrived. He permitted a white delegate, however, to advise the colored people to request President Roosevelt to ask Congress to cut down Southern representation in Congress, and the meeting adjourned for the day.

At the afternoon session Delegate Ferris wanted to know why the picture of Washington was on the platform with a picture of Tuskegee Institute, while there were no pictures of colleges established by other denominations or champions of political rights. He objected in a fiery speech. President Fortune explained that the presence of the picture was merely an incident, it having been painted by a negro woman of Louisville, and he characterized the action as unmanly and unfortunate. In a few minutes the picture of J. C. Price, founder of Livingston College, North Carolina, was brought out and placed beside the painting of Washington.

Much of the hostility shown toward Washington in the Council is due to the charge that he is creating sentiment against the higher education of the negro.

The greatest excitement of the session, however, was caused when the report of the nominating committee was heard. There were two reports, the majority report by T. T. Scott of Louisiana for President and Rev. A. E. Carey of New Jersey for Secretary. The majority report was objected to because the name of Mr. Hayes of Virginia was not on it. The motion to adopt the majority report, naming T. Thomas Fortune as President, was then put and the report was adopted by a vote of 191 to 1.

After immense applause Mr. Washington to-night delivered an address. He said that such regrettable events as some section will cause the race to pause to show that fresh law is not confined to any one section of the country. These events, he said, tend to simplify the race problem by making it National. He appealed to the negro for calm and exercise self-control. The fact that a feeling of anxiety and almost despair which possesses an element of the race, there are two things I wish to say as strongly as I may:

First—Let no man of the race become discouraged or hopeless. There are in this country, North and South, who want to see that justice is meted out to the race. Such a man is Judge Jones of Alabama, to whom more credit should be given for blotting out the infamous system of peonage than to any other man.

Second—Let us keep before us the fact that, almost without exception, every race or nation that has ever got upon its feet has done so through struggle and trial and persecution.

No one should seek to close his eyes to the fact that the race is passing through a critical period of its development, a period that calls for the use of our ripest thought and sober judgment.

"Let nothing lead us into extremes of utterance or action. It is, in the long run, the race or individual that exercises the most patience, forbearance, and self-control in the midst of trying conditions that wins its cause. Let nothing induce us to descend to the level of the mob. In advocating this policy I am not asking that the negro act the coward; we are not cowards. The part we have played in defending the flag of the country is sufficient evidence of our courage.

"The recent outbreaks of the mob emphasized two lessons, one for our race and one for the other citizens of our country, South and North, for it is to be noted that the work of the lyncher is not confined to any section of the country. The lesson for us is that we should see to it that, so far as the influence of parent, school, or pulpit is concerned, no effort be spared to impress on our own people that lawless and criminal crimes will not be allowed; let the world know on all proper occasions that we consider no legal punishment too severe for the wretch of any race who attempts to outrage a woman.

"The lesson for the other portion of the nation to learn is the boldness with which, in the execution of the name law should be made to apply to the negro as to the white man. There should be meted out equal justice to the black man and the white man. Whenever the Nation forgets, or is tempted to forget the principles established by the fathers of government for both the white and the black man is threatened with destruction. This is true whether it relates to conditions in Texas, Indiana, or Delaware. It is with a nation as with an individual—whatever we sow that shall we also reap. If we sow crime we shall reap lawlessness."

BAR HARBOR TAX LIST.

Special to The New York Times.

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 2.—In the tax list which the Assessors of Bar Harbor have just completed the highest tax assessed against any individual or corporation is that against George W. Vanderbilt of New York. Mr. Vanderbilt pays to the village each year $3,200 for the three cottages which he has built along the shore on the Cromwell's Harbor Road, and one of which is this year occupied by L. Z. Leiter of Washington.

Of the 250 cottage owners who come here in Summer, 125 pay more than $200 in taxes, while many of them pay near or over $1,000. George B. Dorr ranks next to Mr. Vanderbilt, paying $2,300. A. C. Garnes of New York, who owns one of the most beautiful cottages here, pays $1,309. Charles T. Hoy, one of the pioneer cottagers from New York, contributes $1,263.90, while George S. Bowdoin, one of J. Pierpont Morgan's partners is taxed $990. John S. Kennedy of New York is taxed $2,280 on his cottage, Kenneden Lodge, and its surroundings. Joseph Pulitzer pays $2,198 for his property down on the ocean drive. John J. Emery is down on the list for $1,878. Edgar T. Scott of Philadelphia heads the Quakers with a tax of $2,483, while Congressman Morrell of Philadelphia pays $1,068 and Charles Allen Porter of that place $1,133. Robert F. Bowler of Philadelphia contributes $1,176 and President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railroad pays $900. J. Montgomery Sears of Boston pays $1,200.

TEXAS SUES LABOR MEN FOR BOYCOTTING BUILDING.

Effort to Apply Anti-Trust Law to Unions Which Acted Against "Unfair" Employer.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 2.—Attorney General C. K. Bell and District Attorney Carlos Ree have filed suit in the District Court against Paul Steffler, Acting President of the San Antonio Trades Council; Walton Peteet, Acting Secretary of the same body; Frank Van Riper, Vice President of Electrical Workers' Union No. 60 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and several other union officers, for $5,000 penalties for violation of the Texas anti-trust law in the boycotting of the new Herff building.

The boycott was the result of Ferdinand Herff, Sr., the owner of the building, giving the contract for the electrical work therein to A. H. Schaffer, who has been on the "unfair list" of the unions. This suit is of importance, as it involves the legality of boycotting by labor men.

The section of the anti-trust law under which the suit is brought makes it an offence "where two or more people, firms, corporations or associations of persons shall agree to boycott or threaten to refuse to buy from or sell to any person, firm, corporation or association of persons for buying from or selling to other persons, firm, corporation or association of persons."

The punishment for violation of this law is a penalty of $50 a day for the duration of the offence, or imprisonment for one year in the penitentiary.

On account of the severity of the punishment the Attorney General and District Attorney decided that it would be better not to proceed by indictment owing to the difficulty in obtaining a conviction, especially when the main result—the restoration of the rights of the law—could be effected by civil proceedings. The latter method has the additional advantage of an appeal by the State. There has been a wide divergence of opinion among lawyers as to whether this law applies to labor unions.

This is thought to be the first case in the United States in which a State has proceeded against labor unions. The remedy has usually been by injunction, at the instance of the aggrieved individual. The present petition filed prays for an injunction restraining the defendants from further interference with rights of Ferdinand Herff, Sr., owner of the boycotted building, and from further conspiracies against the citizens of the State of Texas.

STRIKE VICTIM DEAD.

Thomas Mullen, the Chicago Molder Assaulted Sunday, Succumbs to His Injuries.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Thomas Mullen, the molder who was assaulted by strikers of his craft Sunday, died to-day of his injuries. Three men are being sought for by the Sheffield Avenue police in connection with the assault, which occurred almost in front of the victim's home, Clybourn and Wrightwood Avenues. All three are supposed to have left the city and taken refuge out of the State. The police, however, assert they know the fugitives.

Mullen was a molder employed in the branch plant of the Illinois Malleable Iron Works. He refused to obey the order of the union molders to join their organization and quit work. Several times Sunday he was approached by men who, it is said, requested that he quit work and join the ranks of the strikers. He was almost in front of his home when three men accosted him. After a few words had been spoken one of the three, it is said, struck Mullen in the face. He retaliated and was then struck a blow from behind, which felled him.

Julius Blandt, the cashier of the Kellogg Switchboard Supply Company, who was also severely beaten by strikers Sunday, is still in a serious condition, and the officers of the company have redoubled their efforts to bring those guilty of the assault on him to justice.

CAUGHT IN THE MACHINERY.

Clothes Torn Off Factory Hand's Body at Cooperstown, N. Y., but No Bones Broken.

Special to The New York Times.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., July 2.—While adjusting a belt which he had been mending, Ralph Burke, fifteen years old, an employe of the Fenimore Knitting Mill, was whirled around the shaft, which was making 150 revolutions a minute.

His clothes were caught, and every shred of clothing except his shoes was torn from his body before the machinery could be stopped. Not a bone in his body was broken, and seemingly his only injuries are a number of bad bruises. He will be at work again to-morrow.

SON KILLS FATHER IN OHIO.

Victim Was a Smallpox Patient and Murderer Was Quarantined.

CANAL DOVER, Ohio, July 2.—Dr. James Dixon was shot and instantly killed to-night by his son, Burt Dixon. Dr. Dixon was sick with smallpox, having contracted the disease while helping a daughter to escape quarantine. The son was confined in the house with his father under quarantine. The fact that the son, when arrested, was taken to the city prison caused great excitement and indignation.

THINK PORTO RICO GAINER.

Sentiment in the Island Regarding Settlement of Public Lands Question.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, July 2.—The details of the settlement of the Porto Rico public lands question have been received here and have created a better feeling, as it is believed that Porto Rico is a considerable gainer by it.

Acting Governor Hartzell says he is sure that the people of Porto Rico will agree that the President was guided only by the best and most conservative judgment, after a patient consideration of all the needs concerned.

The prospects of an enlargement of the fortifications, a new marine hospital, many army and navy improvements of great value and new Federal buildings promise a general boom in Porto Rico.

San Francisco Lighting Combination.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 2.—Claus Spreckles has sold the Independent Gas Light and Power Company and the Independent Electric Light Company plants and franchises to a local syndicate which has been working for consolidation of all the lighting companies of San Francisco, for $6,000,000. The completion of this deal brings all the gas and electric companies under one head, which will result in a great reduction of operating expenses.

ROOT ORDERS PROBING OF LITTAUER CONTRACTS

General Inquiry Into Purchase of Army Supplies to be Made.

Statute of Limitations Said to Act in Glove Matter, but Civil Proceedings May Be Taken.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Secretary Root has ordered an immediate investigation into the contracts for army gloves awarded to E. R. Lyon of New York City, and filled by him with goods purchased from the firm of which Representative Littauer is a member.

Nor will the inquiry stop there. The recent postal scandals have made the various departments sensitive to the suspicion of irregularity, and the Secretary of War has determined on a general investigation into the methods of purchasing supplies of every description for the army.

This decision was reached to-day after Mr. Root had a conference with Gen. Humphrey, Quartermaster General; Col. Patten, who is in charge of clothing supplies, and Gen. Davis, Judge Advocate General. The investigation will be to ascertain if any army officer has made contracts in violation of the statutes. The law forbidding members of Congress having any part or share in Government contracts or deriving any benefit from them is comprehensive. Another section, however, excepts a contract made with a corporation in which the Congressman has shares of stock.

Mr. Littauer has explained that his firm has been supplying gloves to Mr. Lyon for more than twenty years, and that Mr. Lyon has been a contractor for furnishing gloves and similar outfittings for the army for that period. The fact that the Littauers were manufacturers of gloves has been well known to the Quartermaster's Department, but the declaration is made by officers of that department that the glove makers have never appeared as contractors, nor have they attempted to influence the department in the awarding of contracts.

Some allegations have been made that the glove contract was let to Lyon even after a lower bid had been made, but this could not be verified at the department.

It is said at the War Department that no matter what may be the outcome of this matter, the Statute of Limitations will lie against any criminal prosecution, but this will not prevent civil proceedings for the restitution of money involved in the contract.

TELLS OF LUDINGTON LETTER.

Representative Littauer Says He Proposed Calling on General to Explain Failure to Fill Orders.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., July 2.—Representative Littauer's attention to-day was called to the letter which he wrote to Lyon on May 18, 1898, in which he said: "Do you think it advisable that I should call on Ludington in reference to any other than the standard gauntlets?"

Mr. Littauer explained that at that time Mr. Lyon had demanded the highest possible deliveries on the contracts he had placed with Littauer Brothers, and they were unable to furnish sufficient quantities. Lyon asked that samples be sent him of any similar gauntlets which Littauer Brothers might have on hand, or would be able to produce more rapidly than they could the United States Army standard.

In his letter of May 18 Mr. Littauer, after detailing his stock on hand available for such purposes, made the reference to Ludington as quoted. He said that he offered the suggestion in regard to seeing Ludington so that he might be able to explain to the Quartermaster General that it would be impossible for his firm to furnish the contractor, Mr. Lyon, with a greater quantity of the standard gauntlet, and that if the necessities of the Government required more it would be compelled to take some substitute article. He never did speak to Gen. Ludington, however, concerning this matter, he declared.

SYRACUSE, July 2.—Major Gen. Marshall L. P. Ludington, retired, who is mentioned in Representative Littauer's letter to Lyon, the contractor, at his home in Skaneateles, read the account of the Lyon bankruptcy proceedings, and said:

"I can throw little light on the matter. The transactions occurred during the busiest part of the war, when I was loaded down with work. The bids were received by the Depot Quartermaster at Philadelphia and forwarded to my office, where they were opened and awarded to the lowest bidder, except in some cases where it was necessary that the goods should be delivered immediately.

"I knew Mr. Lyon as a Government contractor. Mr. Littauer I knew also as a very pleasant and agreeable gentleman. I knew, also, that the Littauers were Washington, that he was a manufacturer of gloves, but, of course, I never knew that he was interested with Mr. Lyon in business or that he had any connection with him.

"Concerning the intimation that Mr. Littauer's influences in the War Department the General said:

"That is absurd. Mr. Littauer could have no influence in such a matter."

"In one of Congressman Littauer's letters there is this phrase," the reporter said: "'Do you think it advisable that I should call on Ludington?' Did Mr. Littauer ever call on you in the matter?"

"Not in connection with any glove contract. This is the first time that I have heard or read of his name being connected with any contract for gloves or of his being connected in any way with Mr. Lyon. I certainly never knew of any such connection."

POSTAL DEFICIT INCREASED.

It Is $4,617,203 for the Fiscal Year Just Closed as Against $2,961,170 Last Year.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Capt. Castle, the Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department, to-day made the official estimate that the postal deficiency for the fiscal year just closed will be $4,617,203. The deficit for the previous fiscal year was $2,961,170. This big increase is attributed to the enormous increase in expenditures for the rural free delivery service during the past year.

The receipts of the Postal Service for the year were $134,208,040 and the expenditures $138,883,812. The deficiency in the free delivery service is not yet definitely known beyond the estimate made weeks ago to the Postmaster General that it would be $227,000 by the close of the fiscal year. The deficiency, however, may prove considerably larger than that figure.

LANDVOIGT CASE CONSIDERED.

Postmaster General Looking Into Allegations Reflecting on Mr. Madden's Division.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Postmaster General Payne has taken under advisement the statements of Third Assistant Madden and of Mr. Landvoigt, Superintendent of classification in the Third Assistant's office, by which it is shown that Mr. Landvoigt's son, a young man recently out of school and a little past twenty-one is employed by the General Manifold Company at Franklin, Penn., at a salary of $2,000 a year.

Mr. Payne regards the matter as reflecting unfavorably on Landvoigt, who has been instrumental from the start in getting the contract for the Manifold Company. The salary seems out of proportion, considering the man's capabilities, and he does not seem to have gone through an eight years' apprenticeship, as did Norman Metcalf, the son of the removed chief of the money order service, who was employed at $2,200 a year by a New York printing firm that had the contract to print money order blanks.

The feature of the matter that is held to be especially reprehensible is that Mr. Madden knew the fact that young Landvoigt was employed by the Manifold Company, and did not advise the Postmaster General until after the publication of the facts in the newspapers.

RAT EXPOSED POSTAL THEFTS.

From the Hole in Which It Disappeared Were Taken Stolen Registered Letters—Two Arrests.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—As the result of a chase after a rat at Seventeenth and Filbert Streets on Wednesday, evidence was obtained which led the United States Postal Inspectors to engage in a hunt after three men suspected of stealing valuable registered letters from the mails. The rat escaped, but two men, Bertram Laycock and his brother, Albert Laycock, of 2020 Filbert Street, were less fortunate and fell into the trap set for them. Much importance is attached by Postal Inspectors to the capture of the Laycocks, owing to the amount of valuable mail they handled every day.

Bertram was employed by the Pneumatic Transit Company as an operator of tubes at the sub-Post Office in the Broad Street Station, and Albert was employed in a similar capacity at the Central Post Office. More than 2,000,000 letters pass through the tubes daily. Some of the letters the Laycocks are accused of taking, and which the Postal Inspectors say they confessed to stealing, were addressed to A. J. Cassatt, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad; John Wanamaker, and William J. Thompson.

The rat that figured in the case ran across Filbert Street toward the arches of the elevated tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad. T. J. McCarthy, foreman of the tool room of the Bell Telephone Company, gave chase. Seeing a large rat-hole, he thrust in a stick. No rat appeared, but when the stick was pulled out it brought with it two letters.

McCarthy saw that they were registered and addressed to J. Cassatt and William J. Thompson. Again inserting the stick the man brought forth three more letters, all registered. McCarthy notified Chief Dickson of the Postal Inspectors. Suspicion fell upon Bertram Laycock, and a decoy letter containing money was prepared and mailed. His arrest followed, and to-day Commissioner Craig held the prisoner. It was after the capture of Bertram that suspicion fell on his brother. Albert's room was visited and registered letters were found. According to the Inspectors he made a confession in which he implicated another man.

"BARON" BARRINGTON HELD.

Bogus Nobleman Held to Answer for Murder in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, July 2.—The inquest into the supposed murder of James P. McCann was opened to-day by Coroner Koch, and many witnesses were examined. The Coroner's jury returned a verdict of homicide, holding F. Seymour Barrington for the crime. The jury ascribed the death of the man identified as McCann to knife wounds and gunshot wounds. The evidence secured will be presented to the Grand Jury.

Mrs. Jessie McCann testified at length to-day, her testimony being to the effect that her husband and Barrington had gone from the former's home together on the night of June 18, saying they were going to Bonfils and that it was the last she saw of McCann. She said that Barrington made every endeavor later to persuade her not to inquire into her husband's absence.

Other testimony developed that Barrington had asked about bullet holes in the head found before it was known that there were such bullet holes.

Barrington was present at the inquest to-day and calmly took notes during the testimony of all the witnesses.

FEW STEAM ROAD TROUBLES.

Only Five Small Lines Failed in Obligation Since Jan. 1—Trolley Lines Worse Off.

CHICAGO, July 2.—It has been a poor year so far. The Railway Age will say in its issue to-morrow, for steam railway receivers, and the business of selling railways under foreclosure has also been remarkably dull. No steam railway company in the United States, operating as much as thirty miles of road, has become insolvent, and only five small lines, of from four to twenty-eight miles, which have failed to meet their interest obligations during the last six months. The whole record of receiverships from Jan. 1 to June 30 is as follows:

	Miles.	Bonded Debt.	Capital Stock.
Kilyn & Rockaway Beach..	4	$350,000	$150,000
Dakota, Wyo. & Mo. River..	6	100,000	100,000
Kusenas North & South..	28	450,000	450,000
Atlantic & Gulf.....	16	4,000,000
Ales. & Rich. Mountain..	21	50,000	75,000
Total of five roads.....	70	$5,010,000	$825,000

None of these roads can attribute its embarrassment to conditions affecting railways in general.

In the last six months only three roads were sold under judgment. Those were the Champaign and Southwestern, 11 miles; the Chicago and Southeastern, 127 miles, and the Berlin Branch, 7 miles.

The Champaign and Southwestern, for more than twenty years, has formed a part of the Wabash system, and the sale was purely formal. The little Berlin branch road, which has maintained a nominal existence since 1877, has for some years been operated by the Western Maryland. The Chicago and Southeastern has been operated under various names for twenty-five years. It will be absorbed by the Big Four.

Altogether these three concerns represent only 145 miles of road and $3,146,000 of bonds and stocks, while during the corresponding period of 1902 the foreclosure sales numbered 14, covering 249 miles of road and $12,707,000 of capitalization.

While receiverships and foreclosures of steam railways are scarce, for the present, at least, the financial misfortunes of electric railways come forward promihently.

At least five street railway companies have been placed in the hands of receivers since Jan. 1000. These have a total length of 277 miles of track, representing $27,658,000 of bonds and $26,400,000 of capital stock, a grand total of $53,058,000 of street railway securities placed in the hands of receivers in that period, in comparison with $5,845,000 of securities of steam roads in similar conditions. In addition to these a Pennsylvania traction company, operating 25 miles, made default last Spring in its interest obligations and asked an extension. Foreclosure sales of four electric lines, representing 117 miles of track and $6,836,000 of bonds and stocks has been made since the first of the year.

Missing Mountain Climbers Sighted.

CHAMONIX, Switzerland, July 2.—The relief party sent to search for the seven students of the Geneva University who have been missing since last Saturday, when they started on an ascension of Mount Blanc, has sighted four of the missing students, who were seen making signals of distress on the Dome du Gouter, 14,000 feet high. It is hoped to rescue them to-morrow. The whereabouts of the other climbers are unknown.

BUILDERS AND UNIONS TO DISCUSS PEACE

Civic Federation Conference to be Held To-day.

Over 41,000 Workingmen to be Represented at the Session—Plasterers' Move in Other Cities Fails.

Outside of the officers of the unions in the building trades which are concerned in the present shut-down of work, the vast rank and file of the unions are counting the hours up to the time the struggle ends. It was learned yesterday that this army of workers, who have been thrown into idleness through no aggressive act on their part, are looking forward anxiously to the coming meeting of the representatives of the unions and of the members of the Building Trades Employers' Association, which will take place to-day under the auspices of the Conciliation Committee of the New York Civic Federation. The Board of Governors of the Employers' Association has offered the use of its rooms for the purpose, and the conference will begin in the Townsend Building, 1,123 Broadway, at 2:30 P. M.

The Civic Federation will be represented by its Chairman, Emerson McMillin, and its Secretary, Samuel B. Donnelly.

The representatives of trades in the Employers' Association who will attend the conference will attend as individuals. The object of the Civic Federation is to bring both sides together in the belief that it will lead to a better understanding of the questions at issue and to a disposition on both sides to meet half way.

John R. Commons, statistician of the Civic Federation, said that fourteen unions have elected three delegates each to attend the conference to-day. These unions, however, are very large, and representative, and four others equally representative had not come to a decision in the matter yesterday. These twelve unions and the number of workers they represent will each send three representatives to the conference, none of them being walking delegates:

Brotherhood of Carpenters' Society	10,000
Amalgamated Carpenters' Society	2,500
Brotherhood of Painters	4,000
Amalgamated Painters' Society	1,500
Granite Cutters' Union	1,000
Electrical Workers' Union	1,000
Mosaic Workers' Union	1,000
Cement Workers' Union	500
Plasterers' Union	2,000
Portable Hoisting Engineers	400
Safety Association of Engineers	1,400
Bricklayers' Unions (nine branches)	9,000
Total	41,000

A number of unions have taken no action in the matter, and the following unions had the matter under consideration yesterday:

Marble Cutters' Union	1,200
Stone Cutters' Union	900
Salamander Association of Fire and Boiler Coverers	1,200
Tar, Felt and Waterproof Workers' Union	1,500

The members of the Employers' Association would say nothing yesterday as to the possible result of the meeting. A member of the Press Committee said they were always ready to receive representatives of unions, but that no agreement with the Association's following were often blocked and it is said that both parties resorted to tactics which were not countenanced by those who were directing the legal battles. Lamora and his followers were confident of ultimate victory, in any event, as they were aided, it is said, by popular subscriptions.

The success of Mr. Rockefeller in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court has been a serious blow to the hopes of the Adirondack poachers, and they fear arrest, which may be brought about under certain provisions of the Penal Code affecting private parks.

DEATH BY DROWNING.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 2.—Herbert D. Emery, only son of Horace Emery and one of the best-known citizens of Chazy, was drowned by the upsetting of a boat off Point au Roche, in Lake Champlain, this afternoon. He was recently married.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 2.—Prof. Arthur Wood, organist of St. George's Episcopal Church, was drowned to-day in Moodna Creek while bathing with two boys. He was forty years old and a native of Cornwall.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 2.—Frederick Lopez of Plattsburg was drowned in the Champlain Canal at Rexford's Flats last night.

NEW HAVEN, July 2.—George Vibert and Charles Schlayer, two young boys, were drowned in the Quinnipiac River this afternoon. One of the boys, who was not a good swimmer, got into a hole, and when his companion went to his assistance he clutched him so tightly that both went down. The bodies were recovered later.

$6,000,000 FOR SHARP ANSWER

San Francisco Gas and Electric Company Has to Buy Spreckles's Rival Plant, Efected for Revenge.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Claus Spreckels has just added $4,000,000 to his fortune by the sale of the Independent Gas and Electric Company, which he started six years ago to gratify personal enmity. He had just erected a new office building, when, not half a block away, the Gas Francisco Gas and Electric Company built a big power plant, with a tall chimney which sent forth smoke and soot day and night. Mr. Spreckles's tenants made fitful complaint, as the owner wrote to President Joseph Crockett of the gas company, asking that the nuisance be abated; but Mr. Crockett paid no attention. Meeting him soon after at the Pacific Union Club Mr. Spreckels inquired:

"How about that smoke, Joe?"

"This is no place to talk business," said Mr. Crockett, and turned on his heel.

Mr. Spreckels the next day organized the Independent Gas and Electric Company and soon forced down the price of gas. It dropped from $2 to 50 cents, and power rates were cut accordingly. So Mr. Crockett's company finally had to accept Mr. Spreckels's terms and pay him $4,000,000 for his plant, which did not cost more than $2,000,000.

NIAGARA STATION BLOWN UP.

Railroad Building at the Whirlpool Believed to Have Been Set Afire—Traffic Delayed.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 2.—Miss Lydia Upper, in charge of the Whirlpool Station of the Gorge Railroad under the lower steel arch bridge, this evening found that the station was afire. She seized the books and money in the office and ran. She was not 75 feet away when an explosion blew the house to pieces. The Fire Department had great trouble running hose to the scene, and the station was burned to the ground.

It is supposed that dynamite stored in the building exploded. The bed of the railroad was torn up for a considerable distance, and the cable feeders. Wrecking gangs worked hard, and by midnight one track could be used. Cars filled with tourists and electrical engineers, delegates to the convention here, which has been installed, were then brought to this city. Arson is suspected.

BOULEVARD IN THE DESERT.

Straight Avenue Thirty-Six Miles Long Being Constructed in Southern California.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 2.—Work was begun to-day on the construction of a boulevard in Southern California to pass through the Colorado Desert in a straight line from the projected town of Rockwood to Calexico, on the Mexican border. It will be 100 feet wide and 36 miles long. Along either side of the boulevard and down the centre will be rows of trees to shut off the glare of the desert sun. Also on either side will be small canals, which not only will irrigate the shade trees, but also will be utilized to lay the dust when the road is completed. It will require only two men to care for the entire thirty-five miles.

The rapid growth of trees in the desert country will insure a magnificent avenue in a very short time. At the international line fourteen-month-old willows are growing on the banks of the Imperial Canal 7 inches in diameter and 30 feet high. The boulevard will give access to the towns of Rockwood, Brawley, Imperial, Silsbee, Calexico, Mexicali, Mexicali, and many new villages.

PRINCETON APPLICANTS BARRED

Eight Candidates Guilty of Cheating in Entrance Examinations.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 2.—Eight applicants for admission to the incoming freshman class at Princeton have been permanently disbarred for cheating in the mid-June entrance examinations held in various parts of the country.

The honor system of examinations has been in vogue at Princeton for the past ten or twelve years, the penalty for violating it being exclusion from the university.

At a meeting last Fall, the Faculty, upon considering the matter, decided hereafter to debar permanently from entering the University any candidate who should be found guilty of cheating in the entrance examination, and notice to this effect was printed at the top of every paper put in the examinations held this June. Despite this warning the examiners found that eight of the papers contained unmistakable evidence of dishonesty. The faculty has decided not to make public the names of the offenders or the schools at which they prepared. Announcement was made here to-day that 720 applications for admission have been received, which exceeds last year's figures by 70.

Relatives of L. H. Eubarts of Phoenix Believe He Was Murdered in Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

PHOENIX, July 2.—Relatives here to-day expressed their belief that Leslie H. Eubarts, agency director of the New York Life Insurance Company, has been murdered in Mexico, where he probably went when he left here on a business trip two months ago. He expected to return in two or three weeks.

Every effort to find a trace of the missing man has failed. An expense check issued to him by the company's cashier at the time of his departure has not been returned. Eubarts's district comprised Arizona, New Mexico, and Northern Mexico.

NIAGARA STATION BLOWN UP.

Railroad Building at the Whirlpool Believed to Have Been Set Afire—Traffic Delayed.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 2.—Miss Lydia Upper, in charge of the Whirlpool Station of the Gorge Railroad under the lower steel arch bridge, this evening found that the station was afire. She seized the books and money in the office and ran. She was not 75 feet away when an explosion blew the house to pieces. The Fire Department had great trouble running hose to the scene, and the station was burned to the ground.

It is supposed that dynamite stored in the building exploded. The bed of the railroad was torn up for a considerable distance, and the cable feeders. Wrecking gangs worked hard, and by midnight one track could be used. Cars filled with tourists and electrical engineers, delegates to the convention here, which has been installed, were then brought to this city. Arson is suspected.

BOULEVARD IN THE DESERT.

HEAVY SNOW IN MONTANA.

Fall General, Alternating with Cold Rains—Crop Damage Feared.

BUTTE, Mon., July 2.—Snow was general in Montana to-day, slight flurries being reported from all over the State. The Fall was heavy on the Continental divide.

The temperature has dropped to 45 degrees. The snow alternates with cold rains, and great damage to crops is feared.

Clergyman's Eightieth Birthday.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 2.—The Rev. Charles E. Phelps, one of the oldest Episcopal pastors in the State, celebrated his eightieth birthday to-day. He was born in Connecticut. From 1836 to 1869 he was the rector of the All Angels' Church, at Eighty-first Street and West End Avenue, New York. He is at present pastor emeritus of the Church of St. John the Evangelist of this city. His parishioners to-day tendered a reception to him. Mr. Phelps is still active and in good health.

WIND AND LIGHTNING WORK HAVOC IN CITY

Violent Storm Follows Hours of Intense Heat.

Many Deaths and Prostrations Reported—Much Damage Done and Multitudes Drenched by a Driving Rain.

With heat and humidity that distressed the strongest and brought prostration and death to a number of unfortunates and a storm that wrought destruction, while it gave some welcome relief, New York and vicinity had a surfeit of weather yesterday. Until mid-afternoon the thermometer was climbing high, and then came a deluge, accompanied by lightning and wind that wrought havoc.

There was little relief during Wednesday night after the heat of that day, for at midnight the thermometer in the Weather Bureau, on the twentieth floor of 100 Broadway, showed a temperature of 80 degrees. Although the mercury dropped by 4 o'clock yesterday morning to 76 degrees in the streets and the tenements, the heat was still oppressive.

From that time the mercury mounted upward as the sun plowed on the city. Between 6 and 7 o'clock there was a gain in warmth of 7 degrees. At noon the mark on the Weather Bureau instrument was 88 degrees, and an hour later it was 90. The thermometers in the streets registered anywhere from 3 to 15 degrees more, according to their positions.

The first sound of thunder, according to the Weather Bureau, was heard at 2:15 o'clock in the afternoon, and the first rain officially recorded was at 4:08, this lasting until 5:20. The temperature dropped rapidly from 90 at 3 o'clock to 80 degrees at 4 o'clock. At 4:20 the lowest mark was reached, being 70 degrees. There was a jump back to 75 degrees at 5, and 82 degrees at 6 o'clock. In the next hour the thermometer registered 81 degrees, and then began to decline, until at 9 o'clock the figure was 80 degrees.

At the height of the storm the wind reached a velocity of seventy-two miles, so that the rain traveled through the streets in a line almost horizontal to them. Umbrellas were useless, because when raised they were generally turned inside out and ripped to pieces. In the down-town parts of the city people sought every possible shelter, women at times being forced to enter saloons.

As a demonstration of the violence of the wind, a thermometer key at Park Row and Spruce Street had his paper collar blown off. It sailed about wildly and finally swept into the entrance of The Times Building, where it was later recovered by its owner, who insisted that he wanted to preserve it as a "memento of a free bath."

HAVOC OF THE STORM.

The storm was so local and violent that it proved to be almost a tornado. The lightning and thunder came in rapid-fire succession, and buildings were hit by bolts, and great damage was done to trees, notably in Bowling Green Park, where many of the finest specimens were robbed of their branches, and three were uprooted. Heavy branches were thrown against horses, breaking windows and terrifying the neighborhood. All over Manhattan windows were blown in or broken by the bombardment of hail which followed the downpour of the torrential rain.

While the lightning was striking right and left, shattering flagpoles on the tall buildings, the telephonic communications in the city were practically useless, as the young women in charge of there were also only three cars in operation. Traffic was badly congested in the evening, and matters were not straightened out until late at night.

Freight traffic on the Rockaway branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad was blocked for two hours, because a big tree was blown across the tracks at One Hundred and Forty-fourth Street, just east of the Southern Boulevard.

St. Mary's Park several trees were uprooted by the force of the storm, and the same was the case in other parks and in all parts of the Bronx.

At Fulton and Church Streets a heavily loaded wagon sank into a trench which has been dug along Church Street, and for a few minutes an hour blocked the Fulton and Eighth Avenues cars, in which many people sat and were drenched by the rain.

The signals on the Arcuckle Building, at Water and Front Streets, were struck by lightning and split down the centre. Half of the pole fell into the street, some of it striking against the window of a firehouse.

In Battery Park the wind had full sway, and many of the trees lost branches. The waters of the bay were churned up so that waves of considerable height were formed. So strong was the wind that a Ball Line horse car was stopped by it, and actually forced some feet backward before the horses could brace themselves.

A twelve-inch main broke a little after the storm started at Elm and White Streets, near the Tombs Prison. The main is located in the subway, which is under construction at that point, and the water poured into the latter, and, together with the water from the old Collect Pond under the Tombs Prison, filled the subway to a depth of several feet.

CASUALTIES OF THE STORM.

As a result of the storm, many casualties were reported in the city.

Mary Carman, eighteen years old, of Rockaway Beach, was taken to New York Hospital after being caught by the wind at Broadway and Twenty-third Street and thrown against the Flatiron Building. She had only recently recovered from a serious illness, and was too weak to resist the force of the wind, and it picked her up and threw her with great violence against the wall. Policeman Myer picked her up as she fell to the sidewalk. He carried her to a drug store and sent in a call for an ambulance. The surgeon found that she was suffering from shock and a bad scalp wound.

Several other women were carried off their feet and hurled against the Flatiron Building during the height of the storm, but were apparently not injured, as they were able to get in the corridors of the building, where they waited for the storm to subside.

Two policemen stationed at the corner worked hard in guiding women. They removed their raincoats as well as their undercoats and vests, thereby making it possible for them to do their work better. In rescuing women, helpless in the wind and rain that threw many to the ground.

One pitiful incident of the storm was the saving of Fannie Kinsler, six years old, of 208 West Third Street. Caught in the storm, she sought shelter in a doorway. The lightning frightened her, and she started to run home. Blinded by the frequent flashes and the rain, she ran into a wagon driven by Thomas Fitzpatrick of 101 Mangin Street, and was run over. The driver promptly stopped his horses, picked up the body of the little one, and was arrested as he was carrying her to a drug store.

The winds picked up a piece of planking at one end of a scow on which John Domlicki, a laborer, was working, at the foot of One Hundred and Tenth Street. It carried the plank the length of the boat and brought it across the back of the man's head. Domlicki staggered, clutched at the side of the scow, and then pitched into the river. He sank, and when fellow-laborers reached the spot they were alone. They saw his face in the water. The next moment he was swept under the scow. His body was not recovered.

Just before the storm started, Clarence Holden, three years old, of 1,402 Pine Avenue, the Bronx, and four companions were playing about a bonfire in that thoroughfare. When the storm broke the embers were scattered in all directions. One struck the pinafore of the Holden boy and instantly he was ablaze. His comrades tried to extinguish the flames, but he broke away from them and ran homeward to his home, crying for his mother. He died in Lebanon Hospital an hour afterward.

Theodore Carigione, ten years old, of 16 First Street, was running through Union Square, and was struck by a plank blown by the gale from the top of the eighth floor, and he was badly injured. Policeman Wolberson carried him to a place of shelter, where he was attended by an ambulance surgeon and taken to his home.

While the storm was raging, fire started in the attic of the five-story tenement at 256 Elizabeth Street, and the families ran out into the pouring rain, seeking shelter in neighboring houses. Little damage was done. While on his way to this fire Acting Battalion Chief Larkin had to take to the sidewalks with his horse and buggy on account of the water in the streets between Houston and Mott Streets. Going through the latter street he ran down Angelo Peter Arrino, four years old, of 312 Mott Street. The boy was only slightly injured.

The wind caught a canvas hung under the elevated structure at Columbus Avenue and Ninety-seventh Street, where painters had been at work. The canvas went sailing down the street, and a team that became attached to an ice wagon. The ice fell out of the wagon as the horses chased the canvas. The small boys and girls in the neighborhood gathered it up and took it to the refrigerators of their respective families.

BROOKLYN ESCAPES LIGHTLY.

Blows in Williamsburg, However, Causes Several Casualties.

Thunder storms which swept over Manhattan and the Bronx with such severity yesterday afternoon were lightly felt in Brooklyn. In some portions of the borough, particularly the outlying districts, no rain fell at all. The downpour which occurred at about 4 o'clock spread across the river only to the lower districts of Brooklyn and Long Island.

The second heavy downpour spread over a somewhat larger territory in Brooklyn, but generally the borough suffered little from the storm.

Serious damage resulted was caused chiefly by the wind and lightning. In the suburbs wires and telegraph and telephone poles were felled by the wind.

Lightning struck a chimney on a three-story brick building at 609 Fifth Avenue, and started a fire, which caused much excitement among the tenants. The blaze was put out with little difficulty. A lightning bolt also struck the flagstaff on the building of the Borden Condensed Milk Company building, at De Kalb and Lewis Avenues. Assemblyman in the street narrowly escaped injury from the falling pieces of the pole.

While the storm was at its height in Williamsburg lightning struck a sixty-foot chimney of the J. Daly-Joyce's pump works, at Scholes and Starr Street, and dislodged several tons of bricks and mortar fell with a crash upon the roof of the two-story machine shop, and the weight went through the roof. There were many workmen in the place, but all escaped serious injuries with the exception of Henry C. Diehl, twenty-three years old, of 74 Starr Street, a machinist, who received a fracture of the right internal injuries, and lacerations of the body. He was removed to St. Catharine's Hospital, where his condition is said to be critical.

A lightning bolt struck a big tree opposite the Chrystie Street Police Station and caused it to fall across the tracks of the Nostrand Avenue trolley line. A car had passed only a few seconds before. The bolt burned out the telephone batteries in the police station and shocked Policeman Gooley, who was at the telephone desk, and Sergt. White, who was at the blotter.

The lightning killed Jesse Aronsen, thirty-nine years old, of 320 East One Hundred and Sixth Street, and Thomas Allis, twenty-four years old, of 7 East One Hundred and Seventh Street, were blown from a scaffold. The men were painting the recreation pier at the foot of North Second Street, Williamsburg. They fell thirty feet, both receiving fractures of the legs. They were taken to the Eastern District Hospital.

QUEENS RESORTS SUFFER.

Roofs Torn from Buildings and Crowds Drenched by Rain.

After the storm had passed over Harlem and the Bronx yesterday afternoon it swept across the East River, and one edge of it struck Astoria, where it knocked down a lot of trees and smashed shutters, knocked down fences, and the rain deluged the streets and yards.

It was not until the storm reached North Beach that it seemed to attain its full force, and there it was of tornado-like force. The owners hastily lowered awnings and closed windows to keep out the rain, and the several thousand pleasure seekers sought shelter in the various pavilions. When the storm had let the buildings there was hardly a piece of canvas left whole, and windows were smashed in and the water flooded the various buildings. The small stands along the beach were toppled over and rolled about as if they were pasteboard.

The Dewey Hotel and dancing pavilion on Old Bowery Road suffered greatly. The dancing pavilion caught the full force of the blast and the wind stripped off the roof, which struck the hotel and crushed in one side. George Wall's Tower House and the roof partly taken off by the blast. Tables and chairs were swept along the beaches and all the windows on one side were broken.

At Julius Keltenborn's pavilions on the bluff, at Jackson's Point, awnings were swept away and tables and chairs were carried from the verandas and pavilions and rolled along the beach below. Several big trees were uprooted and one of them fell across the Brooklyn Rapid Transit tracks and blocked traffic. At Rob's Casino the performance was going on but the wind blew the curtains to pieces and smashed in the glass until the crowd could only avoid the rain by climbing onto the stage and back of it.

John Kohler's pavilion consisted of a strong frame work over which curtains were stretched to shut out light. Many sought shelter there. Thirty seconds after the storm struck, all that remained of the building was the frame work, the canvas being ripped into streamers.

Fully a hundred trees at and near North Beach were uprooted, and several were struck by lightning. All telephone wires were destroyed, and the lighting circuit was badly damaged.

The most exciting experience at the beach during the storm was had by the men at work on the top of the chutes. They remained at work securing their boats and making everything fast until the storm struck. They clung to the side rails, and finally had to lie flat on their faces and cling to the stanchions to keep from being blown away. Their eyes were pelted with hailstones and they could not look until when they were finally able to crawl down, they were exhausted.

Several lighting circuits in Jamaica were knocked out and last night there were no electric lights at the Jamaica station of the Long Island Railroad. Trains on that road coming in from the island were from a few minutes to an hour late owing to fallen wires and delayed train orders.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit trains in Fulton Street, Jamaica, were stalled for a time, and no to late last night seemed only able creep along at intervals of from half to three-quarters of an hour.

The borough police headquarters was cut off from communication with the precincts during the storm, and up to late last night. The wires were struck and the connections burned out. Sergt. Mefferan of the Seventy-eighth Precinct was talking with headquarters at the moment the wires were struck, and was shocked.

DEATHS CAUSED BY HEAT.

Many Prostrations Were Also Reported in the City.

During the heat of the day, before the storm brought relief, a number of deaths and prostrations were reported in the city. The list is as follows:

DEATHS.

WASHBURN, MRS. T., sixty years old, of Chappaqua, N. Y.

KELLY, FRANCES, three years old, 525 West Fifty-fifth Street.

KINSLER, FANNIE, six years old, 220, East Third Street.

McGRATH, ARTHUR, forty years old, 1,942 President Street, Brooklyn.

VOLTERAUR, HERRMAN, sixty-five years old, 32 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn.

MOUNIA, JOSEPH, 26 years old, Roosevelt Avenue, Staten Island.

PROSTRATIONS.

BARNES, PHILIP, 50 years old, 78 Forsyth Street; taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

McCAFFREY, OWEN, age and address not known; taken from Bryant Park to New York Hospital.

GILLINGEN, ELIAS, 34 years, 116 First Street; overcome in East Ninety-third Street; taken to Presbyterian Hospital.

WARRINGTON, HENRIETTA, 32 years old, 126 West Eighteenth Street; taken to New York Hospital.

CANTY, GEORGE, 28 years old, residence unknown; overcome at 488 Eighth Avenue; taken to Bellevue Hospital.

MacSORLEY, JAMES, 30 years old, saloon keeper; taken to Presbyterian Hospital.

COHEN, ANNA, 17 years old, 114 Rivington Street; taken home.

MULLIGAN, Mary, 40 years old, servant, 377 Ninth Avenue; taken to Flower Hospital.

HENDRE, H., address not known; taken to Bellevue Hospital.

FARLON, Henry, 32 years old, no home; taken to Roosevelt Hospital.

ELTON, Nicholas, 70 years old, 226 West Fifteenth Street; taken to Lincoln Hospital.

NUGENT, Anna, 17 years old, no home; went to Roosevelt Hospital.

BRENNAN, JAMES, 62 years old, of 421 East Twenty-second Street; sent to Bellevue Hospital; recovered.

O'LEARY, JAMES, 52 years old, of 139 East Thirty-first Street; sent to Bellevue Hospital.

CARR, JAMES, 37 years old, of 2,107 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, overcome at the foot of East Avenue; taken home.

CONFREDO, CHARLES, 40 years old, of 238 East Twelfth Street, Manhattan; overcome at Ninth Avenue and Fifteenth Street, Brooklyn; taken to the Seney Hospital.

COLEMAN, THOMAS, 26 years old, of 129 East Seventeenth Street, Flatbush; overcome at Nostrand Avenue and Church Avenues; taken to the Kings County Hospital.

KLAUS, ADOLPH, 20 years old, of 1,084 Halsey Street, Brooklyn; at his home; taken to the Bushwick Central Hospital.

KRANTS, GEORGE, 26 years old, of 271 East Houston Street, Manhattan; at Patchen Avenue and Macon Street, Brooklyn; taken to St. Mary's Hospital.

VALENTINE, JOHN, 50 years old, address not known; stricken on Flushing Avenue, Brooklyn; taken to the Cumberland Street Hospital.

COTTINGHAM, CATHERINE, 81 years old, of 53 Bridge Street, Brooklyn; prostrated at her home; taken to the Brooklyn Hospital.

CULLEN, CLARENCE, 49 years old, of Mausenson, Penn.; overcome at Broadway and Kosciusko Place, Brooklyn; taken to the Bushwick Central Hospital.

McARDLE, JOHN, 23 years old, of 62 Sumpter Street, Brooklyn; prostrated on Atlantic Avenue; removed to the Cumberland Street Hospital.

The case of Harry Farion excited the sympathy of the staff of Roosevelt Hospital. Farion had been out of work for a long time and was looking for a job yesterday when he was overcome by the heat at West End Avenue and Sixty-second Street. A policeman saw him fall into the gutter. He may recover.

Hermann Jaeger, a boiler of 32 Jefferson Street, Williamsburg, an engineer in the molding mill of Col. John Rueger, at 200 Moore Street, insisted on walking to work notwithstanding the protests of a neighbor who told him he would kill himself. Just as he was entering the factory he fell, exhausted. He died in the German Hospital.

Mrs. T. Washburn's death was due to her effort to walk from the Grand Central Station to the Forty-second Street Ferry. She had come from Chappaqua to visit friends in Brooklyn. She fell in the street and died soon after being taken to the Flower Hospital. The body was identified by her son, a conductor on the New York Central Railroad.

Anna Nugent, seventeen years old, walked from East Eighty-sixth Street to visit a Mrs. O'Brien, at 465 West Forty-eighth Street. The heat affected her so that she was taken with spasmodic hysteria when she reached Mrs. O'Brien's. She was taken to Roosevelt Hospital and recovered.

NAVAL OFFICER RESCUED.

Two Other Men Saved from Boats Off Centre Moriches.

CENTRE MORICHES, L. I., July 2.—Commander Houston of the United States Navy went out sailing alone in the catboat Wave this afternoon and was caught by a squall. Before he could bring the craft about she turned turtle. Commander Houston sprang clear when he saw the upset was unavoidable, and then swam to the boat and climbed upon the keel. He clung there until Capt. Sidney Smith, a retired life saver, reached him in the yacht Hattie B.

Two Brooklyn men who are summering here were sailing to-day, when their boat capsized and both were thrown into the water. Cepheus Tuttle, who was sailing near them, rescued them.

LIGHTNING STRIKES A PIER

During the storm yesterday afternoon a bolt of lightning struck Pier 1 of the Hamburg-American Line, at the foot of Newark Street, Hoboken. The pier, which is one of the old frame structures used by the company, was burned along one side, but little damage was done. The tugboat E. A. Stevens extinguished the blaze.

A horse attached to a truck was struck by a lightning bolt and killed at the corner of Fourth and Washington Streets, Hoboken. The driver escaped injury.

Lehigh Valley Bond Issue.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—The committee of Lehigh Valley Railroad Company Directors appointed to prepare a plan for financing the company met to-day, the session lasting several hours. President Thomas said that all details for the bond issue had practically been agreed upon by the committee, and that the plan would doubtless be in shape for submission to the board on July 15.

JEROME OPPOSES PARDON

May Clash with Gov. Odell in the Weller Case.

Hears That the Executive Intends to Extend Clemency—Assistant Will See the Governor.

District Attorney Jerome will strongly oppose a proposition before Gov. Odell for the pardon of Ennis S. Weller, who last week was convicted of grand larceny in the first degree and sentenced to one year in State's Prison. Assistant District Attorney Train, who prosecuted Weller, left for Albany last night and will accompany the Governor on his Western trip as far as Buffalo in order to state reasons why executive clemency should not be extended.

Weller was convicted of complicity in the Horseshoe Copper Mining Company swindle, by which the "Larris Summerfield" gang obtained $76,000 from business men of this city in one week.

During the trial of Weller it was brought out that his father, now retired, at one time was a business partner of Gov. Odell's father at Newburg. The Governor's brother, Hiram B. Odell, was a witness for the defense, testifying to Weller's previous good character.

It was brought out that Weller was a member of many clubs, among them the Union League of Brooklyn, and that he got members of the club to become stockholders or Directors of the Horse Shoe Copper Mining Company, of which he was Treasurer, in order to help the swindle along.

The first intimation of Gov. Odell's proposed action came to Mr. Jerome yesterday when ex-Justice Brown of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, and H. W. Harden, formerly a professor of law at Columbia, who was Weller's counsel, called on him and asked if Weller could be tried on an additional indictment, in case Gov. Odell should choose to pardon him.

"I told them," said Mr. Jerome yesterday, "that if I were consulted in the regular way about the pardon and if the Judge who sentenced him were consulted as is customary, I would have no objection to any action Gov. Odell saw fit to take.

"I was then frankly told that it was the Governor's purpose to extend a pardon in any event. My answer was that in that case I would keep on working up the cases against Weller and trying him until I made Gov. Odell sick and tired of granting pardons.

"It seems very strange in view of this that Gov. Odell has declared he will not pardon Miller. Miller is one of the Franklin Syndicate, who volunteered to become a witness against Ammon. His case and that of Weller are almost identical. The charge in each case was the same, yet Miller got ten years and Weller only one.

"Train, as a result of Mr. Jerome's answer, got a telegram from Mr. Graham, Gov. Odell's Secretary, asking him to go to Albany.

Assistant District Attorney Nott, who has drawn a petition asking for executive clemency, in the case of Miller, said yesterday:

"I cannot credit the Albany dispatches to the effect that Gov. Odell has anticipated the petition by declaring that he will not pardon Miller. Miller rendered the State a service, and unless pardoned would be worse off than before through volunteering to testify against Ammon, inasmuch as his wife would be without the income she had from Ammon as long as Miller kept his mouth shut.

"In addition, Miller has shown himself repentant. He has assisted over $60,000 of the syndicate's funds which was gotten from the Seymour-Johnson Company wreck, under an Appellate Division decision to the receiver for the Franklin Syndicate, when he might have kept it for himself.

"Miller, besides is a sick man. Gov. Odell's own physician examined him at Sing Sing and determined he was too ill to remain there and should be removed to Dannemora."

NEW POLICEMAN'S ERROR.

Spied Strange Carriage and Concluding That Crime Was on Foot Called Out Fire Department.

MILBURN, N. J., July 2.—The whole town was aroused this morning because a driver from Bell's livery stable, in East Orange, lost his way. Policeman John Graham believed an attempt was being made to crack the safe in the Post Office, and rang the fire alarm, calling out the township Fire Department, and arrested the driver. After spending an hour searching for the supposed burglars the driver was released and the firemen returned to their homes.

It seems a couple of East Orange residents were bolsted in Springfield, and telephoned for a carriage, and one was sent out from East Orange. The driver lost his way here, and Graham, who is a new man, had his suspicions aroused by the liveryman's actions in driving about, and, although the man requested the officer to direct him to the place in Springfield, the officer decided he would bear watching. While following the stranger's movements the officer went by the Post Office building. What he saw there, he says, convinced him that a plot was on foot to rob the office.

Graham believed four men he claims he saw in front of the office were about to loot it, and that the driver of the mysterious rig was waiting to carry off the spoils. He turned in an alarm. His next move was to seize the bridle of the liveryman's horse, who was at that time passing the office. Bringing him to a halt, the officer awited the arrival of the Fire Department. The first man to reach the corner was Foreman Richard Tichenor of Hose Company No. 1, who ran up with his apparatus clanging behind him.

"Where is the fire?" gasped Tichenor.

"Hush," replied the officer. "It's burglars. They're blowing up the Post Office safe. Go quiet and we will trap the whole outfit. Have your men hurry."

The building was surrounded. Presently Postmaster Condit arrived and the office was unlocked. Graham dashed into the building in the lead, with club in one hand and his drawn revolver in the other. Behind him were the firemen. They found the safe untouched.

Interest was then centred about the liveryman. He repeated his story and Chief of Police Williams, who, as a fireman, had arrived in answer to the alarm, rode to Springfield to investigate the story. He here found the men anxiously awaiting the arrival of the liveryman.

MOTOR CYCLIST OUT OF RACE.

He Must, Instead, Answer Charges in the Harlem Court.

Instead of participating in the motor cycle race which is to be run to-morrow from Boston to New York, William Wahrenberger of 118 West One Hundred and Fourteenth Street will have to appear in the Harlem Court to answer a charge of violating the city speed ordinance.

Wahrenberger was arrested last night by Bicycle Policeman Peter Hanlon of the East One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Street station at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and Lenox Avenue. Hanlon says the motor cyclist was going at a very high rate of speed. Wahrenberger acknowledged that he was moving rather rapidly, but said he did so to get out of the way of some pedestrians crossing the street.

EARLY CLOSING MOVEMENT.

Resolutions Adopted at Woman's Mass Meeting in Harlem.

About 250 persons responded to the call issued by the Woman's Municipal League for a mass meeting for the purpose of furthering the early closing movement, at the Harlem Casino last night. This was a smaller audience than had been expected. Addresses were made by Dr. Annie Longworthy Waite, Chairman of the Bronx Branch of the League; Secretary McElroy of the Young Woman's Christian Association; Assemblyman Louis Abrams, and Miss Florence Kelly, Secretary of the Consumer's League.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted calling upon storekeepers to close every evening at 6 o'clock, and not later than 9 on Saturdays, on which day drygoods stores were requested to close at noon.

SHE WOULDN'T GO HOME.

So She and Her Brother-in-Law Were Taken to Police Station, Followed by Big Crowd.

Because a young, well-dressed woman who said she was Sadie Marks, thirty years old, of 320 West One Hundred and Nineteenth Street, would not go home she and her brother-in-law, S. I. Lippmann, said to be a wholesale plate glass dealer, living at 126 West One Hundred and Eighteenth Street, were locked up in the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Station last night for a couple of hours.

The prisoners were arrested by Policeman Netterville of the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Station, who found them in the centre of a small crowd on St. Nicholas Avenue, between One Hundred and Twenty-seventh and One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Streets, about 10 o'clock last night, and were engaged in a noisy argument when the policeman arrived.

"Clear out," said he.

"I want her to come home with me," Mr. Lippmann said, according to the policeman; "she is my sister-in-law, and she lives with me and her sister. She ran away, and—"

"I am thirty years old," interrupted the young woman. "I can take care of myself."

"Well, get out of here then," said the policeman. She refused to go, protesting that her brother-in-law had chased her from One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Street and Eighth Avenue.

"He stopped me and took hold of me," she said. Then, according to the policeman, she broke away and sped toward St. Nicholas Avenue, screaming as she ran, followed by her brother-in-law.

Her screams brought another crowd, including the policeman. Finding, however, that neither would go away from the vicinity willingly, the policeman took them both to the station house, followed by nearly a thousand persons.

Seeing the crowd coming, Sergt. Schoenick turned out the reserves.

Mr. Lippmann told the Sergeant that about ten days ago, while he and his wife were absent from the house, the young woman, his wife's sister, ran away.

"Ran away!" echoed Sadie Marks; "I am thirty years old."

On the brother-in-law's charge that she was slightly demented the Sergeant concluded to hold her. Then upon the policeman's charge that the brother-in-law had been disorderly, he held him too.

They were no sooner taken back than the women arrested Miss Marks, tearfully pleaded for the release of the prisoners and offered her diamonds in bail. Later she had herself identified as Mrs. Nellie Lippmann, sister of the young woman and wife of the man, and offered a house as bail for the release of the prisoners.

It was only after a long conference with Capt. Martens that the young woman who had caused the trouble consented to go home.

WRIGHT'S CONDITION SERIOUS.

His Counsel Requests English Advisers to Permit Him to Return.

The condition of Whitaker Wright, who has become ill while confined in Ludlow Street Jail awaiting extradition, was considered very serious last night.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Whitaker Wright, made the following statement yesterday:

"Mr. Wright is insisting, as he has been throughout, on voluntarily returning to England to meet the charges against him. He was prevailed upon by his friends and advisers in England because of the condition of public sentiment there to postpone the carrying out of his intention until such time as a fair trial could be had.

"In view, however, of Mr. Wright's continued illness I have received a cablegram from me to the effect that it will take six months to determine the many complex legal questions of extraditability. I have at his request written to England to place the situation before his advisers there, and to have them determine whether or not they will consent to Mr. Wright's return. From the beginning urged them to do—allow him to waive all questions of extraditability and voluntarily return to England to meet these charges.

"I hope to hear from England shortly and to be prepared either to go forward with the defense or to procure the consent of Mr. Wright's English advisers to the granting of Mr. Wright's wish that he be permitted to return."

CANNOT ENTER NAVY YARD.

Attempts to Levy on Timber Stored There Will Be Resisted.

It was announced yesterday that the United States Government would fight any attempt made by the Sheriff of Kings County to attach property stored in the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The firm of Dannat & Pell, lumber dealers, of Brooklyn, recently obtained a writ of attachment against some lumber sold by them to Richard Grief, a contractor. The lumber was stored in the Brooklyn yard pending its use on some Government work being done by Grief. When the Sheriff tried to execute the attachment he was prevented by the naval authorities.

The attorneys for Dannat & Pell have just begun a proceeding for the issuance of a writ of mandamus compelling the Commandant of the yard to allow the Sheriff to serve the writ.

Rear Admiral Rodgers, the Commandant, has been in conference with District Attorney Youngs to arrange a plan of action in the matter.

MANY LOST IN TEXAS FLOODS.

More Than a Score of Mexicans and Farmhands Reported Drowned—Damage to Railroad.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 2.—Floods in Southwestern Texas to-day caused the death of many persons and a heavy property loss. No accurate reports of the loss of life can be obtained, as the telegraph wires are down in the storm-swept section, but enough is known to warrant the belief that more than a score of persons perished, mostly Mexican laborers and farmhands.

At Beeville a negro and a Mexican are missing and the property loss is estimated at $50,000. Near Normanna ten farmhands are reported drowned and twelve more are said to have been drowned at Fetlus.

The heaviest damage was suffered by the San Antonio and Aransas Pass Railroad. Several thousand feet of its track and one large bridge were swept away. Train service has been suspended in the affected district.

DREW PISTOL IN STREET CAR.

Pasquale Aconcio, thirty-seven years old, of 119 East One Hundred and Tenth Street, was riding north on an Eighth Avenue car at about midnight last night, when at One Hundred and Twentieth Street Charles Miller, a broker of 200 West One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Street, boarded the car, and in passing trod on Aconcio's corns. The man yelled and struck Miller in the ribs. The men wrangled for a time, until Aconcio said, "I'll fix you when you get off," and lapsed into sullen silence.

When the car reached Miller's corner he alighted, and his feet had hardly touched the asphalt than Aconcio leaped up and leveled an old-fashioned muzzle-loading army revolver, with every chamber loaded and the percussion caps all in place. The weapon was nearly half a yard long, and before Aconcio could fire it was grabbed simultaneously by the conductor and several passengers, who threw the owner upon the floor of the car and held him, struggling and struggling, until Policeman Hayes came up, arrested him, and took him to the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street station, charging him with disorderly conduct and the carrying of concealed weapons.

RESCUE BY THE ERIN'S CREW.

During the storm yesterday afternoon a catboat containing several men capsized off Sandy Hook, near the anchorage of Sir Thomas Lipton's cup challenging fleet.

The lookout on the Erin saw at once what had happened, and communicated the news to the Erin's skipper. A lifeboat manned by half a dozen of Sir Thomas's able-bodied Scotchmen was lowered to make the rescue. After a hard row the crew reached the place where the catboat had swamped and managed to rescue the unfortunates who had been precipitated into the sea.

The rescued men were almost exhausted.

STATEN ISLAND FERRY TO BE OWNED BY CITY

Sinking Fund Commission Adopts Mayor Low's Suggestion.

Will Expend $2,000,000 for New Boats—Alderman McCall's Plea for Municipal Ownership May Be Granted.

Acquisition by the city of the Staten Island Ferry service was determined upon yesterday by the Sinking Fund Commission at its regular meeting. This involves the expenditure of $8,200,000, of which approximately $2,000,000 will be for the construction of new ferryboats, and the other money for the terminal and approach at St. George, S. I. Only the minor question of operation of the service by the city itself, instead of leasing the property under definite terms and rates, was left unsettled.

By this action the commission has ended an agitation which for years has been in progress, and by the action taken the Borough of Richmond will be greatly advantaged. Mayor Low and Dock Commissioner Hawkes have been the strong advocates of having the city take over the property in question, and last week they published a report in which they outlined the very plan yesterday adopted by the Commissioners. In addition to acquiring the necessary property and building new boats, the Mayor suggested that the entire plant could be leased to the highest bidder. Two bidders are in prospect in such an event, one being the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company, which operates the present ferry, and the other the syndicate headed by H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oil Company. The report also suggested that in the event of the failure of any one bidding, the city should operate the plant under the supervision of the Dock Department.

When the Commissioners took up the Staten Island Ferry question Alderman John T. McCall, the Tammany member of the commission, declared in favor of municipal ownership.

"You now have the opportunity, Mr. Mayor," he said, "to make your administration memorable long after you and I are gone. I am opposed to the part of the resolution now proposed, which makes it possible to lease the ferry after it has been built and equipped by the city. The time is ripe for a municipal ownership of such a ferry."

Mayor Low accepted the Alderman's suggestion to the extent of amending his resolution so as to direct Commissioner Hawkes to submit two forms for the consideration of the Commissioners. One is to be the form of a lease, together with the details of the cost of construction and equipment, while the other is to be a plan for municipal ownership of the ferry and what the cost of operation would be to the city. This report must be submitted by the Commissioner not later than Dec. 1 next.

Following this the Sinking Fund Commission adopted the joint report which the Mayor and Dock Commissioner made public last week, while the large gathering of Staten Islanders present applauded vigorously. Borough President Cromwell of Richmond thanked the Mayor and the commission on behalf of the people of his borough. Resolutions were presented from the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce approving the plans and urging the carrying out of them as outlined by the Mayor.

Other business of the session included the granting to the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad a franchise for the establishment of a ferry from a point between Twenty-second and Twenty-third Streets, North River, to the foot of Ferry Street, Hoboken.

AGAINST GARBAGE PLANT.

Talk of Dynamiting Offending Establishment at Mass Meeting of Morrisania Citizens.

At a meeting of the taxpayers of Morrisania held before the Aldermen of Morrisania in the Borough Hall at One Hundred and Seventy-seventh Street and Third Avenue yesterday afternoon, to consider the abolition of the garbage burning plant at St. Joseph Street and Whitlock Avenue, a threat was made that if the plant was not removed the people of that section would blow it up with dynamite. The borough was represented by Borough President Haffen and Aldermen Leitner, Peck, and Goldwater.

The first speaker for the taxpayers was Clarence R. Lester of One Hundred and Forty-fourth Street and Southern Boulevard. He was accompanied by his father, mother, and sister. He spoke very strongly against the plant, saying that the people in that vicinity became ill from the fumes and smells, and that during the hot weather the smell was almost intolerable. The windows of the house, he said, had to be kept closed, and it was impossible to hang clothes out on the line, as they became dirty from the smoke. The flaky ashes which issued from the chimney, he said, blew in the windows and covered their meals so that it was impossible to eat them.

Rudolph Doherr, a resident near the plant, vehemently opposed the plant. He spoke of the nuisance, and added stated that there was not the slightest doubt in his mind that if the plant was not removed that the residents would combine and blow it up with dynamite.

Superintendent Lake of the Lincoln Hospital, at Concord Avenue and One Hundred and Forty-fourth Street, stated that the windows of the hospital during the warm weather had to be kept closed on account of the smell, and that the 200 patients suffered greatly. Among the other speakers were Peter Fries, Jacob Sleischer, John Hendling, and Mrs. Alice R. Lester.

Commissioner Hawkes, after hearing the arguments, drew up resolutions in which it was stated that they considered the plant a nuisance, and that its continuance would be violative of good order, peace, comfort, and good government. He also resolved to ask Borough of Health to take steps as soon as the resolution was approved by the Mayor, and if it was not approved by the Mayor that the Board of Health take the matter to law to abate the nuisance.

MRS. WILLIS GOES TO KANSAS.

Mrs. Julia M. Willis of 36 Park Place, Brooklyn, mother of Miss Gertrude Willis, whose marriage last week to the Rev. Carroll M. Burck is claimed to have been hastened because of threats and annoyances from a married man, a wealthy Produce Exchange broker, who became wildly infatuated with the young woman, started last night for Manhattan, Kan., to join her daughter in response to a telegram received from her son-in-law. The dispatch, which was received yesterday afternoon, was as follows:

Come to Manhattan as soon as possible. Answer at once. CARROLL.

Mrs. Willis packed her trunk immediately and started for Kansas on an early evening train. She fainted when she read the dispatch, believing that it meant that her daughter was dying.

At the Willis residence last evening Mrs. Burck, the mother of the Rev. Carroll Burck, was seen. She was closing the house up for Mrs. Willis, who had departed.

"We feel sure," said Mrs. Burck, "that Gertrude is very ill. Carroll, of course, would not say so in his message. We have no fear that she has met with harm at the hands of this broker who has been annoying her. It is not likely that he would follow her to Kansas."

Mrs. Burck made the somewhat mysterious statement that, although Mrs. Willis had gone to Kansas alone, she was well guarded. She would not make her meaning more clear, she said, as she knew Mrs. Burck said, no attempt would be made to prosecute the broker.

When Mrs. Carroll Burck went with her husband to their home in Kansas she was almost on the verge of nervous collapse as a result of the machinations of the broker. Several received by her mother from her have indicated that she was still in an extremely nervous condition, and her friends in Brooklyn now fear that she has completely broken down.

Mrs. Willis is the widow of an Episcopal clergyman, and Gertrude is her only child. Several of the friends of the family expressed the belief last night that Mrs. Willis would not return to Brooklyn, but would make her home with her daughter in Kansas.

SAYS HE SAW A BOY DROWN.

Report of Casualties at the Opening of a Public Bath.

Report was made by a boy at Police Headquarters last night that the opening of Public Bath No. 7, at the foot of West Thirty-fifth Street, was attended by the drowning of at least one boy. He said he saw an overcrowded gangplank break, and many boys and men fall into the water. He declared one boy was drowned, and he had heard of others who were missing.

The police at the West Thirty-seventh Street Station had received a report that several persons fell into the water, but all were rescued.

At the bathhouse Joseph Allen, an attendant, said that half a dozen boys fell from the gangplank to a raft and were pulled off by attendants. He had not heard of any one being drowned.

HIS DARING PROVED FATAL.

Young Man Swam Out Too Far and Was Drowned.

Stanislas Sunta, twenty years old, a barber of 310 East Seventy-first Street, while bathing at the foot of East Seventy-first Street late yesterday afternoon was drowned. At the point where he went in the current is very strong and Sunta was warned not to go far out. He laughed at his companions, saying that he was a strong swimmer. He then waved one of the boats and started for the middle of the river. When he was out about 100 feet from the dock he was seen to go under the water and his companions heard him calling for help. They started out for him, but he sank before they reached him. The body was not recovered.

Lad Drawn Under the Water.

Patrick Finditti, sixteen years old, of 314 President Street, Brooklyn, was drowned at Sheepshead Bay yesterday afternoon. The boy was swimming along at high tide, and, getting into one of the dangerous suction holes, was carried under. The body was recovered last night.

Venturesome Lad Dies in Water.

Ambrose Chatfield, nine years old, was bathing with several other boys of about his own age in a pond at Eighth Avenue and Forty-second Street, South Brooklyn, late yesterday afternoon, when he got beyond his depth and sank below the surface. Several larger boys swam out and caught him as he came up again, but he was dead when taken from the water. The body was removed to the home of the child's parents, at 465 Forty-seventh Street.

Boy Rescued from the River.

Thomas Butler, ten years old, was playing yesterday on a float off the police slip of Pier A, North River, and tumbled into the river. John Spellman, a laborer, of 99 Bowery, jumped in and saved him. The boy was unconscious when brought to the float, but was soon resuscitated.

Boy Excursionist Is Drowned.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., July 2.—Gilbert Guion, fourteen years old, son of Joseph P. Guion of this city, was drowned this afternoon at Rye Beach. He was with an excursion of the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian Church. After forty luncheon he and Albert Slaht went bathing. When swimming some distance out they became exhausted and shouted for help. Before aid could be given to them Guion sank, and Slaht was almost exhausted when pulled out by rescuers.

Expert Swimmer Is Drowned.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 2.—William Feeley, twenty years old, an athlete and expert swimmer, was drowned this afternoon in the White Plains Reservoir. He went out in his canvas canoe early in the afternoon. In some manner the boat upset. Feeley swam toward the shore, but suddenly was seen to throw

ARRESTS IMMINENT IN DOCK INQUIRY

Testimony as to Offices Held by J. J. Murphy and J. E. Gaffney.

Information as to Bath Privilege Granted to President Donohue of the Anawanda Club—Ex-Secretary Burke Examined.

The arrest of two persons whose names have been mentioned in connection with the investigation into the affairs of the Van Wyck Dock Board, now being carried on by Assistant District Attorney Marshall B. Clarke, is imminent. The first rumors regarding the impending arrests became current immediately after City Clerk Joseph P. Scully and Russell Bleecker, the present Secretary of the Department of Docks and Ferries, had called at the office of Mr. Clarke in response to subpoenas. Mr. Scully was called to verify the fact that Aldermen James E. Gaffney was a member of the Board of Aldermen, and John J. Murphy, brother of Tammany leader Charles F. Murphy, a member of the Municipal Council in 1901.

Mr. Gaffney was President and John J. Murphy Treasurer of the New York Contracting and Trucking Company, which secured leases of water-front properties from the Van Wyck Dock Board during the year 1901. There is a provision in the City Charter making it a misdemeanor for any public official to be interested in any way in a lease granted by the city.

An explanation as to why the bath privileges at the foot of West One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Street was taken away from a prior tenant whose permit was revoked by the Van Wyck Dock Board and bestowed on Philip F. Donahue under a twenty-year lease and an annual rental of only $250 was furnished yesterday, when investigation revealed the fact that Mr. Donohue is President of the Anawanda Club, the Tammany organization in Charles F. Murphy's district.

Before the bath was turned over to Mr. Donohue it was reconstructed and put in first-class condition at the expense of the previous tenant, a widow, who was allowed to sublet her leasehold for one season.

It was also learned that the privilege included not only the bath, but also a café and roof garden, and that its value at what is declared a low estimate is $10,000 a year.

The café with the roof garden on it was a favorite haunt of Tammany leader Murphy himself during the Summer of 1901. A room, known as the "Commissioner's room," was always ready for him and whenever he felt so inclined he spent the night there. A Department messenger brought him to the evening meal and conveying him to his office in the morning.

William H. Burke, who was Secretary of the Van Wyck Dock Board, was the only witness at the John Doe hearing before Justice Mayer in the afternoon. Mr. Burke's questioning was conducted by Assistant District Attorney Clarke.

John Fleming, who secured a number of leases and contracts from the old board, had been subpoenaed, but was excused. He will be recalled, though, for Assistant District Attorney Clarke declares he has not given anything like all the information he possesses regarding the methods of the Van Wyck Dock Board, bearing on the charge of neglect of duty preferred against the Commissioners on information and belief by District Attorney Jerome.

Mr. Burke, it was learned, admitted that his wife, Florinda Burke, was the real beneficiary under the lease on a bath at the foot of West One Hundred and Forty-ninth Street, ostensibly granted by the old board to Florinda Burke was Secretary, to one John Monahan.

Mr. Burke denied that he had employed Joseph Egan, the clerk who obtained the lease of the West Twenty-ninth Street bulkhead which the Erie Railroad wanted, under circumstances previously related, but declined to testify on the ground that it would tend to incriminate and degrade him. When pressed he admitted, however, that Egan had been employed as confidential clerk to his wife, Florinda, in the conduct of business which Burke assigned to her when he failed in 1897.

Mr. Burke was asked about a number of leases on which what purports to be the signature of the same persons appear in apparently different handwritings. Mr. Burke replied that he never witnessed the signatures, that he merely attested the seal, and that Mr. Farley, the Assistant Secretary, generally witnessed the signatures. Mr. Farley will be called later.

Mr. Clarke declined to discuss the proceedings before Justice Mayer, but it was learned from a reliable source that Mr. Burke had given information as to the relations of the various favored leaseholders to different members of the Tammany board, and just where they got their influence.

The following statement was made by Mr. Burke when he emerged from the private chambers of Justice Mayer:

"They asked me regarding the leases on a number of piers, regarding the records of the board, and regarding erasures in some of the leases and contracts. I told them I knew nothing about the latter. They also asked me if I employed Joseph Egan or if he had been in my employ at any time. I answered these questions in the negative. I identified the two Egan leases. In reply to several questions regarding the Treasurer's orders, I told Mr. Clarke that I knew nothing about them. In reply to many questions I referred Mr. Clarke to the records of the department as the best evidence."

MEXICO'S BID FOR TRADE.

Has Commercial Exposition in Milan, and Will Follow with Others in England and United States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Advices received at the State Department give an account of the commercial museums which Mexico is gradually establishing in different trade centres throughout the world. The project is to illustrate in foreign countries the many industries and materials that enter into Mexican trade and to establish markets for what her people have to sell.

The scheme is under the charge of the Department of Public Works, and is liberally supported by the Mexican Congress. The Mexican Exposition in Milan, Italy, is now in full operation and is proving a complete success. The next to be installed is that at Liverpool, where every raw product that Mexico has to export to Europe will be shown.

The Governors of the various States of Mexico have been called upon for samples of the principal productions of their respective provinces, including woods, fibres, coffee, sugars, cereals, minerals and similar articles to be sent to Liverpool. It is likely that the next museum to be set up will be in some central point in the United States.

Commissioner Ware's First Year.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—During the fiscal year which closed yesterday 132,829 claims were allowed by the Pension Bureau and 118,730 rejected. The number of allowances exceeded those of last year to the extent of 23,005. The number of rejections was 11,874. This was the first year under the administration of Commissioner Ware.

SWALLOWED A CARTRIDGE.

Then Bronx Citizen Went to Police Station and Frightened the Sergeant.

"Sergeant," said a man entering the Tremont Police Station last night, "I've swallowed a revolver cartridge." And as he said this he leaned with some violence against the rail.

"Good heavens, man!" said Sergt. Egan. "Good do that; don't be so careless; you might go off!"

"I wish the darn cartridge would go off, if only I could get rid of the pains that I feel here all the time," and the man smote himself in the abdomen, while Sergt. Egan promptly dodged behind his desk.

John Watson of 322 Henry Street, the Bronx, was the man who had swallowed the cartridge. He said that three days ago he was firing his revolver and placed the cartridge in his mouth while so doing, and that it slipped down his throat.

Sergt. Egan sent an ambulance call to Fordham Hospital, and Dr. Cunniff responded. When the doctor learned the nature of the case, he placed Watson in the ambulance and started for the hospital, giving his driver strict injunctions to avoid the bumpy places in the road.

IN BEHALF OF Y. M. C. A.

Meeting at Newport in Interest of Army and Navy Branch.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, July 2.—An interesting meeting was held to-day at the residence of Col. and Mrs. De Lancey Kane in the interest of the Army and Navy Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Newport branch of the Women's Auxiliary of the International Committee, of which Mrs. Stephen B. Luce is President. Among those present were Senator George Peabody Wetmore, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Luce, Capt. French E. Chadwick, President of the Naval War College, and Mrs. Chadwick; Col. William Ennis, U. S. A., commanding the artillery district of Narragansett, and Mrs. Ennis; Capt. W. W. Mead, Commandant of the naval training station; Lieut. Commander R. F. Fletcher of the Torpedo Station; Lieut. Commander and Mrs. N. R. Usher, Capt. Theo. K. Gibbs, Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, Mrs. Edward King, Mrs. W. Forbes Morgan, Miss C. Ogden Jones, Mrs. Gardiner B. Perry, Mrs. Beutelle Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Derby, Mrs. Burke-Roche, Mrs. F. G. Garrettson, and Mrs. H. W. Bookstaver.

Senator Wetmore presided, and spoke of the efforts to start the local army and navy branch and its success in the few months it has been in existence. William D. Miller, Secretary of the International Committee at New York, spoke of the general work of the army and navy branch. General Secretary Badmun spoke of the work of the transport association, and Secretary Spencer of the local army and navy branch.

Rear Admiral Luce urged the hearty support of the institution. "The sailor," he said, "is not as bad as he is sometimes suppressed. He is a magnificent man in his own sphere, and it is but justice to him for us to do all that we can to improve his good qualities and keep down his bad."

Col. Ennis spoke of the needs of sailors for a suitable place to go when on leave and the benefits of this new movement in their behalf. Capt. Chadwick and Capt. Mead also spoke.

THE SAN PEDRO DEAL.

Arrangements for Purchase of Part of Oregon Short Line Nearly Complete.

Arrangements for the purchase of a part of the Oregon Short Line by the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad, which was announced about two months ago, are nearing completion, and the final settlement will probably be made next week. The transfer of the 300-mile branch, which runs from Salt Lake City to Coliente, will necessitate a cash payment of about $18,000,000 to the Oregon Short Line. The greater part of this money will be advanced by Senator Clark, the backer of the new road, and his personal friends.

They will receive in return bonds of the San Pedro Road. These bonds are part of an issue of $50,000,000 authorized in April last. Of this amount $40,000,000 will be issued at once. Of the $22,000,000 not necessary for the purchase of the Oregon Short Line branch and various terminal properties, there will be used for construction and equipment purposes $1,000,000 a month. The price of the Oregon Short Line is understood to have been about $7,900,000.

New Baltimore and Ohio Detour Line.

The Baltimore and Ohio is about to build a detour line along the Monongahela River opposite Fairmont, West Va., to be known as the Palatine Branch. West of Fairmont the Fairmont, Morgantown and Pittsburg Branch joins the Wheeling Division, connection being made by a bridge over the river and into the immense new yard that is being constructed to take care of the Fairmont region coal. It was thought wise to extend the Fairmont, Morgantown and Pittsburg to a point east of Fairmont on the Wheeling Division to afford an additional connection in case of congestion in and about Fairmont and other emergencies. The line will be about three miles in length.

Port Chester Road Can Build.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 2.—The report sent out last night to the effect that an injunction had been issued by the Appellate Division, Third Department, restraining the New York and Port Chester Railroad Company from constructing its road or otherwise proceeding under the recent permission of the Railroad Commission turns out to be contrary to the facts. The court record shows that the application for injunction was denied.

SAY WOMAN IS A FAGIN.

Five Boys Declare That They Were Taught to Steal.

Five boys who were arrested Wednesday night for stealing from shopkeepers, told Magistrate Baker in the Harlem Police Court yesterday, that Mrs. Mary Reilly of 220 East Seventy-ninth Street, had taught them to steal and had received the goods they had taken.

When arrested yesterday on the charge of receiving stolen goods, Mrs. Reilly acknowledged having bought a pair of shoes from one of the boys. The police say twenty pawn tickets were found in her room. The woman was held for examination.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The atmospheric conditions in the East and the central valleys have not changed materially in the last twenty-four hours. In the extreme Northwest and the Central Rocky Mountain regions there has been a sharp fall in the temperature under the influence of an area of high pressure that has advanced eastward from the North Pacific Coast. High temperatures continue in the Mississippi Valley and thence eastward to the coast, except in the upper lake region and Northern New England. The maximum reading to-day in the East was 96 degrees at Washington, D. C., and Philadelphia, Penn., respectively.

Scattered showers have fallen in the South Atlantic and Gulf States, East Tennessee, the lake region, and the Upper Mississippi and upper Missouri Valleys. Local rains are probable Friday in the Upper Mississippi Valley, the Missouri Valley, and the lake region and the South Atlantic States, and showers will continue on Saturday in the lake region, the Middle Atlantic and New England States, and in the Gulf States.

It will be cooler Friday in the Middle Mississippi and Lower Missouri Valleys, and lower temperatures will prevail Saturday in the lower lake region and the Ohio Valley. The winds along the Atlantic Coast will be mostly light to fresh southwest; on the West Gulf Coast, fresh to brisk southeast; on the East Gulf coast, light south to southwest; on the Great Lakes, light to fresh and variable.

Steamships departing Friday for European ports will have light southwest winds and fair weather to the Grand Banks. Storm warnings are displayed on the Texas coast.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

New England, fair Friday, Saturday, showers and hot so warm; light to fresh west winds becoming northerly.

District of Columbia and Maryland, fair Friday, Saturday, showers; light variable winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania, Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Delaware, fair and warm Friday; Saturday showers with lower temperature, light to fresh west winds, becoming variable.

Western Pennsylvania, fair in south, showers in north portion Friday; Saturday showers, cooler in south portion; light variable winds.

Western New York, showers Friday and Saturday; light to fresh west winds, becoming variable.

Minnesota, showers Friday and Saturday, warmer Saturday, fresh east to southeast winds.

CRISIS REACHED IN AQUEDUCT INQUIRY

Train Says an Arrest Is Likely Within a Few Days.

Engineers and Other Experts Examined —Prominent Witnesses to be Summoned to Testify Monday.

A crisis was reached yesterday in the investigation which has been carried on for several days by Assistant District Attorney Train on a complaint of neglect of duty preferred against the Aqueduct Commissioners by George L. Duval, Chairman of the Merchants' Association committee which has been investigating the workings of the board.

Mr. Train is authority for the statement that an arrest may occur within a few days as a result of disclosures made.

The complaint has been lodged on information and belief against three of the Commissioners, William H. Ten Eyck, John I. Ryan, and John J. Windolph. W. R. Curtis, the fourth Commissioner, who was appointed by Mayor Low recently, is not mentioned in the complaint.

Mr. Train had before him yesterday as witnesses engineers employed on the construction of the Jerome Park Reservoir and members of the so-called Burr Commission, which was appointed by Mayor Low a year ago for the purpose of making an investigation in reference to sources of additional water supply for the city, and also to report on the progress of the work of construction on the Jerome Park Reservoir and the Croton Dam.

Mr. Train declined to discuss the testimony given by the witness who, prior to testifying, had been sworn before Justice Mayer of the Court of Special Sessions. It was learned, however, that information important in its bearing on tentative charges had been obtained.

Herbert C. Alden, ex-assistant engineer on the Jerome Park Reservoir work, spent two hours yesterday afternoon with Mr. Train. From the story he told it would appear that inferior mortar and other material had been used in the construction of the big dam, with the result that the entire westerly wall—as far as the work on it has progressed—is full of leaks and cracks and other defects.

A specific instance cited by Mr. Alden had reference to the construction of the wall adjoining Gatehouse No. 2. Here the specifications called for an extra strong core wall, with powerful restraining walls, and specially selected gravel filling which was to be carefully laid and rolled, wetted and pounded every six inches, so as to set properly.

Mr. Alden, it is understood, testified that this is what was done. A trestle was built, on which trucks were set to carry cars filled with gravel. The débris piled from the bottom of the reservoir. This was dumped between the restraining walls. When the wall had been built up, the trestle remained buried in the débris, and was covered over instead of removed, greatly increasing the strength of the structure, it is said. The work was carried on under instruction from W. R. Hill, chief engineer, and protests from subordinates employed on the work did not lead to any change of the methods.

Prof. William B. Burr of Columbia University, head of the commission appointed by Mayor Low, was to have testified, but was prevented because of an order from the Mayor requiring him to call at the Mayor's office.

John B. Freeman, an expert engineer and member of the Burr commission, however, testified. The examination of Mr. Freeman brought out an assertion that while the original plans called for an expenditure of $200,000 in the construction of the walls, $700,000 had already been spent, and the wall was not yet half finished. Mr. Freeman said that while he thought some of the changes necessary, as a whole they were to be condemned as a waste of time and money. He testified that in his opinion it would cost $100,000 more to complete the work under the new plans, and that there would be a delay of several years more.

Assistant District Attorney Train said he had learned that on July 30 last year John B. McDonald, the contractor, made application for an additional appropriation of $464,000, holding out as an incentive that the work could then be hastened to an extent where the westerly wall could be brought to a completion by Aug. 1 this year and the rest a year later. With this end in view Mayor Low voted for the additional expenditure, which, however, Mr. Train said, had not led to any apparent acceleration of the work, as examination showed there was yet a year's work on the western wall, while there was no saying when the other wall would be completed.

Chairman Duval of the Merchants' Association committee said that in his opinion the charges against the Commissioners should have been tried before Mayor Low, who under the charter is responsible for the work of the heads of city departments under him. It was only after the Mayor's power of removal had been brought into question that the committee decided to go to Mr. Jerome with its complaint.

Mr. Train said the John Doe proceeding would be resumed Monday, when a number of men prominently identified with the work would be called. Among these are Contractor McDonald, Chief Engineer W. R. Hill, who will be questioned regarding a fee of $10,000 he is alleged to have received from the City Government at Middletown, N. Y., while in the service of the commission; Division Engineer Uhlrich, Assistant Engineer C. A. Crane, and Engineers North and Bogart.

EXAMINING THAYER'S BODY.

Insurance Companies Suspect That Boston Man Insured for $185,000 Killed Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, July 2.—The insurance companies which have withheld the payment of policies issued upon the life of Edwin M. Thayer are not ready to recede from the position they have taken that there was something suspicious about his death. Although Prof. William B. Hills and Prof. Charles Harrington have reported that a chemical examination failed to disclose the presence of poison as the cause of death, the companies are not prepared to make the payments of the amounts of the policies that remain unsettled.

Prof. E. S. Wood of the Harvard Medical School has portions of the organs removed from the body of Thayer, and he has not completed his tests for poison yet. Prof. Wood was designated by District Attorney Stevens to make the chemical analysis for the county.

The insurance companies interested in this question, which involves about $250,000 in life insurance, something over $100,000 having been paid, will not settle the outstanding policies until they hear the result of Prof. Wood's tests. They appear to be confident that Prof. Wood will find morphine of some vegetable poison in sufficient quantity to leave no doubt that Thayer, carrying $480,000 in life insurance, and in the custody of a constable at a Boylston Street hotel at the time, committed suicide.

SOCIALISTS WILL GET OFFICES.

Mayor of Haverhill, Mass., Will Make All Appointments from That Party.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 2.—Mayor Parkman B. Flanders, the Socialist executive of the city, created a stir in local political circles this afternoon by making the announcement that he should hereafter appoint none but Socialists to municipal berths.

As the term of City Marshal Frank McLaughlin expires on Monday, this means that a Socialist will be named as his successor, something never before known in this city.

PATTISON PREDICTS VICTORY.

Pennsylvania's Democratic ex-Governor Expects National Wave of Reform.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, July 2.—In an interview here this evening ex-Gov. Robert E. Pattison said:

"Reform is badly needed in our National politics, and I expect to see such a wave of it sweep over the country as will result in the election of a Democrat at the next Presidential election."

MRS. PHARES TESTIFIES.

Woman Accused of Poisoning Her Husband Tells Her Story.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., July 2.—In the examination of Mrs. Annie R. Phares, accused of having poisoned her husband, she described to-day the incidents preceding his death.

Mrs. Phares said that on the Monday preceding her husband's death she went to Columbus to consult Dr. Du Boll. Her husband, she said, asked her to purchase strychnine to "kill off the rats in the house."

When she reached home she placed the strychnine on the writing desk and the tablets on the table. She administered a portion of the crushed tablets to her husband, who, when he became worse, refused to allow her to summon a physician. Finally, when he went into convulsions, a physician was summoned, but it was too late.

When the physician arrived Samuel Gilbert was with him. Gilbert, she said, was prejudiced against her and had previously spread a report that she had tried to kill her husband with paris green. Being afraid of him, she threw the bottle of strychnine into the fire. She stated that several people were witnesses of this act.

She declared, in direct contradiction to Dr. Du Boll's testimony that the latter had told her that the medicine might make her husband worse for a time.

Mr. Atkinson, the prosecutor, in summing up said Mrs. Phares was responsible for her husband's death. He severely scored both the defendant and Garfield Taylor, her friend.

Eckard H. Budd, counsel for Mrs. Phares, in his argument admitted all of Mrs. Phares's misconduct, but denied that she killed her husband. He claimed that Phares took poison, and failed the prosecution to prove that Mrs. Phares administered the deadly drug. Judge Garrison will charge the jury to-morrow.

WED SUNDAY SCHOOL PUPIL.

BAYVILLE, L. I., July 2.—The Rev. Herman Zoller of the German Lutheran Church here was married to-day to one of his Sunday school girls, Miss Annie Marsh. Pastor Zoller is young and handsome.

There is some talk of a possible division in the church over the preacher's choice. He disregarded certain church members' advice as to whom he should marry. The opposing church people may close the parsonage and the church doors upon the returning couple. Pastor Zoller has had much trouble with some of his parishioners in the past two years over his love affairs.

BAILEY ACQUITTED OF ARSON.

Judge Dismissed New Fire Island Hotel Case.

J. A. Bailey, caretaker of the burned new Fire Island Hotel, who was arrested on a charge of arson growing out of the destruction of that building, was acquitted Wednesday before Judge Wright. He was arrested at Bay Shore and kept in jail for a week previous to the trial, which lasted two days. The prosecution introduced about a half dozen witnesses, but at the close of their testimony Judge Wright granted the motion for Mr. Bailey's discharge, made by Champe S. Andrews of 37 Liberty Street, his counsel, and said he would be ashamed to present such flimsy evidence as the case had evoked to the Grand Jury. Mr. Bailey and his friends look upon the outcome as a complete vindication.

"It was my duty to be in that hotel," said Mr. Bailey yesterday. "I stayed because I was in the hotel when it started to burn, the owners jumped to the conclusion that I had fired it. Mr. Andrews moved for my discharge on the ground that there was no evidence that a crime had been committed, and none that I was in any way responsible for the destruction of the hotel."

HOSPITAL FOR CONVALESCENTS.

Charities Department Opens New Blackwell's Island Institution.

In the building at the northern end of Blackwell's Island, formerly occupied by the Manhattan State Hospital, a hospital for convalescent patients under the care of the Department of Charities, was opened on Wednesday by Commissioner Homer Folks.

The building contains beds for forty men and thirty women, and the number may be increased with growing demands so as to accommodate seventy men and sixty women.

Patients will be allowed to remain for three weeks under ordinary circumstances, but provision is made whereby a six weeks' convalescence can be arranged in exceptional cases.

Philippine Exhibits for St. Louis.

MANILA, July 2.—The United States transport Kilpatrick sailed for New York to-day with 500 tons of exhibits for the St. Louis Exposition, a battalion of the Fifth Infantry, and the bodies of 300 soldiers.

Naval Lieutenants Retired.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Lieuts. William B. Whittlesey and Samuel M. Strite of the navy to-day were retired under the naval personnel act, which provides that whenever a sufficient number of vacancies do not occur in the grades below Lieutenant in any year two Lieutenants shall be selected for retirement.

The Year at the Patent Office.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—A summary of the business transacted by the Patent Office for the fiscal year, ended June 30, shows that 33,229 patents were granted and 54,256 applications filed. The receipts of the office were $1,501,231. The year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of the bureau.

Republicans Give Dady His Picture.

Ex-Elections Commissioner Michael J. Dady received a portrait of himself at the First Assembly District Republican Club, Brooklyn, last night. D. Harry Ralston, executive member of the Republican General Committee for the First District, made the presentation address, and he was followed by George F. Elliott, Register John K. Neal, ex-Sheriff Norman S. Dike, and Hugo Hirsh. Mr. Dady responded briefly expressing his thanks.

BACILLI IN CARTRIDGES

Tetanus Germs Discovered by an Expert of Newark.

On Dr. Connolly's Opinion Board of Health of That City Will Endeavor to Stop Sales.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., July 2.—Discovery of tetanus germs in blank cartridges offered for sale in this city has been made by Dr. Richard N. Connolly, bacteriologist of the Board of Health, and an effort will be made to prevent the sale of them.

This discovery is the result of an outbreak of lockjaw in Pittsburg, where fifty cases followed a celebration in which fire-arms were used. When informed of it Dr. H. C. Herold, President of the Health Board of this city, called a special session of that body this afternoon to take action in the matter, and, if possible, enact rules at once to prevent the cartridges from reaching the public by Saturday.

What action will be taken is not known. The police were called in consultation to-night and informed of the matter, and asked to induce dealers to refrain from making sales which in the event of accident may lead to cases of lockjaw.

When Dr. Herold was seen to-night he said he has had his suspicions as to the existence of bacilli in blank cartridges for some time. His belief was so strengthened by the outbreak of lockjaw in Pittsburg that he decided to have Dr. Connolly, an eminent bacteriologist, make an investigation.

Dr. Connolly to-night would not make a statement beyond the fact that he put the cartridges under tests in his laboratory at the City Hospital and found positive evidence of the existence of the germs.

Dr. William T. Wrightson was astonished at the discovery made by Dr. Connolly, which he does not doubt in the least. He declared that it establishes the fact that many lives have been sacrificed because cartridges containing these germs have been on sale for years. He said that he would use every effort to bring the matter before the Law Department of the city.

Several deaths from lockjaw have followed Fourth of July celebrations in this city for years past, and it is the opinion of physicians that disease-bearing cartridges have been sold here for a long time.

ATTACKED BY RABID DOG.

Three Children Bitten in Jamaica—Narrow Escape in Flushing.

A dog in Queens Borough yesterday bit three children and a second dog had four children at his mercy, but did not attack them. The first dog appears to have had rabies, as he showed the usual signs, while the second frothed at the mouth and is supposed to have only been affected by the heat.

Where the first dog came from is not known. No trace of it had been obtained up to late in the afternoon, when it appeared in front of 469 Fulton Street, in Jamaica, where a group of children was at play. They did not see the dog until it was in their midst, and had begun its attack. Before the children could get out of the way the animal had bitten Nellie Eisintraum, seven years old, on the left leg; Michael O'Brien of 43 Willow Street, five years old, on the right arm, and Michael Baumann of 380 Fulton Street, on one of his legs. The dog was shot a few minutes later. The injured children were removed to Mary Immaculate Hospital.

The second dog was a big St. Bernard in Flushing. Eugene Graven, the driver of a sprinkling wagon, was crossing a lot when he heard a chorus of screams, and located them in the house at 227 Washington Street. He ran into the house, and in a room on the second floor, rear, found two small boys and two small girls perched on a table and clinging to each other. Around the room, frothing at the mouth, was running the big dog. Graven, at risk of being bitten himself, kicked the dog to the head of the stairs and down them. When they reached the entry they were met by Patrolman Cruise, who had run up in response to screams from others in the house. The officer shot the dog.

The dog belonged to a neighbor, and is said to have been sick since hot weather set in.

BUT FIVE BODIES RECOVERED.

Now Certain That All of the 234 Miners Entombed at Hanna, Wyoming, Are Dead.

HANNA, Wyo., July 2.—Of the 234 men entombed by the mine explosion on Tuesday the bodies of only five have been recovered and all hope that any of the others are alive has been abandoned. Fire and smoke are preventing exploration of the lower workings, and it is feared that many if not all, of the bodies now in the mine will be consumed.

DOG BURIED IN PURPLE SILK.

Mrs. Havens's Pet Lay in State in Her Parlor for a Day.

Mrs. Haskel Havens, who lives in a brownstone residence at 815 Hudson Street, Hoboken, was until Wednesday the owner of a fox terrier named Bella. The dog was eight years old and had been the constant companion of Mrs. Havens. When it died, Wednesday, its owner's grief was great. Mrs. Havens wanted to have her pet embalmed and visited several undertakers for that purpose, but none of them cared to undertake the task.

Mrs. Havens then procured a handsome imported Japanese basket lined with purple silk for a casket, and at one end she placed a silk cushion for the dog's head to rest upon. She placed Bella's body in the casket and the dog lay in state in the front parlor until yesterday. A number of Mrs. Havens's friends called to take a last look at the dead pet. Then the dog was buried in a grave three feet deep in the back yard. Flowers were placed on the grave, which will be marked later by an [illegible]

SMALLPOX HOSPITAL BURNED.

Orange Authorities Think the Building Was Set on Fire.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., July 2.—Fire early to-day destroyed the main structure of the group of buildings, erected at Heywood and Mosswood Avenues in Orange at the time of the smallpox outbreak about two years ago and used as an isolation hospital, entailing a loss of $2,000. It was with difficulty that the firemen prevented the destruction of the other buildings, as there are no hydrants nearby and the fight had to be made with the chemical engine. Both Health Inspector William Sollner and Fire Chief Hodgkinson think the building was set on fire.

When the fire was discovered by Watchman Ryan the building was almost enveloped in flames. The hospital is about a mile from the nearest fire station, and when the first company of firemen arrived it was unable to do anything because of the lack of water, but the firemen were enabled to save the office, laundry, and kitchen buildings. There were no patients in the hospital at the time. The burned building contained several beds, linen, medical and surgical appliances, and a quantity of medicines, all of which were destroyed. Contracts had just been signed for the removal of the building to the Orange reservoir this week in response to the demands of the people in the neighborhood, who claimed that the presence of the hospital there depreciated the value of the property.

Cool Clothes for Men

Yesterday a man was inclined to doubt that anything in the shape of clothes could be cool.

Today we'll encourage your hope, if you have any left; and make the clothes cost you less than usual, too.

About one hundred Blue Serge Suits; some quarter silk-lined, others half serge-lined; with hand-made collars and button-holes; cool, serviceable suits, made to sell at $12 and $13.50; today at $9.50 a suit.

Men's Outing Suits of the very newest and coolest fabrics to be found—wool crashes, cheviots, homespuns and tropical weight worsteds, at $8.50 to $15.

Men's Outing Trousers of all-wool striped crashes at $3.50 and $3.75. Stylish and serviceable.

Second floor, Fourth avenue.

Men's Hats For the Fourth

Straw Hats first, of course.

Wide brims, or narrow; high crowns or low, as you please. Pure white, or the new white-and-black; and all fresh, clean hats just out of the boxes. Smooth split straw, at $1.50 to $5; sennit braid $1.50 to $3—best values in town. White-and-black straw, $2, $2.50, $3.50. Panamas, if you prefer—$5 to $25; genuine, of course.

Maybe a straw hat's too formal for your proposed outing? Here are outing caps and hats of duck and cool wool crash, at 50c and upwards.

Regulation N. Y. Y. C. Caps, in duck and cloth, $1.50 and upwards.

Come in—we'll fix you up in a jiffy.

Pretty Parasols Newly Priced

Now, just when the real parasol weather is beginning, you are enabled to buy your parasol for far less than you could a bit earlier in the season.

All our fine French and English Parasols have been reduced a third to one-half, and there's a splendid assortment to choose from:

Fancy Black Moire Parasols, $3.50, from $6.
Fancy Coaching Parasols, $7, from $10; $5, from $7.75; $1.50, $1.90 and $2.50, from $4 and $5; and $1.25, from $2.50 each. Broadway.

Men's Umbrellas

Perish the thought of rain umbrellas for tomorrow! But here's word of Men's Sun Umbrellas—the Fourth is usually hot, you know. And an offering of the wet-weather kind for good measure:

Gray Gloria Sun Umbrellas, at $3.
Pongee Sun Umbrellas, silk-lined, at $5.
$3 Silk Umbrellas, 28-inch; natural wood handles, at $2. Broadway.

Shirts for Men

These are the days when his shirt is the most important part of a man's apparel for both looks and comfort.

And this is the time when our Shirt stock is at its best.

Here is such variety as meets abundantly the wishes of men of all tastes. Here are shirts of such character as particular men delight in. And throughout the line they are the best-made shirts that are produced, both at home and abroad:

At $1.50—Shirts of imported madras and percale, made in our own factory; with detachable cuffs. Also of cheviot, with cuffs attached.

At $2—Fancy madras shirts, with plain bosoms; cuffs attached or detached. Neat figures on white ground; pleated bosoms, detachable cuffs.

At $2.50, $3 and $3.50—Fancy and plain white imported Shirts, with attached or detached cuffs.

Pongee Silk Shirts, with pleated bosoms, at $4.50.

White Silk Shirts, the lightest weight shirt made, at $6. Broadway and Ninth street.

Awning Remnants, 12½c a Yard

About a thousand yards in all, in 6 to 30-yard lengths of a pattern; enough to make awnings for one or four windows. They are patterns that cannot be duplicated this season—that's their only fault. But we've marked them 12½ a yard, instead of 15c to 25c a yard.

Of course we will make them up for you, if you wish, and do it promptly, moderately, and well.

Women's Dresses and Skirts

The Fourth of July Sort

Everything can't be lawns and dimities, if you're going away for the Fourth. You need just such dresses and skirts as these for the train ride, a steamer ride, or mountain or shore trip; and these silk dresses are unusually cool by reason of the open faggoting that takes the place of all seams:

Dresses of satin foulard, in blue and black, with polka-dots, and white taffeta silk with black checks; waists made with bands of faggoting and material on shoulders, and faggoting on seams, collar and cuffs. Skirts have yoke of faggoting, and otherwise trimmed to correspond with waists. $20 value, at $13.50

Then there are about fifty Skirts of etamine, in walking lengths; made in seven-gore style, with side plaits and finished with buttons and bem; all inside seams bound. Colors black and blue. At $5, worth $7.50.

Then if you want Wash Skirts, here are walking skirts of pique, duck and linen, at $1.50 to $3.50.

And Dress Skirts of pique and linen, at $3 to $7.50.

Second floor, Broadway.

Flowered Ribbons, 35c

Want a pretty sash-ribbon for a white dress tomorrow? Here's you chance.

Flowered Ribbons, 5⅞ and 6¼ in. wide; with solid color grounds, or white grounds with colored edges. Grounds in light blue, rose, cream, lettuce. Edges in violet, rose, yellow, black. Flowers—rich poppy design, in rose, yellow, and so on.

75c and 85c qualities at

Tenth street. 35c a Yard

Cool Clothes for Girls

Maybe these hints of cool raiment for your girls to wear on the outings tomorrow will be helpful:

Wash Skirts—
Of white duck and crash, $1.25.
Of white pique, $1.50 to $5.50.
Of white linen, $4.50 to $7.75.
Of colored linen, $3.75 to $5.50.

Wash Dresses, $1.50, $1.75, $2.25, up to $10.
Bathing Suits, $2.50 to $7.50.

Second floor, Ninth street.

Wear These and Be Cool

Hints for Women

Perhaps you're going far afield tomorrow—by rail or boat; or maybe you won't stray far from your own cool, darkened home. In any event, cool garments are essential—as they will be on every hot day this Summer. Here are some:

Silk Waists

Of black or white China silk, sheer and thin, and deliciously cool. Stitching, stirring, plaiting, and lace insertion give variety in abundance. Pretty styles at $3.75, $4.50, $5 and $6.

White Lawn Negligees

For house wear; trimmed with lace insertion, embroidery and cluster plaits, ribbon-trimmed; some in kimono style. All sizes in one style or another. Formerly $25.50 to $28; now $1.75 to $14.

Second floor, Tenth street.

Muslin Underwear

Dainty under-muslins at prices that still reflect the economies of the Summer Sale of White.

Cambric Petticoats, at $1.50 and $1.75; Chemises, 50c; Drawers, 15c. Under-Price Store, Basement.

Women's Traveling Coats

Some of the most charming Coats we brought over from Paris this year; and ideal for all sorts of Summer wear—traveling, motoring, as raincoats, and so on. They are of silk, backed with a thin coating of rubber, and are very light.

The variety of exquisite styles and colorings is practically limited only by the number of coats—about 75, for hardly two are alike. Some have jaunty little capes, others are corded and strapped or trimmed with velvet or silk on collar and cuffs, in Persian designs, plaids or plain colors.

Today they meet their first reduction—whereas until today they have been $30, $33, $35, $37.50 and $40. Second floor, Broadway.

Women's Gloves

You want the right sorts for comfort, and the correct sorts for looks. Both rights are here:

Women's 2-clasp Suede Lisle Gloves, in black or white, at 50c.

Women's 2-clasp Suede Lisle Gloves, in gray, mode, white and black, at 50c and 75c pair.

The Kayser Double-tipped Silk Gloves, in black or white, at 50c, 75c and $1.

Women's long Silk Gloves, elbow length, at 75c, $1 and $1.50.

Women's long Silk Mitts, at 50c, 75c and $1.

Women's Lace Mitts, 50c, $1, $1.50, $2.50, $3.50, $4.50, $5, $5.50, $6, to $16. Tenth street.

A Clean-Up of Women's Neckwear

Here is immense variety of lawn, mull and organdy ties—the finest sorts to be found this season at home and abroad.

Tomorrow you want to wear them.

Today we want to sell them.

On our part, we have cut prices most radically.

You can pick out two for the usual price of one, today.

They are mostly in white, with a sprinkling of dainty colorings, and some white-and-black effects.

They are patterned and embroidered with fancy stitchings, dots, blocks, scrolls, Renaissance and Teneriffe designs. Some with straight or shaped soft crush stock collars, others just the plain twice-around effect, with hemstitched and fancy embroidered ends. These new prices:

At 25c each, worth 50c.
At 50c each, worth 75c and $1.
At 75c each, worth $1.25 to $2.
At $1 each, worth $2 to $3. Broadway.

Outing Shoes For the Fourth

Maybe you've provided a special suit or dress, and an outing hat—and forgot shoes. Everything else cool, and and you're going to wear your ordinary, hot, stiff shoes.

Why not let your feet celebrate, too, and see how much better you feel when the day is over:

Women's White Canvas Gibson Ties, with high white Cuban heels; cut in the Oxford shape, with natural leather color military heels, chin soles. $1.50.

Men's White Duck Oxford or Lace Shoes, with rubber or leather soles. $2 for Oxford, $2.50 for lace.

Women's Kid Oxford Shoes, with welted soles of flexible oak leather; made in a factory producing high class shoes; all sizes and widths. $2.

Men's Oxford Shoes of kid, calf and patent leather, in a dozen styles; shoes that are sold at $5 in hundreds of stores, here at $3.90.

Barefoot Sandals for the boys and girls—most as comfortable as bare feet—$1 to $1.50.

Sneakers, rubber soles, canvas Oxford uppers, at 75c to $1.

White Duck spring-heel Shoes, at $1.50 to $2, according to size. Main floor, Fourth avenue.

Boys' Washable Outing Suits

Today is the mother's inning to provide for the boy's outing. Two groups of Washable Suits—one Sailor blouses, the other Russian—offer splendid choice at small cost. These—

About two hundred Washable Sailor Suits—many sorts bunched together for a clean-up—not one worth less than double today's price. All sizes from 4 to 12 years. At $1 a suit.

And about two hundred Russian Blouse Suits of linen and striped galatea; sizes for 2½ to 7 years. Worth $1.50; today at $1.15 a suit.

Second floor, Ninth street.

Camera Day

Does a Camera form part of your plans for enjoying tomorrow? Get it here, if it's still to be bought today; if you have one, here are all the supplies you'll need:

Cameras

No. 3 Folding Pocket Kodak with new automatic shutter, $17.50.
No. 3 Blair Folding Pocket Weno Hawkeye; 3¼ x 4¼ in. $20.20.

Films, Paper and Plates, Albums, Drying Racks, Developers, Toning Solution, Tripods and Developing Machines in full assortment. Annex, 770 Broadway

Shirt-waist Sets

Sets of three buttons, in dull or polished jet, or fine quality mother-of-pearl, round, in various patterns. Safety-pin backs make them easy to put in the shirt-waists. Remarkably little prices:

Jet, 10c a Set
Pearl, 20c a Set

Under-Price Store, Basement.

Sailor Hats, 50 Cents

Surely an attractive price for Women's and Girls' Sailor Straw Hats just before the Fourth; particularly when it applies to regular dollar values. Made of excellent split sennit straw, and in latest style. 50c each.

Also pique, linen, grass-cloth and canvas outing hats, plain, at 75c; simply trimmed at $1.25 to $2. The best sort of outing hats imaginable.

Second floor, Tenth street.

Chinese Lanterns

Hang them along the edge of the veranda, or under the trees on the night of the Fourth. Their soft radiance gives an air of peaceful festivity that offsets the strenuousness of the fireworks.

Paper lanterns are scarce this year, but we offer the following kinds in good assortment:

12-inch oval lanterns, 60c a dozen.
Fancy 12-inch lanterns; sets of 5 at 50c.
Fancy 10-inch lanterns; sets of 10 at 70c.
Large Lanterns in assorted shapes, 5 for $1. Gilt paper lanterns, in a variety of shapes and sizes, 10c to $1 each. Main and Third floors.

CHAMBERLAIN PLAN ATTACKED BY ROSEBERY

The ex-Premier Ridiculed Colonial Secretary's Programme.

Duke of Devonshire Replied—Said Whole Cabinet Had Agreed That Time Was Ripe for an Inquiry.

LONDON, July 2.—Lord Rosebery, in the House of Lords this afternoon, renewed the debate on the preferential tariff propositions, making a further request for information regarding the Cabinet's plans. In the course of a long speech he ridiculed Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's programme, and said he did not believe the Government intended to prosecute any inquiry into the matter.

The allegations that such an inquiry was being made were, said Lord Rosebery, merely a cloak to screen the irreconcilable differences between the Colonial Secretary and the other members of the Cabinet, and he demanded to know whether the inquiry would be definite and organized, whether it would be individual or collective, and whether the results would be published.

The Duke of Devonshire, Lord President of the Council, said that it was impossible now to give the exact scope of the inquiry. Several heads had been suggested by Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Balfour. The Government had determined that the inquiry should be full and satisfactory.

His Lordship declined to enter further upon the subject without a more explicit and longer notice than Lord Rosebery had seen fit to give in precipitating to-day's discussion. He could say that the position of the Government at present was somewhat different from that of Mr. Chamberlain; but that they did not conflict. The whole Cabinet had agreed that the time was ripe for an investigation of the possibilities of a closer fiscal union with the Colonies.

THE BRITISH TO STOP SUBSIDIZING SHIPS.

The Announcement Made by Secretary Forster During Discussion of Navy Estimates.

LONDON, July 2.—During the discussion of the navy estimates in the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Arnold-Forster, Secretary of the Admiralty, announced that the Admiralty did not intend to renew the existing subsidies for merchant ships which may be used in time of war, and that notice would be given April 1 next that the contracts would terminate a year from that date.

Many ships of the International Mercantile Marine Company will be affected by this decision.

John Lee, American manager of the White Star Line, when asked how the withdrawal of Government subsidies from his company would affect it, said:

"It don't amount to much. It is in line with the English Government's policy of gradually reducing ship subsidies or doing away therewith altogether."

"How large a sum has your company been receiving?"

"Oh, between $30,000 and $40,000."

"Is that for each ship affected by the new rule, which takes effect next Spring?"

"No; that sum represents the entire subsidy, so far as ships plying between England and this port is concerned. The Teutonic, Majestic, and Oceanic are the ones affected. None of the other White Star boats coming to this port are subsidized."

"This action, I may say, has been rather expected, for the English Government seems to think it preferable to charter boats if needed in time of war. The Germans available for auxiliary warships, and the British Government can duplicate them now with ships like the Cedric, which could be used as a warship troopship, or for other purposes. The Teutonic, Majestic, and Oceanic are only auxiliary cruisers."

The Canard boats sailing from this port which are subsidized are the Lucania, Umbria, Etruria, and Campania. The subsidy given them is said to be not greater than that allowed for the three White Star liners named.

During the Boer war the Cunard Company had experience with the new plan, for it allowed the Auranis to be chartered by the British Government.

The Cunard and White Star Lines are the only lines affected by the proposition to abolish subsidies.

AMERICANS RESIST TAX.

Two Natives of United States in Conflict with British Authorities.

LONDON, July 2.—The first foreigners to join the "Passive Resistance" movement against the Education act are two American taxpayers living at Wimbledon, the Rev. E. W. Farquhar, formerly of Portland, Oregon, and E. P. Gaston, who at one time lived in Chicago.

They have both refused to pay the education rate, and consequently their household goods will be seized and sold at auction to satisfy claims for a few shillings.

BRITISH CLAIMS SUSTAINED.

Final Award in Anglo-Russian Railway Dispute in China.

TIEN-TSIN, July 2.—The final award in the Anglo-Russian railway dispute has been delivered and practically concedes every claim put forward by the British company.

The case dates back to March, 1901, when Russia undertook to prevent the Tien-Tsin-Pekin Company from constructing a siding at Tien-Tsin on ground which Russia claimed it had acquired prior to the troubles in 1900.

The occupation of the ground by Russian troops in March, 1901, resulted in the latter being confronted by a body of British infantry, and the situation for a time was extremely delicate. Diplomatic intervention relieved the tension, and the matter was referred to arbitration.

KING EDWARD TO KING PETER.

British Sovereign Sends Congratulations to Servia's Ruler.

BELGRADE, Servia, July 2.—The King of England has replied in courteous terms to King Peter's notification of his succession to the throne, wishing him a prosperous reign and hoping it will bring peace, order, and justice to the country. King Edward's reply has caused great satisfaction here.

King Edward also expressed the hope that King Peter would be able to re-establish the good name and renown of the people of Servia, compromised by the recent tragic events.

LONDON, July 2.—It is officially stated in London that King Edward's telegram to King Peter does not change Great Britain's attitude toward Servia and it is added that diplomatic relations between the two countries will not be immediately resumed.

Princess Charles Has a Son.

LONDON, July 2.—Princess Charles of Denmark, daughter of King Edward, gave birth to a son to-day at Appleton cottage, Sandringham. Both mother and child are doing well.

The Princess, then Princess Maud of Wales, was married July 22, 1896, to Prince Charles, second son of the Crown Prince of Denmark. The son born to-day is their first child.

Baron Speck von Sternburg Appointed.

BERLIN, July 2.—The semi-official North German Gazette to-day announced that Baron Speck von Sternburg had been definitely appointed Ambassador of Germany at Washington.

Czar Not to Go to Rome.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 2.—The Czar has abandoned his proposed visit to Rome, provisionally fixed for the Autumn. The Czar and Czarina will spend the Autumn in the Crimea.

KISHINEFF PETITION READY IN A WEEK.

Signatures Being Solicited in Principal Cities of the Country.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Acting Secretary of State Loomis has been notified that the petition in behalf of the Russian Jews will probably be delivered at the State Department or at Oyster Bay in about a week. The document is being sent from one city to another in order to secure the signatures of the representative Hebrews and American publicists in every section of the country which can be easily reached.

Immediately upon the receipt of the petition by the United States Government it will be dispatched to Mr. Riddle, United States Charge at St. Petersburg. It will be accompanied by a note of instructions. The department does not at present expect to publish the note. Its nature is a matter of speculation, the weight of opinion being that Mr. Riddle will be instructed to inquire of the Russian Government whether it is willing to receive a petition, the nature of which will be plainly indicated by him. If there is a negative response Mr. Riddle will so notify the State Department and that probably will end the efforts of the department in connection with the petition.

Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, called at the State Department to-day to present Theodore Hanneen as Charge during the absence of the Ambassador. The Count expects to sail on the Kronprinz from New York, July 7, accompanied by the Countess Cassini and his personal attendants. The Count's stay at the department was very short. He conversed briefly with Acting Secretary Loomis, touching upon the matter of the petition in an informal way. They also discussed the published comments made by a State Department official with regard to Russia's course of action in Manchuria.

CHINESE AND WORLD'S FAIR.

Resent the Regulations Prescribed by Treasury Department.

PEKING, July 2.—The United States Treasury regulations regarding the Chinese visitors to the St. Louis Exposition are bitterly criticised in the native press, and it is believed will demoralise China's efforts to take a creditable part in the exposition. The most objectionable points in the eyes of the natives are the five-hundred-dollar bond, the photographic identification, police supervision of the visiting Chinese, and the expulsion from America of the Chinese workmen and assistants when the fair closes. The press points out that the Chinese visitors will be no better than prisoners throughout their stay.

The official newspaper of Chi-Li Province, whose utterances are understood to be directed by Yuan Shi Kl, the Governor of the province, taunts America with hypocritical pretense of friendly intercourse, and says the politeness with which what is called the most just nation on earth treats its guests is a warning to Chinese merchants and others throughout the empire to seriously reflect if they are contemplating a visit to St. Louis.

The tone of the press has already induced many Chinese to forego the idea of exhibiting at the exhibition.

NAVAL STATIONS IN CUBA FOR THE UNITED STATES.

Treaty Giving Cuba the Isle of Pines Also Signed—Navy Department Plans.

HAVANA, July 2.—The treaty between the United States and Cuba covering the naval and coaling station leases to be granted to the United States, and the treaty placing the Isle of Pines wholly under Cuban sovereignty, were signed to-day at noon.

The Isle of Pines treaty was signed last. While turning over the island to the absolute sovereignty of Cuba, the treaty safeguards the rights and privileges of the American residents on the island as though they were on American territory.

There were practically no difficulties or delays in reaching an agreement on the subject of the Isle of Pines treaty, but the naval stations' lease was the subject of long and tedious negotiations.

The occupation of the naval and coaling stations will be perpetual, the rental price being purely nominal and based on the cost of acquiring the stations and sites by the Cuban Government, the United States advancing the money necessary for the purchase of private lands at Guantanamo and Bahia Honda.

President Palma and the leading administration Senators maintain that all the treaties will be ratified before the adjournment of Congress.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Secretary Moody expressed great satisfaction at the news from Havana of the signing of the coaling stations treaty. It is earnestly hoped that the Cuban Senate, before its adjournment will act on the treaty, as the Navy Department is anxious to proceed at once with work on the stations.

JAPAN'S INFLUENCE IN CHINA.

Said to be Growing Because of Belief of Russian Unfriendliness.

BERLIN, July 2.—A dispatch to The Cologne Gazette from St. Petersburg says Russian sources in China report that the Japanese are gaining more and more influence with the Chinese Government in consequence of the Chinese belief that Russia is intentionally hampering China's development.

It is added that, notwithstanding the prohibition, there have been large importations of arms into China from the Philippines and from Japan.

YOKOHAMA, July 2.—It is rumored here that the Japanese naval manoeuvres off the Island of Ma-San-Pho, south of Corea, will be followed by a Japanese demonstration in Chinese waters.

Chilean Warships for Japan.

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, July 2.—A report is current here that Japan intends to acquire the Chilean warships now in course of construction.

RUMORED ILLNESS OF POPE.

Pontiff's Condition Unchanged—Doctors Say He May Live Five Years.

ROME, July 2.—Telegrams from abroad again started the rumor to-night that the Pope was ill. The report was quite unfounded, no change having occurred in the Pontiff's health since his recovery from the hemorrhoidal indisposition which troubled him early in June.

The Pope certainly is not what he was two years ago, but only as regards his strength, which has notably diminished owing to his advanced age, and not on account of any specific illness. All the doctors who have examined him agree that if nothing unforeseen happens he will live at least another five years.

Pope Leo is growing daily more annoyed over the false alarms regarding his health. The other day, when he drove for the first time in the Vatican Gardens, he himself published in the official column of the Osservatore Romano, adding: "Tell the editor to spread the news through the Italian and foreign press, so that the whole world will thank God that we are well to-day."

His Holiness to-day received in farewell audience Cardinal Fischer, to whom he repeated what a pleasant recollection he has of the visit from the German Emperor. He then received Viscount and Viscountess Pesqueira, with whom he conversed about Portugal.

Orders to Salonika's Governor.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 2.—The palace authorities have telegraphed to the Governor of Salonika to take the most stringent precautions to prevent a recurrence of disorders there and to keep the populace in check in case the Governor finds it necessary to suppress any revolutionary movement.

Montana's Wool Crop.

BUTTE, Mon., July 2.—The wool season has opened in Montana. Wool is selling at from 15½ to 16½ cents at Billings. The clip for the State will be about 35,000,000 pounds.

BLAMES BULGARIA FOR FRONTIER TROUBLES

Turkey Replies to Note About Its Military Dispositions.

Report That Turks Count Upon Support from England and Germany in Upholding Their Attitude.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cablegram.

LONDON, July 3.—The Turkish Ambassador at Vienna yesterday handed Minister of Foreign Affairs Goluchowski a note explaining the Turkish military dispositions near the Bulgarian frontier. The note was in explanation of the note sent to the powers by Bulgaria complaining that it was the intention of Turkey to commence war on Bulgaria.

The prevailing official opinion is that the Austro-Russian alliance will suffice to prevent hostilities between Bulgaria and Turkey, but this view is several degrees more optimistic than that which is entertained in diplomatic circles.

The correspondent of The Times in Vienna says he is informed that some of the Turkish authorities entertain the singular delusion that England and Germany would like to see the Sultan end the Bulgarian peril by adopting active, aggressive measures against the principality. With regard to England the absurdity of the view, he asserts, is perfectly manifest, but in the case of Germany the idea may have been encouraged by the strong tone of some semi-official editorials. It is difficult to imagine, the correspondent goes on to say, what advantage Germany would reap by a conflict in the Balkans.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 3.—The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says in well-informed circles in the Austrian capital the view is gaining ground that the outbreak of a war between Turkey and Bulgaria is nearer than generally supposed. A dispatch received there from Constantinople asserts that the possibility of hostilities is being canvassed in diplomatic circles at Pera, and it is feared that an encounter may at any moment occur. The newspaper in Sofia quotes the Bulgarian War Minister as saying:

"We will never attack Turkey, nor will Turkey attack us. On the contrary, we will fight for the peace of common enemy. War would endanger us both and leave us at the mercy of the German colonists and other vultures who are waiting for our end to take our place. Should a palace rebellion remove the Sultan, we would march on Constantinople and set upon the throne, and baffle the intrigues of Rashad Bey, the Sultan's brother."

Fighting at Oskin.

USKUB, European Turkey, July 2.—Severe fighting is reported to be occurring at Oskin, between Gievgyeli and Grumendja. No details have been received here.

CONFERRED WITH EMPEROR.

Premier Korber Consults with Francis Joseph on Cabinet Crisis.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cablegram.

LONDON, July 3.—The correspondent of The Times at Vienna says that Premier Korber to-day had a long conference with the Emperor, but that no decision with regard to the Cabinet crisis is expected before Saturday. It is generally believed, though, that the repeated postponement of a decision augurs ill for the Korber Ministry, whose resignation probably will be accepted Saturday.

There is no tangible improvement in the situation in Hungary, where Kossuth resists the entreaties of his rebellious followers to resume the leadership of the Independence Party. The outlook will not lose its critical character until Hedervary has tranquillized the independent extremists with regard to national military concessions.

OTTOMAN DEBT UNIFICATION.

Germans Are Not Pressing It—Bagdad Railway Situation.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cablegram.

LONDON, July 3.—The correspondent of The Times at Constantinople says that the Germans officially announce that they are in no way interested in the unification of the Ottoman debt. They have followed the usual policy of not opposing French enterprise unless directly opposed to their own interests.

The Germans also assert that it is not true that unification is necessary for the completion of the Bagdad Railway, as all arrangements have been completed for the first section and the remainder can be arranged for as required.

INTER-COLONIAL COUNCIL.

It Showed That Prospects for Future Progress Are Highly Reassuring.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cablegram.

LONDON, July 3.—The correspondent of The Times at Johannesburg says that the opening of the Inter-Colonial Council is an event pregnant with significance for the future.

Lord Milner's inaugural address was severely businesslike. The financial situation as disclosed by the review which Lord Milner gave shows that even on the most cautious estimate the prospect for future progress is highly reassuring. Although rapid expension is improbable in the near future, steady progress is certain.

Botha Addresses Burghers.

HEIDELBERG, Transvaal, July 2.—A meeting of burghers for the purpose of discussing important public matters was held to-day and adopted resolutions regretting the proposed introduction of Asiatic labor and asking the Government not to place the $525,000,000 war debt on the country before representative institutions had been granted. Gen. Botha made a speech in which he said that the Dutch did not wish to obstruct, but to assist, the Government.

Peace in Nicaragua Assured.

SAN SALVADOR, July 2.—It is announced here that the Conservative Party in Nicaragua has offered unconditional support to President Zelaya. The arrangement was made at Granada and peace in Nicaragua is thereby assured.

Strike Delays a Carnegie Library.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 2.—Work is at a standstill on the new Carnegie Library in this city because of the New York City building strikes. It was expected that marble, tile, and ornamental workers would be here to-day from New York with the materials for completing the interior of the building, but they did not arrive. It was learned that they will not be able to come here until the New York strike is at an end. It had been planned to dedicate the building early in September, but the ceremony has been indefinitely postponed.

ANOTHER 5TH AVENUE GALLERY

Modern Dutch, French, and Spanish Pictures at a New Art Shop.

The new galleries of Messrs. Fishel, Adler & Schwartz at 365 Fifth Avenue are finished, not, indeed, to the last point, but so far complete as to be open for inspection. The entire building has been remade and a notable façade takes the place of the old brownstone front. The entrance is on the street level into a lofty room embracing the former basement and first story. Through a tall passage with barrel vaulting, the sides lined with marble facings and pillars, one sees the second gallery on a slightly higher level. This is hung with a pale green figured paper and is designed for water colors and pastels. Beyond, and again slightly higher, is a third room in crimson with stairs at the back leading to the fourth gallery, likewise clad in a rich red wall decoration. These inner galleries have sky windows which flood the pictures with daylight in the murkiest weather and bring out the most delicate shades of the oil paintings. The architect is Mr. Edward Neckarsulmer.

Under the high gallery in the rear are the stables and storerooms of the shop, having an entrance from the side street, so that pictures can be taken in and out with the least interference with the main shop, where, as usual with art dealers, the prints and pictures in black and white are shown. Given the ordinary New York lot, the arrangement of this house is decidedly novel, and the interior, with its vista of galleries opening one behind the other and gradually ascending, is decidedly pleasing. The architect has treated the interior in a large yet sumptuous way, giving broad spaces for the eye to rest on. He has somewhat overdone the reds in the two inner galleries, however, which would be more restful and better for the pictures there displayed if a quieter tone or some neutral tint had been chosen, such as he has supplied in the water color gallery.

The pictures are in place for the Summer. Among them a Dutch baby in a wicker cradle by Jacob Israels is noticeable; also, a little head by Ludwig Knaus, "The Love Letter"; an ideal face of the blonde Bavarian type, by Gabriel Max, probably painted long ago, with a wild rose at the breast—let us call it "Röslein auf der Heide." An Edouard Detaille dated 1874 shows French infantrymen skirmishing on a massive stairway that seems to lead to an open square. They are firing as they ascend the steps, and men in the windows above are joining in the fight. This is a good specimen of Detaille's early work.

Late French work is a graceful "Pandora" by C. A. Lenoir, a young girl clad in one thin robe of white, carrying a golden box. Here is one of the sensuous women, half Gypsy, half Spaniard, by Mlle. Juana Romani, and Henner is represented by one of his half-lengths of a young woman with very dead-white complexion, red lips, soulful eyes shadowed by dusky hair, and one spot made by a red flower on her breast. Another Henner is a sketchy profile of a girl in Alsatian headdress of dark blue, evidently a patriotic head, having reference to the lost provinces.

Several pleasing bits of landscape with running water are by Fritz Thaulow, the most interesting a moonlight on a canal in a French or Flemish town, with the old 'ow houses on both sides. A French village street lacks the crinkly water which is the earmark of Thaulow's work. A Daubigny is in the same case. It is not a river scene, but a French farm landscape with haystack and plowman. Boudin is represented by an unpretentious little view of a straggling town distributed on both banks of a creek or stream, across which runs a bridge. In the foreground on sandy soil the townboats are drawn up, each showing a separate note of color, indicate by their shape the nearness of salt water.

There is a small "Seated Oriental Sentinel" by Bargue in one of these galleries which is notable for the ease and naturalness of its pose. It lacks the Fortuny-like key of the brushwork we associate with this short-lived master. It is not finished in parts, but has a good deal of merit. Doubtless, had he lived, Bargue would have put his miniature touch to the Oriental's face and added value to the picturesque garb.

An early example of William Bouguereau dated 1872 shows an Italian girl in white chemise, dark-red overskirt, greenish-blue homespun skirt, and dull red and yellow striped hat, the latter naming her as a tambourine as she sits pensive and alone. It is not so tight in painting as Bouguereau's later work. The pose is natural, suggesting fatigue, the expression that of an exile suffering from nostalgia. The color scheme is harmonious and restful. Altogether this pictere gives a much better impression of Bouguereau than his later symbolical figures. It really has feeling and charm, surprising as it may seem to find either charm or real feeling in this hard and over-conscientious painter's work.

There are several pleasing little interiors with sheep and poultry by Charles Jacque, and some nicely toned little townscapes by José Weiss. An old violin player by Jimenez-Aranda is a delightful bit of realistic genre. Then before us is a green vaine cot in a tavern; his big white beaver is thrown to the stone floor, and on his head he wears a tall, soft, conical affair like a nightcap. He wears a dark gray coat, and liver-colored breeches. It is a bit painted with a good deal of pleasure by the Spanish painter.

The Gérome is not one of the old master's happiest hits. A group of Orientals in colored turbans and robes issues from a mosque. On the left are veiled women squatting on the ground before baskets heaped with oranges. Two brown dogs are near them. Having no particularly interesting story to tell, Gérome's hard brushwork and inability to feel colors with delicacy leave him here in a rather poor plight. One turns with relief to a little Odilon Redon still life by Vollon, who may not have had the ability to tell much of a story in paint, but certainly understood the subtle language of color and how to express textures in a way to raise them into fine art.

Zlom, Olaya, Corot, and other painters are seen in these galleries to greater or less advantage as the case may be. A pleasant half-hour can be spent in picking out the finer examples. Among the important art galleries on the stretch of Fifth Avenue from Twenty-third to Forty-third Street those of Fishel, Adler & Schwartz will have to be considered hereafter.

ART NOTES.

The Smith Memorial Gateway in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, is almost ready for unveiling. It is after designs by Mr. James M. Windrim, architect, and consists of two semicircular wings of white stone on opposite sides of a roadway, two pillars rising from the ends of the wings nearest the roadway being crowned by standing bronze figures of Gens. Meade and Reynolds. Each sweep to right and left is pierced by an arched entrance, supported on double columns, and the walls of these semicircular wings are diversified by niches for statues.

A balustrade finishes the wings above the arches. In the spandrils to right and left of each arch are figures in high relief on both sides, making four to each archway and eight in all. They are supplied by Mr. J. Massey Rhind, and represent in female, winged, and draped forms, twelve feet high, the following themes: Victory and Army, Navy, and Peace; Strength and Fame, Heroism and Courage, facing each other in couples. The Smith Memorial is to cost half a million dollars, and provides places for a good many more statues than it has at present. The names of military and naval men of National and local fame are writ large on the entablatures of the two sundered portions of the gateway.

A painting of the battle of North Point, near Baltimore, between American militia and the British forces on Sept. 12, 1814, just after the burning of the Capitol and White House at Washington, has been identified in the collection of Dr. Wallace Neff of Washington. It was painted by Thomas Ruckle, who took part in the defense of Baltimore, and was identified through an old lithograph which appeared in the sale of Dr. Crim's pictures and bric-à-brac in Baltimore. The latter was published in 1831. As depicted by Ruckle, the hastily gathered troops under Gen. John Stricker are remarkable for the variety and colors of their uniforms, so that the picture is a faithful record of the uniforms worn at the time by the Washington Blues, Fells Point Light Dragoons, First Baltimore Hussars, Maryland Chasseurs, Independent Light Dragoons, Union Yagers, American and Eagle Artillerists, Stadner's Rifles of Frederick, Md., Alexander's Sharpshooters, and other volunteer and militia companies. One can readily imagine the difficulty of getting any serious campaign work from such a heterogeneous mixture of bands whose only training for the most part had been a picnic once or twice a year. The best that could be expected of them was such a defense as stands to their credit in the battle of North Point. Had these States learned anything from the War of the Revolution, which was still recent history at the time, the British troops would never have rejoined their ships. It is a curious record of the invincible optimism of Americans a hundred years ago, this picture by one of the volunteers of 1814.

In Boston Mr. Bela L. Pratt has finished the small models for three colossal groups to decorate the tower of the Electricity Building at the World's Fair in St. Louis. "Light and Shadow," to stand on the apex of the tower, consists of three figures. In the middle stands a nude goddess of light, holding above her head a cluster of electric lamps rayed like a star, which are to send a tremendous sheet of light across the Mississippi. On each side of the goddess crouches a woman, her head concealed under clouds of drapery. On a lower level, at corners of the tower, come the other groups of three figures each. One represents Lightning, the other the Aurora Borealis. The former expresses by its figures the terror with which human beings regard the effects of lightning; the latter the surprise and awe produced on the mind by an illumination of the night sky.

Treasure trove, according to the law of Great Britain and Ireland, is still the same as Blackstone defined it, "money, or coin, gold, silver, plate, or bullion found hidden in the earth, the owner thereof being unknown." The British Crown has won its suit against the British Museum to decide who is the legal owner of the gold ship and gold ornaments found in 1800 on the banks of Lough Foyle. The museum paid $3,000 for these ancient objects. It is probable that the Crown will give them in custody to the Royal Irish Academy for permanent exhibition. Whether it will now be threatened by the Trustees of the British Museum to recover $3,000 from the Fellow of the Royal Irish Academy who sold them remains to be seen. He bought them from a jeweler in Belfast, and the latter from the farmer on whose land they were found.

A monument to soldiers and sailors designed by Rudolf Schwarz of Indianapolis has been dedicated at South Bend, Ind. It is a square shaft or obelisk crowned by a fourteen-foot figure of a standard bearer in bronze. The shaft has a florid decorated cap, compartments formed by bands running round its circumference, and a lower section a good deal ornamented with various rims, ridges, garlands, and other carved decorations. It rests on a base with projecting piers at the four corners. On these corners stand four bronze figures of a cavalryman, artillerist, infantryman, and sailor. The whole is 74 feet high and is of granite.

Near Metz the cutting for a suburban railway has laid bare four monuments and sixty gravestones with inscriptions belonging to the period of Rome's control of Gaul. No less than three stones have carved on them the figure of Epona, the old Italian goddess who presided over stables and was often depicted riding a horse; a fourth shows a seated figure of Plenty, with apples on her lap. A gravestone carved with a flower, on which sits an owl, has the words "D. M. Jun. Curmillae," and another the name "Catellini Capras." The name of the horse goddess is supposed to be derived from an old variant, Epus, on the Latin word Equus, a parallel to the Greek word Hippos, horse.

A statue of Charles Garnier, architect of the Grand Opera House in Paris, was unveiled at the recent opening of the museum of the Opera. Among the objects to be seen in this unique museum are portraits and busts of famous composers and singers, gems, colored for Verdi's "Macbeth," by Alphonse de Neuville; old play bills, models of bygone Opera Houses, and other things belonging to the history of the French Academy of Music.

A bronze statue of John Burns, the citizen who took his rifle and fought at Gettysburg as a regiment all to himself, has been unveiled on the battlefield. Burns tried to enlist in 1861, but was rejected on account of his age. When Lee invaded Pennsylvania in 1863 he determined to fight on his own responsibility, and his bravery I was mentioned in Gen. Doubleday's report. He stands bareheaded in citizen's clothes, holding his rifle in the right hand.

COMMENDS CITY PARKS.

F. W. Kelsey Says Reports of Early Decay of Central Park Were Misleading and Erroneous.

Frederick W. Kelsey, ex-Park Commissioner of Essex County, N. J., and a member of the Committee on Parks of the Municipal Art Society, had this to say yesterday regarding the condition of the parks in Greater New York:

"The people of Greater New York who have not recently looked through the parks, especially those in the Manhattan and Brooklyn Boroughs, can have little appreciation of the present beauty and attractions of these places of recreation and their excellent condition at this time.

"The sensational reports given out last season regarding the early decay of Central Park were as misleading and erroneous as they were absurd and unsalted for. How any one making a profession of landscape architecture, and an official of the Park Department at that, could have been accredited with the authorship and authority for those alarming predictions, is to the average layman quite unaccountable. The present appearance of the parks is a complete vindication of the report of the able and competent experts who were later employed by the Park Board to investigate the two-feet deep interment process that had been recommended for restoring the decaying foliage in Central Park. Even a casual examination should have been sufficient to warrant the experts in completely ignoring, as they did in their report, the nonsensical recommendations mentioned. It is doubtful if the trees, shrub growth, and lawns were ever more beautiful or generally in better condition than now.

"Central Park, as are all the other parks of the city, is improving with age. The specimen plane trees, maples, elms, lindens, horse chestnuts, beeches, oaks, and other varieties, instead of showing decay are now in the prime of normal and vigorous development, and will continue to grow in attractiveness for many years to come. The plan adopted for the restoration of the overgrown shrubbery plantations and improvement of the lawn appears to have been generally effective. The thinning process has produced good results, and can no doubt be further employed to excellent advantage.

"One of the most noticeable recent improvements in Central Park is the changed condition for the better in the native wood section, known as 'the Ramble.' This central portion of the Park was for years, and until quite recently, overgrown with scrubby and unsightly undergrowth without either system or arrangement, unattractive and quite out of keeping with the other portions of the Park. The massing of large quantities of the native rhododendrons and kalmias and the improvement of the lawn sections have produced a transformation as attractive as it is interesting to look upon.

"In Brooklyn, park and parkway development is going on apace. Prospect Park, with its beautiful lawns, plantings, drives, lake, rose garden, and Vale of Cashmere remains as always the central feature. The acquisition and improvement of the adjoining east side lands, with the wonderful transformation of those lands from a common dumping ground to an attractive modern park, now nearing completion, is one of the accomplishments of the past year that the people will no doubt be duly thankful for. Perhaps the next most important improvement is the completion of the Ocean Parkway and its terminal Seaside Park, the park at Coney Island. Here a magnificent boulevard will directly connecting Prospect Park with that attractive seaside park, both features of the Brooklyn Park system that will be likely to receive more and more the approval and appreciation of the public as time goes on.

"The new Sunset Park is being rapidly developed and is in a section where a park is needed, commands a grand view from the high ground at the summit, and will soon add another attraction to the parks of the borough. The beautiful water views from Bennington and Fort Hamilton Parks and from the Bay Ridge Drive Parkway will always remain attractions in the western portion of the city.

"The improvements now being made at the Ridgewood Park are of a substantial and permanent character, and this will soon rank as one of the finest small parks of the greater city, connected as it is with Prospect Park by the Eastern Parkway. The views near the Ridgewood Park Reservoir are remarkably fine, and the native trees and wood growth of that park give it already a finished appearance.

"Of the recent changes for the better in the development of the Brooklyn park system perhaps no single improvement is more noticeable than the work now going on converting Fourth Avenue from a noisy, unsightly, 'old-time' street into a series of small parks and a most attractive parkway. Cobblestones and Belgian pavements have given way to greensward lines of trees and shrubbery, and asphalt driveways on each side. The completed portion of this parkway from Sixtieth Street to Fortieth Street furnishes a forcible object lesson in the advantages accruing from improved civic conditions, and what enterprising management of a municipal department may accomplish for local betterment within a very short time.

"With the present plans for the enlarged and improved parks and parkways carried out in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx Boroughs the diversified attractions of the New York parks will have grown with the growth of population and resource of the greater city and will continue, as now, among the most beautiful parks in the world."

FOR REFORMED JEWISH CREED.

Conference of American Rabbis Considering Suggestion of Prof. Margolis.

DETROIT, Mich., July 2.—The Central Conference of American Rabbis to-day heard a paper on the "Theological Aspect of Modern Judaism," by Dr. M. L. Margolis, Professor of Semitic Languages in the University of California. At the close of his paper Dr. Margolis submitted outlines of a reformed Jewish creed and said:

"If, as reformed Jews, we want to have a creed, we must and shall have a proper ecclesiastical organization. Let us have the synod as the keystone of our Church."

Dr. Margolis then offered a motion that a committee be appointed to draw up a reformed creed and submit it at the next conference, with the idea of submitting it in 1905 to some body of the Jewish Church to be selected by that time with legislative power. The motion was seconded, but was laid over until the discussion of Dr. Margolis's paper has been finished, which will be to-morrow.

A memorial service was held at the Temple Beth-El this evening for deceased rabbis in different parts of the country. Among those who received mention in the tributes were Benjamin Szold, who died in Baltimore; Moses Mielziner of Cincinnati; Gustav Gotthell of New York, and E. G. Fisher of Chattanooga. Both addresses were interspersed with music and Scriptural reading. The delegates were entertained afterward at the Fellowship Club.

CUP YACHTS DAMAGED IN ROUGH SEA TRIAL

Reliance Alone Finished First Triangular Course Race.

New Boat Made a Record Run on One Leg of Triangle—Columbia Lost a Sailor and Constitution Was Crippled.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 2.—The story of the Newport series ended here to-day unexpectedly with a chapter of accidents, and some of the three yachts managed worse weather. When the race was started at 10:30 the wind was blowing at a rate of twenty miles an hour and the sea was so rough and heavy that the sturdy Gloucester fishing smacks came back into the harbor.

Ten minutes after the start the jaws of Constitution's gaff gave way and the gaff itself, breaking at the centre, tore the great mainsail from luff to leach. Nearing the outer mark, near Block Island, at 1:51, when the velocity of the wind had increased to twenty-five miles an hour, Columbia lost a man overboard when she was diving into the big seas. She hove to into the wind and lowered a boat to look for the sailor, but he was never seen again. Constitution gave up the race as soon as her gaff doubled up, and Columbia, after searching fruitlessly for more than hour for her lost seaman, also made for home.

Reliance went over the course alone and managed to make another new record for herself by reaching ten miles home from the second mark over a triangular course in 47 minutes and 10 seconds. Her total time for the thirty miles, 2 hours 59 minutes and 20 seconds, is near the record figure. When Reliance reached her moorings, however, it was discovered that the big smashing seas had made a dent five feet long, half a plate deep, and wide and deep enough for a man to lay his arm in it. The damage was done in the windward pounding to the first mark, and caused her to leak considerably. At Bristol she will be necessary to put her in racing trim again.

It had been intended originally to race every day this week, but Mr. Iselin notified the New York Yacht Club Regatta Committee this morning that he did not wish to race the Reliance any more until the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club, which begins on July 16. The loss of the man from Columbia this afternoon put further racing for the Columbia out of the question. Constitution, after her accident, left immediately for Bristol, where repairs will be made.

COLUMBIA LOSES A SAILOR OVERBOARD.

Columbia's accident, of course, was the most deplorable of all, for it is the first instance in which a man has been lost from an American cup yacht, either in the trials or in the cup races themselves. Besides the man who was lost, three of Columbia's men were so severely bruised and injured that they were taken to Dr. Murphy for treatment, and later sent back to the Park City. The leg of one of the men is so badly injured that amputation may be necessary.

When the accident happened the Columbia was about six miles north of Block Island and within half a mile behind the Reliance, which was right on the first mark. Both yachts were on the starboard tack, and Columbia, which had carried no topsail during the boat, had just set a jibheader and was preparing to set a jib-topsail for the reach to the second mark.

Tracy was out on the bowsprit when the yacht went head foremost into the sea, and when her bow came up again the second man out, Carl E. Olsen, a native of Bergen, Norway, had disappeared.

"We were getting up a No. 1 jib topsail," said Capt. Lem Miller of Columbia later, "and Olsen, the second man out, was just aft of the martingale. I have been on the Columbia several years now, but that was the first time I ever saw her put her bowsprit under. She went off the starboard side and was washed off, while the two outer men were washed inboard. He was a good swimmer as well as a good sailor, and I suppose he must have been hurt and sucked under the boat, for we never saw him again.

The yacht was fleeting up into the wind immediately, life buoys were thrown overboard, and the Second Mate and a man were lowered in a dinghy. Two men were sent aloft to keep a sharp lookout. When the press tug boat came up, the Mate was sitting on the gunwale of the little boat shouting and pointing to the sailor's big waves. He shook his head mournfully when asked if he needed assistance. The Columbia's tender, the Park City, was also busy in the search, and Commodore Bourne's steamyacht, ex-Commodore Ledyard's Rambler, the torpedo boat Orvieto, and R. M. Thompson's Riviera, and the press tug boat De Witt C. Ivins, aided in the hunt for the missing man, but without avail. Finally, at 2:10, more than an hour after Olsen had disappeared, and every effort had been made to locate him, the boat was hoisted aboard.

The jibtopsail, which was ready to be set, was torn to ribbons, and parts of it hung to the bobstay as the yacht plowed along through the seas. The Columbia and her tender remained on the scene for some time longer, in the hope that the body might appear, but no trace was found, and the Columbia came back with her tender, arriving at her moorings about 5 o'clock. The Reliance in the meantime kept on her way around the course, but most of the yachts returned to Newport.

RELIANCE SHOWED WELL IN TRIAL.

The race was the fourth of the series, and the prospects in the morning, when a piping breeze from the southwest curled up white-caps even within the harbor, were that the trial would be the most exciting of the series. The yachts left their moorings shortly after 11 o'clock, and were not frightened by the sight of schooners coming in under short rigs. The small clubtopsails that the three yachts started out with, however, came in, and they prepared to start without jibtopsails or even gaff topsails.

Of course, the first triangular one of the series was signaled at 12:00 o'clock. It was a two-mile beat to windward, southwest by west a broad reach of ten miles southeast by east half east, and another broad reach to the finish line, ten miles north, half west. The preparatory gun was fired at 12:15, and the start was a wing and wing affair, with Reliance and Constitution were on the starboard tack headed northwest, while Columbia kept near the line. When the starting gun was fired Columbia got over 40 seconds later on the starboard tack. Reliance and Constitution were so far away from the line that they could not get away before the handicap gun. Reliance was only 2 seconds late, but Constitution was handicapped nearly half a minute. Both crossed on the starboard tack, and Reliance went on the port tack at 12:36, followed by Constitution 1 minute later. Columbia was ahead and to windward, with Reliance one-eighth of a mile to leeward and astern, and Constitution about the same distance to leeward of Reliance. Columbia took the starboard tack at 12:37, and at 12:38:45 crossed Reliance's bows with lots of room to spare. She went on the port tack at 12:39, and the three yachts then were on the same tack and headed for the Newport shore. Reliance soon had made about three miles south of Brenton's Reef Lightship. As the Reliance swung about on the starboard tack at 12:40, the Constitution's gaff was seen to double up and rend the sail. She tore around and at once started back to Newport with her tender, the Satellite, leaving there immediately for the Herreshoff shops at Bristol.

The Reliance in the meantime had been doing remarkable windward work, and she demonstrated the fact conclusively that as a sea boat or 87½ minutes after the start. She was able after taking the port tack at 12:40 to cross the Columbia's bows with as much water between them as the Columbia had when previously she crossed the Reliance's bows. Thereafter it was the Reliance pounding to windward that the yachts had to face. The wind was increasing, and the yachts, short rigged as they were, showed sometimes nearly four inches of their bronze underbodies. The run from Point Judith was made in short tacks, and the yachts headed and pitched into the big waves smashing their bows with tremendous force. The yachts finally came out in short tacks, and the Reliance gradually increased her lead. She passed the Columbia's bows again at 1:14, and at 1:15 and 1 second crossed the finish line, ten miles north, half west. The preparatory gun was fired at 12:15, and the start was wing and wing

WATERBOY'S RECORD RACE

Black Colt Led Irish Lad and Goldsmith in Suburban Renewal.

Event at Sheepshead Bay Was Run in 2:04 3-5, Beating Salvator's Famous Mark of 2:06.

It was a faster and better race than the original event, and one that was nearly as close to the finish. Waterboy won the Suburban Handicap renewal at the Sheepshead Bay race course yesterday and broke the track record in doing it by running the mile and a quarter distance in 2:04 3-5, the victor's performance thus eclipsing the famous 2:06 made by Salvator in his memorable match against Tenny by two-fifths of a second, a curious coincidence of the record-breaking performance being that Waterboy ran in the same colors and the same interest that Salvator ran, the blue and orange of J. E. Haggin.

Less than a length away from the winner came Irish Lad, owned by the Westbury Stable of Harry Payne Whitney and Herman B. Duryea. While six lengths further back and beaten all but disgracefully, was William C. Whitney's Goldsmith, the popular favorite for the race, all three placed horses thus being horses that were non-starters for the Suburban.

The more in spite of the fact that it was being removed from a representative trial of the Suburban over again, proved a powerful magnet to the patrons of racing, for a crowd of fully 20,000 braved the intensely sultry weather and inadequate transportation facilities to be present at what was regarded generally as the running of the Suburban over again. That view of the contest was hardly a proper one, however, as of the small field of seven that started, only two were horses that ran for the Suburban, and these two, Major Daingerfield and Sonnibert, were not placed in either the Suburban or yesterday's race. Grand stand and grand stand overflowed, however, in honor of the race, and the Sheepshead Bay course wore a holiday appearance when the big event, the fourth of a series of seven running events, was called. Herbert, His Eminence, City Bank, Andy Williams, and Hunter Raine were the horses stretched, Goldsmith, the conqueror of Africander, the Suburban winner, thus being installed the favorite for the renewal, Goldsmith held the place of first choice to the last, the weight of the money bet on him by the general public, as Irish Lad was so greatly backed by the stable connections that it was a close second choice at the finish of the betting, while Waterboy, in the position in which he was backed by the public following the scratching of Sonnibert, and closed third choice. Of the Whitney jockeys, Radtke had the mount on Goldsmith, while Burns rode Irish Lad, the latter liked by the trainer. Odom was on Waterboy, and Hoar on Blues and McCue on Herbert, the second fourth second to Major Daingerfield, with O'Neil on Gleamer, with H. Michaels up, respectively at 12 and 50 to 1.

Irish Lad had the rail position at the start, Waterboy next to him, and Goldsmith in the outside position at the first turn, the other horses in numerical order. At the uplifting of the barrier Blues was first to the front, and, running strong, made the effort to slip his field at a killing pace, but Irish Lad and Waterboy would not be left behind, and went to the front, while Major Daingerfield, Goldsmith held fourth and fifth places, passing the stand the first time, Herbert last. Around the first turn Waterboy closed on the leader while Goldsmith still lagged in the rear, keeping the favorite under the whip, but finding it not ready to turn on the full speed of which he was capable. Down the backstretch Irish Lad, under enthusiasm, he sent Goldsmith on the rush, and in the next sixteenth of a mile third place, after closing more than a dozen lengths, he got up, his rush being so rapid that it placed among the leaders Major Daingerfield, which suddenly found Irish Lad and Goldsmith had reached it, while Waterboy, under the scale, while Waterboy opened Goldsmith then being third, but Irish Lad in front the turn into the stretch was made, Waterboy hanging him however, that when he made his move forward he passed the Westbury colt in a half dozen strides, and with the field strung out for the run home showed his head in front. Goldsmith at that point looked to have a chance as it seemed as if the leader must stop, but Redfern's quick rush on his favorite told on Goldsmith before the end of the stretch was reached, and he, like Irish Lad, was driven to the whip almost the moment he was headed by Waterboy, and close on namely to the finish Waterboy, the favorite, could not shake him off.

Irish Lad, Waterboy, deferred his resort to the whip, however, when he found that Irish Lad did not gain on him, and though he had his whip out and ready for use, he did not have to touch Waterboy, but kept him busy with hands and knees, and from there on Irish Lad, under whip and spur, was beaten a length and a half by Waterboy, with Goldsmith, four lengths further back, Major Daingerfield fifth six lengths away, and three lengths before Bonnibert, Glenwood sailing in last. The race was a two-mile one from the start to finish, the distance of the mile and a quarter was run in 1:59 1-5 and the last mile in 2:40. The fractional time was: First furlong, 0:24 1-5; three furlongs, 0:36 4-5; half mile, 0:48 1-5; five furlongs, 1:01; three-quarters, 1:13; seven furlongs, 1:26; one mile, 1:39 2-5; one mile and a furlong, 1:52; or four-fifths of a second better than the stake race at a mile and a furlong on the same day was run, or two-fifths of a second faster than the track record for a mile and a furlong made by Gold Dust. The race last year was run in the name of Salvator, the handsome black colt by Watercress and Mandie, bred in California, and still owned by the breeder, J. B. Haggin, who yesterday had the announcement that he would not start for the Brighton Handicap to-day, but that he would start for the Suburban to-morrow, in the uplifting of the barrier Blues was first to the front, and, running strong, made the effort to slip his field at a killing pace, but Irish Lad and Waterboy would not be left behind, and went to the front, while Major Daingerfield, Goldsmith held fourth and fifth places, passing the stand the first time, Herbert last. Around the first turn Waterboy closed on the leader while Goldsmith still lagged in the rear, keeping the favorite under the whip, but finding it not ready to turn on the full speed of which he was capable. Down the backstretch Irish Lad, under enthusiasm, he sent Goldsmith on the rush, and in the next sixteenth of a mile third place, after closing more than a dozen lengths, he got up, his rush being so rapid that it placed among the leaders Major Daingerfield, which suddenly found Irish Lad and Goldsmith had reached it, while Waterboy, under the scale, while Waterboy opened Goldsmith then being third, but Irish Lad in front the turn into the stretch was made, Waterboy hanging him however, that when he made his move forward he passed the Westbury colt in a half dozen strides, and with the field strung out for the run home showed his head in front. Goldsmith at that point looked to have a chance as it seemed as if the leader must stop, but Redfern's quick rush on his favorite told on Goldsmith before the end of the stretch was reached, and he, like Irish Lad

SIXTEEN PAGES.

Our enormous evening contemporary, whose appearance and dignity have played an important part in advancing that unprofitable quite irresponsible journalism, that sensationalism of which the Yellow Press is the chief exponent, has been obliged to raise its price to two cents. Its circulation is enormous, but it is largely worthless. Its advertising patronage is small, because the value of its circulation is small. Its price is now to be raised to two cents, and it will be interesting to see how much of its circulation will survive the change. Our own circulation is not large, but it is valuable, and we have no fear that it will not increase. We have no fear that the price will be raised to two cents, for we have no intention of raising it.

THE DEATH OF AN IDEA

It Thomas Jefferson had let the Alien and Sedition Acts of 1798 stand without protest, and had then got upon the best terms he could with the party in power, he might have become President at the end of his first term, or at any time in the next eight years. He might have founded a political system for the colonies that in course of time would have been given as a good thing by a great section of the country. Curiously enough, the Alien and Sedition Acts have been hailed by the Democratic orators for the centennial celebration of their passage as the first step in the development of the Democratic party. Jefferson's biographers and historians have been at pains to explain that he was not responsible for the Acts, that he opposed them, that he was the author of the Kentucky Resolutions, which declared the Acts unconstitutional and void, and that he was the leader of the party which finally overthrew the Federalists and repealed the Acts. But the fact remains that Jefferson did not protest against the Acts when he might have done so with political profit to himself, and that he did not protest because he thought that the Acts were constitutional. He was willing to let the Federalists go as far as they pleased in the direction of centralization, to let the Federal Government exercise any power it chose to exercise, to let the Federal courts construe the Constitution as they pleased, so long as they did not interfere with the rights of the States. He was willing to let the Federalists do anything

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

New York City.

BARTON & McCABE.—Justice Blanchard of the Supreme Court has appointed Anna M. Severdin receiver of the assets of the copartnership of Minnie H. Barton and Frank W. McCabe, who had a furnished-room house at 252 West Forty-first Street, in a suit brought by Miss Barton against Mr. McCabe on account of a dispute between them. Mrs. Severdin was suggested for receiver by several of the creditors, as she has had considerable experience in the management of furnished-room houses.

JOHN H. MUELLER.—Deputy Sheriff Cronin has received an attachment against John H. Mueller, dealer in building materials at Third Avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-ninth Street, which was obtained by Thomas Gilleran for Simpson, Clapp & Co. for $2,071 on a note made on Feb. 27, payable four months after date. It was alleged that on June 29 he disposed of his business and departed from the city. It was also alleged that inquiries were made at his residence, 2 West One Hundred and Twentieth Street, to learn his whereabouts, but the only information his wife gave was that he had gone West. In the trade it is said he sold the business for $10,000 cash. He has been in this line for fifteen years, was of Hookey & Mueller from April, 1900, to January, 1902, when they separated and he started the present business, and a year ago claimed to have a capital of $24,000.

THE BASS PAINT COMPANY.—The Bass Paint Company of 194 Front Street and at Alburtis, Penn., is in financial difficulties, and Justice Giegerich of the Supreme Court has appointed W. Lynn Thompson temporary receiver of the assets on the application of Mr. Benjamin Bass. Mr. Bass is one of Mr. Bass, two of the Directors of the corporation, on the ground of insolvency. The liabilities are $67,731, nominal assets $71,800, and actual assets $8,800. The assets consist of book accounts, nominal $22,000, actual $5,000; stock of paint in process of manufacture, nominal $30,000, actual $1,000; pledged to creditors for loans; real estate at Alburtus, nominal $35,000, actual none, as it is mortgaged for $25,000, and there would probably be no equity; machinery, &c., nominal $3,000, actual $1,000; tools and fixtures, nominal $1,000, actual $1,000; merchandise, nominal $5,000, actual $1,000; office fixtures, nominal, $300, actual $200. Among the creditors are S. A. Buts of Allentown, Penn., $85,000; H. H. Craig & Co. of New York, $8,200; George C. Choate, trustee, $3,313; J. C. Smith & Co., $1,500; Isaac Gerber, $1,500; Sutherland & Co., $1,200. The company was incorporated under New York laws in April, 1899; Alfred R. Bass was President and Benjamin C. Bass Secretary. A receiver has also been appointed for the assets of the company in Pennsylvania.

PETITIONS IN BANKRUPTCY.

SAMUEL FINE.—Samuel Fine, a broker, of 147 East Ninety-seventh Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $3,463 and no assets. The debts were contracted in 1899 as a partner in the firm of Lasser & Fine, tailors on the Bowery.

ISAAC L. SINGER.—Judge Holt of the United States District Court has appointed John C. Shea referee in voluntary case of Isaac L. Singer, manufacturer of clothing at 683 Broadway, on the application of Hyman Horwitz, a creditor. It was stated that Mr. Singer had abandoned the business and most of his property has been removed; only $100 worth being left.

PETER FAHRNO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Peter Fahrno, dealer in carpets and furniture at 192 Bleecker Street, by the following creditors: American Oil Cloth Company, $117; Dalmsky & Katz, $160; National Carpet Company, $161, and Kramer & Rosenberg, $197. It was alleged that Mr. Fahrno left and has removed the largest part of his property. He has been in business two years.

THOMAS P. McNAMARA.—Thomas P. McNamara, a policeman, of 401 West One Hundred and Thirtieth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $774 and no assets except his uniforms, revolver and watch, which are exempt. The creditors are the Manhattan Suburban Saving and Loan Association, $424 on two judgments on bonds of Mary Daugherty, W. H. McNamara, $250, money loaned, and John Thomas of Greenville, N. J., $100, money loaned.

MARKELL & Co.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Marcus and Bertha Markell, doing business as Markell & Co., women's tailors at 2 and 4 West Thirty-third Street, by the following creditors: B. Stein & Co., $625; John B. Ellison & Sons, $624, and Arnold Constable & Co., $220. It was alleged that the firm suspended and on June 2 transferred book accounts of $1,900 to Max Stein, a creditor, to prefer him. The business was started in September, 1901.

NATHAN KASANITZ.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Nathan Kasanitz, manufacturer of furs at 20 Lispenard Street, by Henry Leasse for the following creditors: Myer Aronin, $286; Isaac Chaikin, $494, and B. & A. Schifrin, $501. It was alleged that he is insolvent, and on June 1 disposed of a large part of his property and accounts and admitted in writing his inability to pay his debts. His liabilities are reported to be $6,000, and he has offered to compromise at 20 cents on the dollar.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks reactionary.

Money easy, 2½@6 per cent.

Some of the "Seeing New York" visitors to the Stock Exchange yesterday thought it resembled the ante-room of the Eden Musée, where they could not tell whether or not the figures were alive; some of their facetious companionk wishing to show their familiarity with Wall Street events, went a step further and exchanged guesses as to which of the brokers reflected from their haggard expressions the payment of $90,000 for seats at a table spread with such scanty fare in the way of business. It will be gathered—since no jokes upon serious subjects are admitted here—that there was little seriousness about yesterday's market, certainly not enough to hang a moral upon. To be sure, prices were heavy, but it would be a mistake to take a serious view of that fact when it reflected almost nothing beyond swapping of contracts by those able to snatch a fleeting eighth. London selling, of meagre dimensions, started the selling, and there was no disposition to buy upon the eve of a holiday. Hence prices sagged away about a point. An exceptional fall for something like a good reason was 6½ for Hocking Valley. As a minority stock, with a small dividend of uncertain future, its market critics seem to think it rather high. But even this view, it will be remarked, reflected no fear regarding the property's condition or earning capacity. It is its market position, not its value, which is reflected in its falling price, and in most others. Brooklyn Rapid Transit made a poor response to attempts to advance it upon rumors regarding earnings not officially reported. Missouri Pacific ex-dividend lost 1%. Rock Island and Union Pacific each lost 1¼. Neither in the tone of the dealings nor in the news was there anything to cause anxiety about recovery of lost ground whenever the public, which was conspicuous by its absence yesterday, is in buying mood, other conditions remaining as at present.

It is a mere coincidence that St. Louis reports the first demands for money for crop-moving purposes in the same week that the forecast shows a reversal in the recent gains of money by the banks. Instead of a gain of some millions from the interior, there is a scanty balance of $104,700 upon the interior exchanges, which business with the Sub-Treasury apparently converted into a loss of about a million. Last year in the first week of July local banks expanded loans over seventeen millions, and this week the Bank of England reorts a mid-year increase of loans by £9,701,000, reducing the proportion of reserve from 53 per cent. to 42 per cent. It is a considerable fall, but only to about last year's conditions. Last year our reserve fell in the corresponding week by $2,803,625, and a like decrease to-day would result in a reserve of about last year's proportions here as well as in London. These points are worth following with some care and minuteness, for this is a market depending exceptionally upon banking conditions, and less than usual upon earnings, which operators and investors alike have got into the way of neglecting. The money market may now be considered almost past its July disturbance, and it has been remarkably small, both actually and compared with apprehensions. Yesterday's crop news was encouraging, especially for cotton, respecting which reports are heard privately which are more favorable than many circulated by sources interested in the market.

FEATURES OF THE MARKET.

Yesterday's market—such as there was—was distinctly disappointing to the bulls. Not only was there no sustained buying power on the decline, but there seemed to be a renewal of genuine liquidation in certain securities whose importance and position in the market are such that any heaviness in them immediately imparts itself to the rest of the list. Principal of these may be mentioned St. Paul and Union Pacific, which were conspicuously weak all day. At no time, however, did the liquidation appear to be urgent, but that there was liquidation no less than short selling in some standard stocks was beyond question.

What really seems to be the trouble with the market is that on every occasion when it develops strength, whether through professional or other operations, at that moment a "sandbagging" process sets in, and the little traders as well as the few outside buyers who appear find that the rise has been a delusion and a snare; that they are left high and dry with stocks at higher prices, and that the promised "boom" has for some reason or other missed connections. This has happened not once, but many times lately, and hence it is that public interest in the market is becoming smaller and smaller, for on each past false rise the public has been hit, and therefore is less and less desirous of trying its luck again.

As for particular stocks yesterday, there is little to be said. The boomlet in Brooklyn Rapid Transit, started on Wednesday, came to a rather inglorious ending yesterday for lack of outside support, the issue declining over a point. Rocking Valley broke 6½ points further on selling by minority holders who are not included in the terms given to the majority, whatever those terms be—for as yet nothing official has been got on the matter; it was said that the syndicate was supporting the Steel Trust stocks; Philadelphia houses sold Pennsylvania and Norfolk and Western, while the Goulds were said to be selling Missouri Pacific, which had been bought on the day previous in the belief that it might recover part of its dividend the stock selling "ex" the dividend yesterday.

BETTER CROP NEWS.

The weekly crop report to Dun's Review from branches of R. G. Dun & Co. in different sections of the country indicate more seasonable weather conditions. Cotton continues to show some improvement, though in some parts of the South, notably Georgia and Western Tennessee, the crop is further delayed by wet and cool weather. Cultivation is interfered with, and the crop is in a grassy state. Corn shows improvement throughout the Middle West. The weather is hot and drier, and the crop is now making a good start. Still, the crop will be short in many sections. Wheat is making good progress. Harvesting progresses satisfactorily along the southern border, but the yield is generally reported below the average. In the Northwest Spring wheat has been greatly benefited by local rains, which were badly needed. Oats promise well. In Western New York the yield will be large. In Indiana the crop is affected by rust and will be short. In Nebraska conditions indicate a fair yield. Hay shows further improvement during the week in New York State, and has been benefited by light rains, and while the quality is good the yield will be short in some parts of the West the crop has made excellent progress during the past ten days.

MOVEMENT OF CURRENCY.

Discussing the movement of currency during the week, Messrs. Dow, Jones & Co. say:

The principal movement of currency for the five days ending with July 1 indicate that the banks lost in specie $978,500.

They received from the interior $5,468,000 and sent to the interior $5,304,300, of which $800,000 was transferred through the Sub-Treasury to New Orleans and $500,000 in gold coin went to Canada. The gain from the interior was $164,700.

Receipts of new gold were $268,300, of which $268,300 was on New York Assay Office checks, $54,100 on San Francisco Mint checks, and $31,000 on Domestic Assay Office checks.

The ordinary disbursements of the Sub-Treasury were $14,530,700; payments by banks to the Sub-Treasury for customs, internal revenue, 3 per cent. redemption fund, &c., were $16,262,000. The loss on Sub-Treasury operations proper was $1,731,300.

The total gain from the interior and new gold was $1,895,000. Deducting this from the loss of $1,731,300 to the Sub-Treasury, the net loss was $978,300.

The features this week were the decrease in the receipts of currency from the interior and the increase in shipments to the interior. In these respects the movement was in accord with precedent. The largest shipments were made in Boston, about $1,500,000 in all. Not very much currency went direct to New Orleans in addition to the $800,000 transferred through the Sub-Treasury.

The loss of $1,731,300 on Sub-Treasury operations was due chiefly to the falling off in pension payments, which were only $588,000 for the five days. Customs collections were $2,495,700, an average of $467,000 per diem, comparing with a daily average for the preceding week of $460,000.

COPPER PRICES LOWER.

Explanation for the selling of Amalgamated Copper yesterday and the day previous may be found in the reduction of ¼ cent a pound officially reported in the price of the metal yesterday, while there was a further reduction in all grades for deliveries from now until the end of the year, lake copper being offered at 14c and electrolytic at 13¾c.

Very much less was heard yesterday of the probability of an increase on the Amalgamated dividend rate. In some quarters the theory now is held that the impression that an increase in the rate might be given was in order to establish a better market for the selling of the stock.

The Engineering and Mining Journal calculates that during five months ending May 31 the exports and consumption together exceeded the supplies, and that a slight reduction in available stocks has resulted, so that the balance available for immediate delivery is very small.

LONDON CONTINUES TO SELL.

London was again a seller of stocks in this market, disposing of probably 10,000 shares, which signifies that in the last three days London has sold all, if not more than all of the stock that it bought on the decline in the previous week.

Singularly enough, while the market here refused to be disturbed over the fear of any Russian-American trouble, the cables reported that the Londoners did not like the threatened interference by this Government in Russia's affairs, and felt that the market might be given a temporary chill in consequence.

GOLD FROM THE KLONDIKE.

The most important development in the money market yesterday was the announcement that gold from the Klondike was arriving on the Pacific Coast. The Bank of British North America has been advised of the receipt of $415,000 of Klondike gold at San Francisco, which will be at once transferred here by telegraph. The Canadian Bank of Commerce expects $1,800,000 from the same source next week.

During the day call money at no time rose above 6 per cent., with the most of the day's loans at 4 per cent.

STANDARD OIL SELLING.

It was currently reported yesterday that a part of the selling during the day was prompted by Standard Oil interests, and that to this may be ascribed the weakness in St. Paul, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, and Copper.

The only reason offered to explain the selling was that the money market and crop uncertainties did not justify any advance in prices at this time.

GENERAL BUSINESS ITEMS.

Advices from Charlotte, N. C., that the Ada Cotton Mills will be sold in foreclosure on Aug. 18, and will probably be bought in and reorganized by the stockholders.

The Lane Mills of New Orleans, it is said, will build an additional plant with 25,000 spindles to cost $500,000.

Merger of the Fidelity Bank and the Union Trust Co., both located at Altoona, Penn., with capital of $125,000.

Special meeting of the Lawyers' Surety Co. called for July 22, to vote upon reducing its capital stock from $250,000 to $100,000 and returning to the stockholders such additional amount as the directors may determine.

Statement that the Westinghouse Company has obtained a contract from the DeBeers Consolidated Diamond Mining Co., Limited, for twelve electric locomotives.

According to Boston dispatches the Worcester and Holden Railway has petitioned the Railroad Commissioners for authority to issue $100,000 5 per cent. 20-year bonds and $50,000 stock to fund floating debt and to purchase new equipment and real estate.

Special meeting of the stockholders of the Dollar Savings Fund and Trust Co. of Allegheny called for Sept. 3 to vote on a proposition to increase the capital of the company from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, or to $1,500,000.

Dispatches from Cleveland stating that the stockholders of the Euclid Avenue National Bank and Park National Bank of that city have voted in favor of the plans for merging the two banks.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call on stock collateral loaned at 2½@3 per cent., with the last loan at 4 per cent. The majority of the day's loans was made at 4 per cent.

Time money rates, 3½@4 per cent. for sixty to ninety days, 4 per cent. for four to five months, and 5@5½ per cent. for six and seven months.

Mercantile paper rates, 5 per cent. for sixty to ninety days' indorsed bills receivable, 5@5½ per cent. for choice four to six months' single names, and 6 per cent. for others.

New York Clearing House exchanges were $376,865,965; balances, $21,195,168; United States Sub-Treasury, debit balance, $1,731,604.

Money on call in London, 1¼@2 per cent.; short bills, 2¼ per cent.; three months' bills, 2⅝@2¾ per cent.

Foreign exchange was firm. Nominal rates were $4.86¼ for sixty days and $4.85¾ for demand. Rates for actual business closed as follows: Sixty days, $4.85½; demand, $4.87⅝; cables, $4.86⅝@4.86¾. Commercial bills were $4.84½@4.84¾.

Continental bills were quoted as follows: Francs, 5.15¾@5.15⅝; lastlng, 5.16 and 5.15¾@5.15⅝ less 1-32; reichsmarks, 94 15-16@95 and 95¼@95 9-16; guilders, 40¾ and 40 5-16.

Exchange on New York at domestic centres: Boston—15c discount. Chicago—20c premium. New Orleans—Commercial, 50c discount; bank, $1 premium. Savannah—Buying, 50c discount; selling, 75c premium. Charleston—Buying, par; selling, 1-10 premium. San Francisco—Sight, 2½c premium; telegraphic, 5c. St. Louis—50c premium.

THE LONDON MARKET.

LONDON TIMES—NEW YORK TIMES Special Cablegram.

LONDON, July 3.—In its financial article to-day The Times says that the money demand was fair and the supply large. The terms for loans again declined. Discount quotations hardly altered.

The return made by the Bank of England shows reserves to be £1,573,000 lower, it now standing at £25,278,000. The Bank received 20,000 sovereigns from Australia.

The Stock Exchange was quieter, partly owing to the prospect of the creation of new securities. Prices relapsed moderately all around. Consols were a quarter lower, being quoted at 92⅝ for cash and 92 11-16 on account. Transvaal 3s fell one-eighth, being held at 1⅝ premium.

Home rails were dull and generally lower in price. American rails were very inactive. The final prices were nearly all lower than Wednesday. Foreigners moved irregularly one or two points. Argentine bonds were firm.

The general mining market was quiet and featureless. De Beers Diamonds recovered slightly. Silver was firm, and on account of a report of higher prices in India rose an eighth, closing at 24⅝ spot, 24 3-16 forward.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, July 2.—Money was plentiful and rates were easy to-day. The market was reducing its indebtedness to the Bank of England.

Business on the Stock Exchange was quieter and somewhat irregular. Consols relapsed and Americans opened irregular and apathetic. Southern Pacific, Erie, and Norfolk and Western being the weakest. Coal shares were fairly supported, but closed weak. Kafirs were dull on a few realisations. Argentines were supported, in view of the forthcoming new loan, which, it is said, will amount to about $12,500,000.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, July 2.—The feature of the day was the sharp break in the price of Cotton Duck incomes. The new readjustment plan was pretty generally repudiated by the Street except among those closely associated with insiders. An impression seems to have gotten abroad that the Baltimore security holders are being subordinated to and sacrificed for the so-called "New York or Northern clique." It is believed that pressure will be brought to bear to influence the International Trust Company, as the trustee of the income bondholders, to intervene.

Money on call was at 5@6 per cent.

Complete stock transactions for the day, amounting to 1,390 shares of stock and $47,600 worth of bonds, were as follows:

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—While trading in the stock market assumed an ante-holiday character, still the distribution of dealings was better than on some of the more active days of the current week. The dealings, however, were spiritless and the fluctuations were without feature or interest. About the only exception was the Consolidated Lake Superior shares, which were weak and lower. The uncertainty pending the negotiations of the Speyer loan is the dominant factor of the situation from a local standpoint. While this has not produced any weakness in other parts of the list, yet it has unquestionably had the effect to curtail operations until some definite information is obtainable. There was some investment buying of Philadelphia Company common and a better demand for bonds.

CITY HALL PARK PLANS

Big Improvement Scheme Indorsed by Many Officials.

Developments Point Toward Prompt Action on $50,000,000 Proposition — Larger Court House Wanted.

Developments yesterday pointed strongly toward favorable action by the City Government on the big $50,000,000 improvement plans proposed the day before to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by Bridge Commissioner Gustav Lindenthal. Although it is hardly likely that any of the work in question will be authorized before September, there is a strong feeling among the city officials, regardless of political affiliations, that the time is ripe for the city to undertake the improvement of the vicinity of City Hall Park on a proper scale and to provide once and for all time for the adequate housing of the departments.

Modifications to the Hornbostel plans, however, are being suggested already. Justices Truax and Scott of the Supreme Court made it known to the Mayor for the first time that they and their associates on the Supreme Court bench in this County desire the erection of a Court House eight times the size of the present structure in the park.

This has drawn attention to the feature of the Hornbostel plans which tentatively places the new Court House on the north side of Chambers Street next to the new Hall of Records. This building, according to the ideas submitted by Commissioner Lindenthal, would be placed in the middle of the block between the Hall of Records and the Broadway corner where, on the site of the present Stewart Building, it is proposed to construct the City Administration Building. All three of these buildings on the north side of Chambers Street, it is outlined, will be of a like height, that of the present Hall of Records. This height, the Judges believe, will be absolutely inadequate for the needs of the county, and it now is being considered whether the general architectural plan will not permit of the construction of the centre building to a height much greater than that of the Hall of Records and of the proposed Administration Building.

The Judges are pointing out strongly that they regard it as a waste of the city's money if the structure to be erected is not of sufficient size to fully accommodate the law business of a city of five millions of people.

As for the general outline of the gigantic improvement plans all of the officials practically agree that the time is at hand to authorize the construction of the great bridge terminal with its department office building adjunct, even to the great Campanile effect secured by the forty-five story tower to be constructed on the north side of Chambers Street and connected with the bridge terminal by a great stone bridge.

The Board of Estimate has designated Mayor Low, Controller Grout, Borough President Cantor and President Fornes of the Board of Aldermen a sub-committee to take charge of the Hornbostel plans and go over them in all their respects and make a report to the full board at a future date.

According to the generally expressed opinions of city officials yesterday this $10,500,000 for the bridge terminal and the Campanile is regarded now as the next thing to an accomplished fact.

REMOVED ENGINEER NICHOLS.

Aldermen Resent Commissioner Lindenthal's Action Affecting His Assistant.

Declarations on the part of members of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday indicated that a war of reprisal will be declared at once by the board against Bridge Commissioner Gustav Lindenthal for his removal of Othniel F. Nichols as an assistant engineer in his department, assigned to the Williamsburg Bridge.

Mr. Nichols's removal from office became known in the morning through the regulation notice in The City Record, and the members of the Finance Committee, who had invited Mr. Nichols to appear before the body two weeks ago, when the hearing on the Manhattan Bridge question was up, were most emphatic in their denunciations of Mr. Lindenthal's action. It was for attending this hearing and placing himself in opposition to the Lindenthal idea for an eye-bar cable bridge that Mr. Nichols, admittedly, was removed.

Aldermen McCall and Sullivan, the former the Chairman of the Finance Committee, were strong in their condemnation of the action of the Commissioner.

At the office of the Bridge Commissioner yesterday information at first was refused, but later the Commissioner said that the cause of the removal was that he "had found Nichols guilty of insubordination and absence from duty without leave." Nichols, he said, had absented himself from his duties to attend the hearing before the Finance Committee, and his insubordination consisted in criticism of the bridge plans prepared by the Commissioner.

It was strongly indicated yesterday that the Aldermen will do everything in their power to hold up the $6,553,000 appropriation asked for by the Commissioner to proceed with the Manhattan Bridge and to block his plans in other ways.

Mr. Nichols came into the city service on Feb. 1, 1896, being appointed by the old East River Bridge Commission. Under the new charter the work of the old commission was taken over by the Bridge Department, and Mr. Nichols was retained. His salary originally was $6,000, but was cut to $4,000 by Commissioner Lindenthal, who assigned him to the construction of the Williamsburg Bridge.

PAINTER KILLED BY FALL.

He and a Companion Were Hurled from a Scaffold in Barclay Street.

Pedestrians on Barclay Street yesterday morning saw a rope on a scaffold break and one of the two occupants of the scaffold instantly killed.

The scaffold was hanging at the third floor of the building at 11 Barclay Street. When one of the supporting ropes broke the two painters clung to the scaffold until as it swung down it struck a fire escape, shaking them off.

One of the men was killed instantly by the fall, while the other, Stanislaus Sartau, was taken to the Hudson Street Hospital, where it was said his condition was not serious. The dead man is believed to be Florindo Cordoni, although no one appeared to identify him. Coroner Brown said that the rope which parted had not been properly spliced.

FEWER DEATHS, MORE BIRTHS.

Vital Statistics for Six Months Show Healthier Conditions.

Vital statistics for the first half of the current year were made public yesterday by Dr. Lederle, President of the Board of Health.

For the first six months of 1903, 34,853 deaths were reported, indicating a death rate of 13.87 per 1,000 of inhabitants, as against 35,491 deaths in the like period of 1902, or a rate of 19.54 per 1,000.

The births reported numbered 49,626, against 40,802 for the first half of 1902. This marked increase, Dr. Lederle said, was due in part to the increase of population, but more probably to the more careful reporting of births which has been strictly required.

JOB FOR EX-SENATOR HENNESSY.

Bronx Politician Appointed Assistant Deputy Register.

Joseph P. Hennessy, ex-State Senator, yesterday was appointed by Register Bonner Assistant Deputy Register, to succeed Henry H. Sherman, recently promoted to be Deputy Register in the place of Ferdinand Bohmer, deceased. Mr. Hennessy was a Senator during 1901 and 1902, representing the district including The Bronx and a portion of Harlem. He is a lawyer and resides at 1,295 Boston Road. During the first term of Louis F. Haffen as Borough President for The Bronx Mr. Hennessy was Borough Secretary.

Register Bonner also has appointed John H. Voss of The Bronx as Superintendent of Indexing, at a salary of $2,000. Mr. Voss is a member of The Bronx Club and has been actively engaged in the politics of the section.

CRAZED BY THE "THIRD RAIL."

Man Was Made Temporarily Insane by Powerful Electric Shock.

Walter Satchel, a conductor on the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad, was temporarily crazed by an electric shock he received early yesterday morning, when he accidentally fell upon the "third rail."

Satchel, who lives at 920 Decatur Street, was crossing the tracks at the Van Sicklen Avenue Station, in East New York, when he tripped and fell. He bounded into the air instantly with a wild yell.

Several railroad men ran to his aide, but he glared at them wildly and fought them off. It required four men to hold him, and he kept up the struggle while he was being removed to the Bradford Street Hospital. Satchel recovered himself after reaching the hospital and became quiet.

The doctors found he had not been injured except from the shock.

JUSTICE MAYER AIDS GIRLS.

Has Parents of Overladen Children Rebuked in Court.

Two little Italian girls, who were laboriously carrying big bundles of wood on their heads through Franklin Street yesterday, found an unexpected friend and protector in Justice Julius Mayer of the Court of Special Sessions.

Justice Mayer saw them while on his way to court. One was eleven years old, the other eight. Both were evidently distressed by the weight of their burdens. Both were emaciated and were forced to rest every few moments.

Justice Mayer had the girls taken into custody and called messenger boys, who carried their bundles to the Criminal Courts Building. The children were placed in the charge of Agent Long of the Children's Society, and a policeman was sent to 8 Franklin Street to arrest the parents.

These were later arraigned before Magistrate Flammer, in the Tombs Court. Justice Mayer appeared as complainant. On his recommendation Magistrate Flammer severely rebuked the parents and told them that if they ever were brought to court on a similar charge they would be sent to prison. The little girls were Annie Lutzara and Lena Lacoseti.

REFEREE TO HEAR BOLTE CASE.

Appellate Division Dismisses the Koch Estate Charge.

Charges upon which the removal of Municipal Court Justice Herman Bolte is sought came before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday, with Justice Patterson presiding, when it was decided that one should be dismissed and that testimony on the others should be taken before a referee to be appointed. Justice Bolte is freed from the accusation of dishonesty as executor of the Koch estate before his election to the bench. According to Maurice B. Blumenthal of his counsel this matter was settled long ago in a manner to fully establish Justice Bolte's integrity.

Charges that he will have to face are that he has moved out of his district and taken up his home at White Plains; that he has been guilty of opening court half an hour late on ten different occasions; that on about six occasions he failed to hold court upon Wednesday of each week; that in five or six instances he improperly granted adjournments, and that he has permitted non-residents of the district to bring suit in his court. The charges follow an investigation instigated by the East Side Civic Club, and were made by District Attorney Jerome, who was represented yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Gans.

Henry M. Goldfogle also appeared for Justice Bolte and maintained that the charges were insufficient to justify removal, and said it was not proper that a judicial officer should be subjected to such an investigation upon mere unverified charges. Mr. Blumenthal opposed the appointment of a referee, saying that his client was entitled to have the case heard by the court itself instead of by a referee. Justice Patterson said that the argument upon the sufficiency of the charges would hardly be in order until after the evidence had been taken, and said that the only question before the court was whether the charges should be investigated. Justice Hatch suggested that in its legal aspects the case was similar to disbarment cases against lawyers which are customarily turned over to referees.

FIRE ON ELEVATED TRAIN.

Excited Passengers Leap from Burning Cars to Platforms During Blaze on Brooklyn Line.

Much excitement prevailed among the passengers on a crowded elevated railroad train in Williamsburg shortly after 6 o'clock last evening by one of the cars taking fire while the train was in motion.

One of the motor trains of three cars became disabled at the terminus of the Broadway line, and another train which was to follow it out was obliged to push the train ahead.

When the train reached Berry Street, two blocks from the ferries, the friction set on fire the rear motor car of the second train. The woodwork began to burn fiercely, and the passengers made a rush for the forward cars.

As the train passed the Driggs Avenue Station without stopping many of the passengers jumped from the cars to the station platform. Fortunately the train was moving at a slow rate of speed, and they escaped injury.

When the train had proceeded two blocks further on the fire on the car had increased to such an extent that it was brought to a stop, and vain efforts made by the train hands to extinguish it.

An alarm was turned in which brought the Fire Department to the scene. In the meantime many of the women and men climbed down to the footpath alongside the tracks and made their way to the next station, at Marcy Avenue.

The firemen had little difficulty in extinguishing the flames.

When the train finally reached the Marcy Avenue Station the majority of the passengers who had not left the train alighted and took the surface cars to their homes. The fire occurred at the time when the traffic was at its height.

WOMAN INDICTED FOR PERJURY.

Mrs. Schlagouski Was Accused of Aiding in Murdering Her Husband.

Mrs. Pauline Schlagouski, widow of John Schlagouski, for whose murder Toni Torckoffski was convicted and sentenced to death, was yesterday indicted for perjury.

Mrs. Schlagouski testified for the defense at the murder trial, and Torckoffski when sentenced confessed, accusing Mrs. Schlagouski of having assisted him in committing the murder.

District Attorney Clarke, believing that he could not convict the woman of murder on Torckoffski's evidence, secured the indictment for perjury. Judge Aspinall held the woman without bail.

MISS O'FLAHERTY HONORED.

Gifts Presented to the Worker in the Cause of Ireland.

Miss Mary O'Flaherty, a sister of the late Edward O'Flaherty, for several years President of the Irish Independent Party and of the Irish National Club, was the recipient last night of an engrossed address in Gaelic by John G. Lee, Celtic artist and illuminator, and a gold watch from the Daughters of '98, the Irish National Club, and the Edward O'Flaherty Branch of the United Irish League. The presentation took place at the rooms of the Irish National Club on 91 West Fifty-seventh Street.

Miss O'Flaherty will sail to-morrow for London, where she will be the guest of John E. Redmond, M. P., until the Irish Land Bill comes up for final passage in the House of Lords. Miss O'Flaherty is desirous of witnessing the passage of the bill, which in some measure will go to fulfill the hope and aim of her life work.

MAGISTRATES NOT OUSTED

Appellate Court Dismisses the Mott and Meade Charges.

Will Not Act Against Dying Magistrate Mott, and Magistrate Meade Is Recovering.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday dismissed the charges of physical and mental disability to perform his duties as City Magistrate, brought against Clarence W. Meade, and refused to consider the same charges against Magistrate John O. Mott, on the ground that the defendant had not been properly served.

In Magistrate Meade's case the ruling was in his favor because, according to a statement of his physician, he is regaining his health and will be able to resume his seat on the bench in the near future.

Attorneys for Magistrate Mott stated as a matter of fact that their client was dying. In their memorandum to the court they say:

"These proceedings were initiated at a time when the hand of death is upon him and nature is about to create a vancancy which neither the Legislature nor the courts can prevent. No man tenacious of life can be brought immediately to realize that his case is hopeless and that his duty is plain to resign, and especially is this the case with old age and gradual weakening of brain activity."

It was stated by counsel for Magistrate Mott that the Magistrate could not be served with papers, as he was too ill, and that his daughter had been served. Joseph W. Mack, who is a member of the City Club, contended that even with that service the case was before the court, but the court held differently. Justice Patterson, who made the statement, added that if there were any further developments to bring the case before the court by October it could come up then. Both Justice Hatch and Justice Laughlin said the court would not be in haste to take action in the case of a dying man.

Magistrate Meade was in the courtroom when the charges that he was unable to fulfill the duties of his office were recited. He looked wan, and walked with some difficulty, showing the effect of the slight stroke of paralysis which he suffered last Fall. David McClure, who appeared for him, said:

"We are any of us liable to have the hand of God laid upon us at any time. But that is no reason for removing a judicial officer. It must be shown that there is some misconduct; and that is not even alleged in this proceeding."

An affidavit from Mr. Meade's physician, Dr. Dorniing, stated that Mr. Meade had been improving in health, and held out hope of his complete recovery.

Nathan Bijur, of counsel for the petitioner, argued that Mr. Meade was unable to discharge his duties as Magistrate, and that it was not proper to spend public money in that sort of charity.

Instead of reserving decision and handing it down with the regular bulletin of decisions, as is the custom, the court, through Judge Patterson, announced its decision after a moment's consultation. Magistrate Meade smiled happily as his friends gathered about him and congratulated him.

Charles F. Blaney, counsel for the petitioner, said that nothing further would be done.

CONTRACT PROTECTS SCHWAB.

Carnegie Had a Condition That the Steel Trust President Stay in Office Five Years.

The appointment of W. E. Corey as assistant to the President of the United States Steel Corporation still continues a topic of great interest in Wall Street. Various reasons besides the official one are spoken of as having led to the appointment of an assistant to Mr. Schwab, who would have practically the entire management of the company in his hands. But gossip is also busy explaining why it is that Mr. Schwab was not retired absolutely from the office of President. While in some quarters the statement is made that the holdings of himself and of his friends in the stock of the corporation were large enough to continue him as President as long as he desired to remain at the head of the corporation, another explanation which has not hitherto been mentioned is that Mr. Schwab owes his continuing in the office to a contract which was entered into at the time that the Steel Corporation was first formed.

It seems that at that time Mr. Carnegie insisted as a condition precedent to his entering the combination that Mr. Schwab should be made chief officer of the great corporation. But to forestall the possibility of Mr. Schwab being forced out at the end of the first year, it is related that he further insisted that a condition be inserted in the contract under which his protégé would become President of the big trust, which would provide that he should be continued as head of the combination for at least five years.

While it was claimed yesterday that such a contract could be upset in the courts, the understanding is that the financial managers of the corporation and other large interests in the trust were unwilling that any disagreement which might exist should be aired in the courts, as it was felt that a controversy among the chief interests in the corporation would be the result to the benefit of the company's standing in the financial markets.

SERVICES AT BETH MIRIAM.

Prominent Visiting Rabbis to Preach at the Long Branch Temple.

In the Temple of the Congregation Beth Miriam, on North Bath Avenue, Long Branch, the Rev. Dr. Leon Harrison of the Temple Israel, St. Louis, will occupy the pulpit to-morrow morning. The congregation is now in its sixteenth year. It is the only representative Jewish house of worship in Monmouth County, and is made up largely of well-known citizens from New York who summer at the shore.

The Trustees have announced the following visiting ministers after Dr. Harrison: On July 11, the Rev. Dr. William Rosenau of Baltimore; on July 18, the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman of New York, and on July 25, the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy of Pittsburg.

ACCUSED OF MAKING THREATS.

Walton Webb of Charity Organization Society Locked Up.

Walton Webb, who at one time was a Deputy Clerk of the Court of General Sessions and recently has been connected with the Charity Organization Society, was arrested yesterday at his home, 414 West Fortieth Street, charged with having written threatening letters to Howard Von Glider of 140 West Eighty-fifth Street. Recorder Goff committed Webb to the Tombs in default of bail.

There were two letters, in one of which he is alleged to have accused Von Glider of having been connected with an illegal real estate transaction. In the second, he is said to have promised to say nothing about it on condition that Von Glider give him $300.

VACATION FOR GEN. GREENE.

Will Go with Gov. Odell on a Month's Trip.

Police Commissioner Greene announced yesterday that he would leave to-day on a month's hunting, fishing, and sightseeing trip through the West, as the guest of Gov. Odell.

When seen yesterday, the Commissioner said that some time would be spent in Yellowstone National Park. His place will be filled by First Deputy Commissioner Bingham. Capt. Piper will take the latter's place in Brooklyn.

Gen. Greene stated that he had appointed the full quota of Sergeants, Roundsmen, Captains, and Inspectors, and would wait until his return to appoint the 300 patrolmen recently allotted to him. He thought the eligible list would be ready by Aug. 1.

TRAINER OF FIREMEN QUITS.

Henry W. McAdam Retired After Instructing 20,000 Men.

Commissioner Sturgis retired Henry W. McAdam, the veteran Chief of Instruction of the Fire Department, yesterday. That post will be occupied to-day by Michael J. Fitzgerald, Captain of Truck Company No. 16.

"McAdam was retired at his own request," said the Commissioner last evening. "He had completed more than twenty years' service in the department and applied for permission to retire upon half pay, requesting that his application take effect from to-morrow morning."

McAdam had been in charge of the work in the School of Instruction since 1884, though he did not receive a formal appointment until 1897. During his term of office he had trained about 20,000 firemen. He was appointed to the Fire Department in September, 1874, was made an assistant foreman in 1881, and foreman of Ladder Truck No. 16 in 1888.

ROOSEVELT LETTER BARRED.

President's Commendation Ruled Out at Trial of Capt. Flood—Defendant Angry on the Stand.

Deputy Police Commissioner Piper, presiding over the trial of Capt. John J. Flood on charges of neglect of duty in failing to suppress disorderly houses while in command of the Tenderloin precinct, yesterday refused to receive as evidence a letter written by President Roosevelt in the interest of the accused commander. The letter was addressed to Jacob A. Riis, the sociologist, who was a witness in Capt. Flood's behalf. It was as follows:

White House, June 11, 1903.

My Dear Mr. Riis: In answer to your question I hasten to say that during my time as Police Commissioner I was most favorably impressed by Capt. Flood. I know nothing whatever as to his conduct since I left the department, but while I was in the department I saw him daily and watched him closely, and I grew to have entire faith in his ability, his integrity, and his courage. Two or three times I happened when I made a very strong impression upon me in his favor. Sincerely yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Frank Moss of the Parkhurst Society, which instigated the charges against Capt. Flood, made the objection to receiving the letter.

"The President of the United States cannot come here to be cross-examined," said Mr. Elkus, when Mr. Moss declared the letter to be "irrelevant."

"I would cross-examine him, and perhaps he would be the only one I would," retorted Mr. Moss.

The letter was ruled out, and Mr. Riis seemed much disconcerted. It was agreed that the missive should be given to Capt. Flood. Mr. Riis testified as to the character of Capt. Flood from his knowledge of many years.

Capt. Flood testified as to futile efforts to get evidence against the house kept by Laura Maures in West Thirty-third Street. Mr. Moss cross-examined him for an hour, and some of the questions caused the face of Capt. Flood to flush angrily. Mr. Moss asked if he had ever been instructed by the Chief of Police to keep his hands off certain houses.

"No," he fairly shouted. "I wouldn't have done it if I had been so instructed."

Capt. Piper refused a motion to dismiss the charges, and both sides agreed to submit briefs within a week.

RECEIVER SMITH TAKES HOLD.

Says Shipyard Trust's Condition Made Immediate Steps Necessary—An Attachment Served.

James Smith, Jr., the newly appointed receiver of the United States Shipbuilding Company, appeared in Wall Street yesterday and took formal possession of the company. After a long interview with Lewis Nixon he gave out the following statement:

"My movements to-day were made with a view of carrying out the orders of the court and to take formal possession of the United States Shipbuilding Company and its business. I found it necessary to take immediate steps to prevent demoralization with consequent loss. My desire is to conserve the interests of the bondholders and to keep the great business intact and to place it at the earliest possible moment upon a sound financial basis.

"No interruption in the uniform progress of the work is contemplated, as not only the United States Government, but also the great maritime and financial interests would be injuriously affected by anything that would delay the work of the plants."

Roland R. Conklin, Mack Nathan, and Jacob W. Mack have formed a protective committee, which has addressed a letter to the bondholders of the shipbuilding company, which reads in part as follows:

The receiver will immediately inaugurate a thorough and impartial investigation of the company's properties and affairs, the result of which will, we expect, give a somewhat different aspect to the value of your bonds, and which may also explain why the Bethlehem Company is not contributing out of its admittedly large net profits toward the Shipyards Company so as to enable the latter to reduce its floating debts and pay the interest on its bonds. When this report is made a plan will be presented by a committee representing the interests of depositing bondholders, which will give fair consideration to all interests without subordinating your first mortgage to the present second mortgage, and without subjecting your bonds and stock to an arbitrary voting trust.

To this end the co-operation of the bondholders is necessary and is now invited. The main purpose of this plan will be to keep all the properties intact as at present, as a going concern. Foreclosure is threatened and prompt action is necessary.

Deputy Sheriff Cronin received an attachment against the United States Shipbuilding Company for $4,700 yesterday in favor of Ernest G. Brückman for the amount due on 180 interest coupons due July 1, which were not paid. The attachment was granted on the ground that it is a New Jersey corporation and was served on the Mercantile Trust Company and upon several railroad companies.

ALLEGED THEFT IN CATHEDRAL.

Woman Accused Man in St. Patrick's of Stealing Her Purse.

As if he was in a hurry John Curry, twenty-nine years old, walked out of the front entrance of St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday afternoon. A minute later Usher John Fitzpatrick ran down the path after him. "Stop thief!" cried Mrs. Annie Murphy, emerging from the cathedral at a brisk pace, following the usher. Detectives Lynch and Carey were near at hand and arrested the fugitive. On his person was found a pocketbook containing $2.80, said to be the property of Mrs. Murphy.

While praying in one of the pews of the church, she said Curry entered and appeared to pray also. She missed her purse, she said, when Curry left.

Cunard Quits Atlantic Conference.

The announcement of the Cunard Steamship Company that it would withdraw from the North Atlantic conference went into effect yesterday, fourteen days' notice having been given. According to the officials of the company at the office on Broadway no orders had been received to make changes in freight or passenger rates.

Mr. Kempner Is Brooklyn's Executive.

With Borough President Swanstrom and Commissioner of Public Works Radfield away on vacations, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Otto Kempner is acting as the official head of the Borough of Brooklyn. Mr. Radfield started yesterday for Maine. Mr. Swanstrom will return to duty on Monday.

To Mortgage Brooklyn Library.

Justice Maddox, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday granted an application by the Brooklyn Library for leave to mortgage it property for the sum of $120,000. The mortgage is to be given in order to keep separate certain trust funds, given for specific purposes, when the library becomes part of the Brooklyn Public Library system.

New Assistant District Attorney.

District Attorney Jerome announced yesterday that he had appointed Joseph E. Corrigan, a nephew of the late Archbishop Corrigan, a Deputy Assistant District Attorney. Mr. Corrigan is twenty-six years old. He was graduated from Columbia College in 1901.

Gerken President United National.

John Gerken was elected President of the United National Bank yesterday.

FAST RACE UP THE BAY

The Vamoose and Asbury Park Beaten by the Arrow.

Charles R. Flint's Yacht Makes Twenty-Mile Run in Fifty-two Minutes, Using Only One Boiler.

Charles R. Flint's steam yacht Arrow in a race from the Atlantic Highlands to New York yesterday morning simply ran away from Jesse Lewisohn's steam yacht Vamoose and the new steamer Asbury Park of the New York-Asbury Park Line.

The finish of the race showed that the Flint craft had beaten the Vamoose by seventeen and the Asbury Park by fourteen minutes.

The two pleasure boats met by accident. Mr. Lewisohn went to the Highlands Wednesday afternoon with a party of friends for an outing, while Mr. Flint steamed down on a matter of business. About 9 o'clock yesterday morning the Vamoose started on her run to the city. A few minutes later the engines of the Arrow began to work, and the race was on. The Asbury Park, which is a new craft, was about a mile ahead, proceeding at full speed.

Mr. Lewisohn saw his rival of the past Summer first, and without a moment's delay ordered full steam on and started at break-neck speed. The Lewisohn boat had at this time a lead of about 500 yards.

The Arrow was using only one boiler, but that boiler "talked," according to her engineer, and, going at full speed, she commenced to lessen the distance between her and the Vamoose.

Mr. Lewisohn put on every pound of steam at his command, but in less than ten minutes the Arrow was on even terms with his boat. It was neck and neck for only a moment, though, and the Arrow, true to her name, shot past and began the chase to overhaul the fast Asbury Park, still the latter vessel ahead. Capt. Braisted of the latter craft saw the Arrow racing after him, but, like Mr. Lewisohn, he could not keep the distance clear between the craft, and in about five minutes the Arrow passed him, and the victory was won.

When she steamed up alongside the Battery Island her owner the Arrow had been on the way exactly fifty-two minutes, which was considered excellent time for the twenty miles run by Mr. Flint, especially since the Arrow has only been in commission a short time.

Mr. Flint's office yesterday it was said that Mr. Flint would in all probability make an attempt to lower the mile record for fast steaming now held by the Arrow, whose recorded time for the performance is one minute and fifteen seconds, made on the Hudson last Summer.

NEGROES BREAK UP MEETING.

One of Them Accused of Stabbing Polish Cementmaker.

Two negroes were locked up in the East Sixty-seventh Street Station last night for breaking up the meeting of the Polish Cement Makers, which was being held in the rear of a saloon in East Sixty-third Street, between First and Second Avenues, and for assaulting one of the members of the organization. They gave their names as George Eave, twenty-six years old, address refused, and Marion Jones, eighteen years old, of 187 East Seventy-fifth Street. They were arrested on the complaint of John Leskowits of 41 Jefferson Street, who was not only roughly handled, but received several cuts about the head with a knife.

The Polish Cement Makers held their monthly meeting yesterday, and there was a large number in attendance. Business of importance was being transacted, and all the doors leading into the room were closed. The partition, however, was very thin, and in one place there was a large crack. The negroes were curious as to what was going on inside, and both put their heads to the crack. They were discovered by the members and requested to go away. The negroes, it is alleged, refused to go, and a fight resulted. The owner of the saloon, with the assistance of several men, put them out of the place.

In the street the fight was resumed in earnest. The negroes were getting badly the best when Leskowits cried that Mack had been stabbed and the negroes started on a run, followed by the crowd.

Policeman Rahseld of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station saw the crowd, and with the assistance of Roundsman Sexton of the Madison Street Station, who jumped off a Second Avenue car, arrested the negroes. Leskowits, it was found, had been stabbed several times in the head, and he was removed to the Flower Hospital. At the station house, when searched by the policeman, an open knife was found in Eave's pocket. He was identified later at the hospital by Leskowits as the man who had stabbed him. The injured man lost a great deal of blood, but it is thought that his injuries will not prove fatal.

TO DO AWAY WITH STRIKES.

Builders and Workmen in Washington Enter Into Arbitration Agreement.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—An agreement was entered into to-day between the Employers' Association of the Building Trades of this city and the Council of the Allied Building Trades of the Central Labor Union, by which strikes and lock-outs will be avoided in the future. It is agreed that all grievances arising between employer and employe shall be submitted to a board of arbitration, and that there shall be no suspension of operations during the pendency of the dispute and the efforts of the board of arbitration to reach a satisfactory settlement.

The board of arbitration is to be composed of eleven members, each party to the dispute selecting five. The eleventh member, who acts as umpire, will be chosen by the board. A majority vote is to decide all questions. There have been several lock-outs lately, but the arbitration having been agreed upon the Employers' Association will make arrangements with the individual trades under which work will be resumed.

STRIKER SENT TO PRISON.

Six Months and a Fine for Assault on Non-Union Workman.

William Sweeney, one of the Hudson River Tunnel strikers at Jersey City, who six weeks ago assaulted John Blesar, a non-union worker, was yesterday sentenced by Judge John A. Blair, in the General Sessions Court, to six months imprisonment in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $100.

"If you stood alone in this matter," said Judge Blair, in passing sentence, "the court might be inclined to leniency, but you represent a body of men who consider themselves above the law. Every man has a right to sell his labor for what he pleases, and should not be interfered with. The right to labor must be secured as guaranteed by the law."

Opposed to Amended Malting Plan.

The stockholders' committee of the American Malting Company, headed by Joseph Leiter, which recently successfully opposed the first plan of the Reorganization Committee has now sent a circular to stockholders objecting to the amended plan of reorganization, which was made public a few days ago. The objections against the old plan are declared to be holding good against the new plan, and the statement is made that the company needs new management more than anything else.

H. B. SEELEY'S WIFE SUES.

Both Parties Silent as to Action for Which a Referee Has Been Named.

Action in a suit brought by Lucie Seeley against her husband, Herbert Barnum Seeley, was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Truax, who appointed Warren S. Burt, a lawyer of 99 Nassau Street, referee to hear testimony. The papers in the suit did not indicate on what grounds the suit was brought. Justice Truax, in making the appointment, said that he did so with the consent of the lawyers on both sides, and on pleadings which did not appear in the papers. Ormiston & McCormack of 27 William Street are counsel for the plaintiff and Hull & Horton of 2 Broad Street are acting for the defendant.

The necessary papers in the suit were served on Mr. Seeley in the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Twenty-fourth Street and Thirteenth Avenue. Mr. Seeley's lawyers, as well as those of Mrs. Seeley, refused absolutely to discuss the case.

Mrs. Seeley was Miss Lucie Mitchell, a daughter of the late Archibald Paul Mitchell, and was married to Mr. Seeley on New Year's Day, 1900, at the residence of the bride's mother, 33 West Seventy-first Street.

Herbert Barnum Seeley came into prominence over six years ago through a dinner which he arranged for his brother, Clinton Barnum Seeley, who was married shortly afterward to Miss Florence Tuttle. The dinner took place at Sherry's on the night of Dec. 19, 1896, and when it was at its height was interrupted by the arrival of Police Captain Chapman, who arrested some of the diners and several women who were giving a vaudeville entertainment.

Chapman was later put on trial for raiding the dinner, but the charges were dismissed by the Police Commissioner. He said at the trial that the exhibition was improper and a violation of the law. Mr. Seeley, however, said that the performance was not as bad as the Captain asserted.

Mr. Seeley is the grandson of the late P. T. Barnum, by whose will he inherited an estate of about $400,000. He has been engaged in various business ventures, and until recently was in a brokerage firm with his brother Clinton Seeley.

GUARDIAN TRUST'S FUTURE.

Reported Negotiations for Consolidation with Eastern Trust Company.

It was reported yesterday in banking circles that negotiations were under way for the consolidation of the Guardian Trust Company, from the Presidency of which Bird S. Coler retired the other day, and the Eastern Trust Company, which is situated at 115 Broadway. While direct confirmation was not vouchsafed that the consolidation would be effected, an official of the Eastern Trust Company indicated the possibility that such a thing might happen by declaring that as yet they had nothing to say.

Mr. Coler himself some time ago hinted that the control of the Guardian Trust was wanted by some other company, but he would not say anything more. In Wall Street the report found general credence. It is understood that the offer for the control has been made at a figure slightly over the 200 mark. It is known, however, that some of the leading interests in the Guardian Trust Company desire to continue the company as an independent concern and that they are opposed to any consolidation scheme.

Mr. Coler has sent a circular to the depositors of the Guardian Trust Company asking them to continue their support of the company under its new President, F. W. Woolworth.

DOG CAUSES SALOON PANIC.

Animal Snapped at Wildly Fleeing Patrons—Lassoed by Bartender.

A supposed mad dog cleared out the saloon of Frederick Hahn at Twentieth Street and Eighth Avenue yesterday afternoon, after he had created a panic on the avenue. Fifteen men were in the saloon, when they heard shouts outside. As they ran to the door a small black dog ran into the saloon. It began to snap at the patrons, who fled in terror.

The dog jumped up on the bar and then down behind it. Daniel Kelsher, the bartender, vaulted over the bar in lively fashion. Running to the rear room he secured a rope and made a noose in it.

With his improvised lariat he captured the dog and dragged it to the street, where it was shot by Roundsman Brady of the West Twentieth Street Station.

DOG CREATES EXCITEMENT.

Causes Commotion in Streets of Williamsburg Until Shot.

A mongrel dog, which had all the symptoms of rabies, caused considerable excitement yesterday among people in the neighborhood of South Fourth Street and Bedford Avenue, Williamsburg, by running wildly through the street, biting and snarling at every object that came in his way.

The animal first made its appearance at South Second Street and Bedford Avenue, where it made an attempt to enter a grocery store. Then it ran after a trolley car of the Crosstown line, which was passing at the time, and caused much excitement among the passengers who feared that the dog would board the car as soon as it stopped. The motorman seeing the dog, and aware of the excitement among the passengers put on full speed and the animal was soon lost from sight.

The dog next ran along the sidewalk, and in front of the Dakota apartment house, between South Third and South Fourth Streets, he caused much excitement among three women who were leaving the building.

The animal became exhausted in the street, while attempting to reach a butcher shop in the neighborhood, and was shot by a policeman.

CAREFUL CARPET CLEANING

LEGAL NOTES.

PROCURING LEGISLATION FOR PRIVATE BENEFIT.—A decision of the Westchester County Special Term of the Supreme Court holding libelous an article charging a plaintiff with endeavoring to procure legislation relieving him of a sewer assessment and imposing the cost of building the sewer on the city has been reversed by the Second Appellate Division. Justice William Bartlett, for the court, said, in part, of the article: "It does not charge the plaintiff with having done anything which he had not a legal right to do. * * * Any citizen who sees fit to do so may properly endeavor to procure such legislation. His motive or conduct in so doing involves no moral turpitude, and the most unfavorable construction that can be taken of it is that which is suggested in the article in question—that it is a self-seeking proceeding, and that
